Conducted by Ella Fleishman A STATE OF THE STA

Thriller Staged Before Culmination of Pretty Romance When a war bridegroom drops ing camp that he may play a co-star mer in Chicago and New York. part at his own wedding many times he has as many worries and tribula-tions as the bride herself. Capt. Rob-ert Burns, who heeded wedlock's welkin last week, was a nervous man for many days before the nuptials took place.

The young officer didn't know defi-nitely until Tuesday that he could obtain his leave of absence, and as the great day fell on Saturday you can imagine that his mind was not entirely on "squads right and squads left" all of the time.

But Uncle Sam is really a kindhearted soul under his fierce military exterior and as a wedding gift he granted a seven days' leave of ab-sence to the captain. You probably A picnic da think that the rest was clear sailing and all that was necessary was to pin the bride's veil in place and pull out the stops in the organ for the ever famous wedding march, but not Follow us closely and we will tell you of a wild ride from Des Moines to our own fair city.

Capt. Malcolm Baldrige, who was to be best man, is the "possessor" not of a beautiful soprano voice but of a beautiful Packard car, and in high spirits the two friends left Des Moines one lovely June day, anticipating a when one tire collapsed entirely, but the damage was soon repaired and they rolled merrily on. But, we must had the pleasure of repairing five ried to the rescue in her car.

to hot weather schedule the stores tives in America. close at 6. But the feat was accomwith military uprightness at the chancel rail, his pretty bride on his arm, you would never have guessed most merciful and helpful work and made by the canteen division of the Rodstrom-Mackay Wedding.

Mackay to Mr. Warren Rodstrom residence of Rev. Arthur J. Morris, Rev. Morris performing the cere-

The bride was attended by her sis- America. Queen of all Nations, ter, Mrs. Edward J. Pects, and the best man was Mr. Peets. The wedding was very informal, as the bridegroom expects to be called to the colors very soon.

Enters Business World.

her vacation to serving Uncle Sam office of the Nebraska Telephone company every morning on the stroke

The Columbian club will entertain Wednesday afternoon at its hall, Twenty-second and Locust streets.

Mesdames E. J. O'Hern and Frank

For woman her bondage has broken. Fogerty will be hostesses.

Four Nebraska Women Enter Order of Poor Sisters of St. Francis

Lafayette, Ind., June 28 .- (Special Telegram)—The reception of novices and sisters into the Poor Sisters of Saint Francis of Perpetual Adoration will take place at St. Elizabeth hospital this morning with elaborate ceremonics at which Right Rev. Herman Joseph Alerding, bishop of Fort Wayne diocese, will invest the new sisters with the vows of the order.

Before mass 13 sisters will take perpetual vows. The young women who will receive the habit are Anna Bis-hoff, Evanston, 111.; Cecila Many, Indianapolis, Ind.; Dorothea Hoffman, Cincinnati, O .; Gertrude Hau, St. Benard, O.; Francasca Merz, Cincinnati, O.; Elizabeth Bach, Indianapolis, Ind.; Frances Cetta Shimek, Tarno, Neb.; Thresa Groeger and Antonionette Schmidt, Humphreys, Neb.; Lucia Writbold, Lincoln, Neb.; Margaret Reinhardt, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Carolina Strinkorb, Cincinnati, O., and Clara Kopp, St. Paul, Minn,

Recreation Drive for the Children

As part of its children's year work the woman's committee, Council of National Defense, is starting a recreation drive for the purpose of providing healthful, constructive amusement for children.

'War changes family life and social life," says a circular just issued. More particularly it increases the changes that children will play to their own andoing. To the other risks of juvenile delinquency and physical deterioration war brings a new group of malevolent influences." Because the circumstances of the present summer make watchfulness in vacation time especially important the woman's committee and the children's bureau, co-operating with the playground association of Ameri-July and August. Chairmen of will plan a special program for recreation will be appointed in communities, and, working through its state divisions, the woman's committee will aid in enlisting persons interested in vacation schools, athletics, drama leagues, community singing, and folk dancing.

Mrs. Bernard E. Pollak of New York City, the new president of the National League of Women Workers, is a native of Cincinnati and a grad-

Personals

Mrs. Herbert T. Rockefeller and granddaughter, Miss Elva Thompsett, right out of a clear sky and a train- left Omaha Sunday to spend the sum-

Miss Vernelle Head has as her guest Miss Elizabeth Varnell of Knoxrille, Tenn., who is her roommate at Rosemary Hall, New York. They leave Tuesday, accompanied by Miss Head's mother, Mrs. W. W. Head, for St. Joseph, Mo., to spend some time at the Head country home.

Later in the season Mrs. and Miss Head will go to Lake Placid, New York, where they will remain until the opening of school in the fall. Capt. Malcolm Baldrige has returned to Camp Dodge after spending the week-end in Omaha.

A picnic dance will be given the members of the Friendship club, Thursday evening at Hanscom park. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock.

