Numerous transient setbacks took place, but none of a radical sort and all of them apparently without special significance. Most of the trade was special significance. Most of the trade was special significance. Most of the trade was of a local character, and the readiness with which offerings were absorbed had a ten-dency to make sellers cautions. Beside smallness of receipts here attracted some notice from the bulls, despite the fact that the June option appeared relatively weak. It was pointed out that the bulk of arrivals of late have come from Illinois alone. Hedging sales together with ideal weather tended to keep down values in the cats mar-ket. Pershing Tells the Boys To Write Home Oftener

In his fatherly advice to the men under his command in France "to write home frequently and regularly, General Pershing gives first thought-to the soldiers' families and relatives. The men of the American expeditionary forces are certain to receive all the care that a watchful government can afford them. Their physical needs will be liberally supplied, their moral and bodily welfare will be diligently protected. In these respects no other army will fare better. But only the soldiers as individuals can perform for themselves the special duties that General Pershing brings to their

In the excitement of active service the young fellow is likely to forget the poignant anxiety weighing upon members of his family who picture him as living in the constant presence of danger. They are haunted by fore-bodings of harm, they are fed on news of fighting of which the details ings and the events in which he

Fairbanks Largest Land

Charles W. Fairbanks, former vicepresident, who died recently at Indianapolis, Ind., was reputed to be one of the largest land owners in Illinois, his possessions including 13,-000 acres in Green county, fifty-five miles northeast of St. Louis. The place was known as the "Fairbanks o Ranch," and was said to be one of the richest pieces of land in the state because of its location, about 18 miles northeast of Jerseyville, in the lowlands of the county.

land about eight years ago. He supervised the work of constructing drainage systems on either side of the ranch and also bought dredge boats and machinery. The land is now valued at $1,500,000. Its crops this year include 2,000 acres of wheat and 3,000 acres of corn. Besides this tract Mr. Fairbanks is said to be the holder of 1,000 acres near Whitehall, also in Green county.
