Make the Garden Work Overtime

If the housewife of America heeds the advice of the United States Department of Agriculture, by fall she will have the shelves of her pantry filled with food from her own home garden, or if she has no space for a garden she will use both vegetables and fruits in season.

"Don't fail to gather in season and can the wild things—like wild, mustard, cowslip, and pokeberries—they are wholesome food. Canning and garden literature will be furnished free from the United States Department of Agriculture."

My Hat Diary

By—Carita Herzog

I did enjoy my afternoon so much looking at Yvonne Chapin's "up-to-the-minute" hats. She had a very bewitching little hat that could be worn on almost any occasion and yet be appropriate.

Women as Finger-Print Experts

Women have proved their ability to become expert in finger-print work, according to Henry P. de Forest of the New York Civil Service commission.

"The experience that I have had leads me to believe that women are particularly adapted for finger-print work," says Mr. de Forest.

Since war activities demand the materials used to use in our favorite old-fashioned pastries we find that the novelty of the new dishes offered completely dispels any feeling of disappointment we might even have suspected some of the worst food stand-patters ever had.

Home Economics

Edited by IRMA H. GROSS, HOUSEHOLD ARTS DEPT. CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

Why Object to Paper in a Refrigerator

"Everybody knows that food wrapped in paper will spoil quickly," firmly remarked a woman to me recently. As a matter of fact, I think everybody does not have that information, nor is it true information in my opinion.

Co-Operation

Mrs. Gross will be very glad to receive suggestions for the home economics column or to answer, as far as she is able, any questions that her readers may ask.

food, it is not good for a first wrapping. Parchment paper combines the good qualities of oil paper—for it does not stick and is somewhat water-proof—and brown paper, for it is rather strong.

Berries and Vegetables In Great Variety Here

Berries and small fruits are in the height of their glory on the Omaha markets in great variety.

Home-grown or "sour" cherries are plentiful, but this week will about see the last of them. They are cheap at present.

Big, sweet cherries from California are also on the market in good quantities. They bring about 25 cents a pint box. Strawberries are still with us at 20 cents a pint box.

Watermelons are not yet as plentiful as usual at this time of the year. The bigger sizes now command about $1.40 each.

ly plentiful and of good flavor and cost from 10 to 20 cents each.

Tomatoes are getting more abundant and now sell at 12 to 15 cents a pound.

Oranges are scarce and command high prices. Apples have well nigh disappeared from the market.

Potatoes of the old crop seem to have vanished from the market, although notice of an enormous supply was given out not many weeks ago.

Green peas, stringbeans, spinach, lettuce and all the standard vegetables are in fine quality and quantity on local markets.

How to Balance the Summer Diet

In giving advice about the family purse and its relation to children's food, Mrs. Max West of the children's bureau, United States Department of Labor, says:

"It is a good plan to divide the money that may be spent for food in some such way as the following: (a) Spend from one-quarter to one-third of the total food money for bread, cereals, macaroni and rice."

(b) Buy at least from one-third to one-half a quart of milk a day for each member of the family.

(c) Spend as much for fruit and vegetables together as for milk.

(d) Spend not more for meat and eggs together than for vegetables and fruit. The amount spent for meat may be decreased as the amount spent for milk increases.

"It has been found that many families spend an entirely undue amount of their food allowance for meat which is the most expensive article of food on the market."

Ten Ways to Conserve

1. If you really need bread eat wheatless bread like this: Barley and Oat Bread.

2. Save all crumbs. You will find a dozen uses for them.

3. Eat one potato and forget about the bread.

4. Do not leave the soap in the water. Fat is scarce.

5. Eat local vegetables and fruits.

6. Turn off the flame "In between times" when you are not using it. Matches cost less than gas.

7. Use all dairy products. Never waste a drop of milk.

8. Use sugar with the greatest care. Do not order more than you need for canning.

9. Do not eat more than you need. To do so is hard on your health and your pocketbook and will help to lose the war.

10. Keep the soup kettle simmering. Here is one of England's soup recipes.
