

E. F. SHARRAR ENDS LIFE AT FREMONT BY SHOT IN HEAD

Had Been Prominent in Business for Quarter Century; Oldest Woman in Dodge County Dies.

Fremont, Neb., June 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Edward M. Sharrar, 56, agent for the Nye Schneider, Fowler company, and prominent business man of Hooper, shot himself through the head at the office of the company this morning and died instantly. Mr. Sharrar had resigned as agent at Hooper to take a similar position with the elevator company at West Point, and it is said worry over severing his connections with the Fremont concern caused him to become despondent.

Mr. Sharrar had been with the company for 25 years, most of that time as agent at Hooper. He served as a member on the Hooper town board for a period and was active in community affairs. His brother, Frank, has been manager of the Farmers' elevator at West Point. Surviving Mr. Sharrar are his wife and four sons.

Mrs. John Andrews, the oldest resident of Dodge county, died at the Andrews farm home in the Glencoe vicinity, at the age of 96. Mrs. Andrews came to America from Ireland with her husband in the late 50s and Mr. Andrews was a soldier during the civil war. They located in Dodge county on a farm, where they have since made their home. Mr. Andrews was Mrs. Andrews' junior by a few years.