Casualty Searchers Are Wanted By Red Cross

An unusual opportunity for war service has come to clergymen and to Christian laymen, according to Rev. Clyde F. Armitage of the federal council of the churches. The American Red Cross has sent out a call for 35 glorius ride with Captain Baldrige at men, who must be above draft age, American citizens of undoubted lov-Only a few miles had been covered alty, and not born in any country with which we are at war.

These volunteers will be known as "casualty searchers." They are to sehurry on, too, and tell you that be- cure information that will supplement fore they reached the metropolis of the meager details concerning wound-Council Bluffs the two captains had ed and missing men who are recorded by the War department. These "caspunctures. In desperation they 'phon- ualty searchers" will visit the sick and ed Mrs. Charles T. Kountze, who hur- wounded, gathering information concerning their condition, their service, The bridegroom's troubles were and their unfinished business at home. not over, however, for he had not yet and conveying this information purchased all the necessary little de- through the War department's bureau tails for the wedding. And according of communication to the men's rela-

When a man is missing the searcher plished and had you seen the stalwart does all that he can to find out from captain on Saturday evening standing the soldier's comrades where he was what difficulties he had met and over- will mean in thousands of instances the wounded man and to his friends," said a representative of the federal council. "The value of this work has of the Union station. The Red Cross The wedding of Miss Mollie already been proved in the British will be in charge of them when the

"Woman's Day"

Tune: "Red, White and Blue." America, Queen of all Nations, Thy daughters bring homage to thee!
We offer our lives as libations
To pour to thy shrine, Liberty!
As shoulder to shoulder advancing.
We march with a song and a cheer Toward our goal, every eye forward glancing.

The triumph of woman is near! Miss Virginia Pixley is devoting Three cheers, woman's day dawns anew! Three cheers for our cause just and true! her vacation to serving Uncle Sam As shoulder to shoulder advancing and is to be found at her desk in the We march 'neath the Red, White and Blue!

of 8. Mrs. Earle Kipliner and Miss Marion Coad are also employed there.

Card Party.

Down the ages there comes sortly stealing
The echo of voices in prayer;
We, too, for our victory appealing
Pray justice may reign everywhere.
For woman her bondage has broken.
As with man in life's battles she fights;
Her work and her winnings betoken That woman is gaining her rights.

CHORUS:

To march 'neath the Red. White and Blue -- MARY A. STERN. Wise Woman's Choice

By GERTRUDE BERESFORD

ate beadwork gives a stunning effect even the retailer, for he finds that he to this otherwise simple frock of that makes as good or better net profit by material. The bib line of the bodice selling a large quantity quickly at a Thorne's is most becoming to the well-devel- low price than he did by selling a few at 1812 Farnam street, show all sorts bead embroidery. The scant under-skirt of georgette is only wide enough ing service has operated representa-some beltless, buttonless, etc. All of bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to

My Hat Diary

Carita Herzog

Hats, hats, hats! I never saw so many hats in my life! If Yvonne Chapin has as many hats all her life as she has for her "honeymoon trousseau" I pity that very good-looking captain that married her. I'm sure that buying hats for Mrs. Yvonne Chapin Brooks would soon become very monotonous. She said absolutely that a bride's wardrobe is incomplete without at least one golf hat. This was a khaki-colored satin tam, made very simply, but at the same time attractive. The tam was high o the right side and the fullness pulled to the left side and tacked securely. A tassel hung from a button (at the top of the tam) to below it. The tassel was of gold thread and made the whole thing look very military. I'm sure Yvonne will look extremely charming on the golf links and that she will not have a bit difficult time to find a willing caddy.

been on Red Cross business.

L. F. Trester is attending a Junior Red Cross meeting in Washington. He will return July 8.

Red Cross, has been realized through more than can ever be estimated to the aid of W. M. Jeffers, general n.an-men on the trains remain in the city long enough to enjoy the refresh- DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: ment of a cool shower.

Market Columns for Women

The market column in the newspaway every housewife will understand. | est, homey nort,

It has been the custom to quote wholesale prices, when the average woman bought in small quantities. and, therefore, there was no way of determining when retailers were charging unfair prices. In Providence, R. I.; Boston, Mass.; Chicago, Ill.; Springfield, Mass.; Cleveland, O.; St. Paul, Minn.; Grand Rapids, Mich., and Denver, Colo., the housewife can become as "marketwise" as the huckster or the grocer, because local market reporting service, conducted by the bureau of markets, in co-operation with local agencies, is making public in nontechnical form information about current food producers, consumers and dealers. brought in by local grocers, dairy, poultry, and meat products and certain dry groceries, such as flour, meals, dry beans, rice, etc. These reports carry headlines such as "Market ing Guide for Boston Consumers." followed by a few paragraphs of comment on daily market conditions that affect the housewife. In most cases the "abundant," "normal," and "scarce" foods are listed under these headings. "This sort of publicity has the double effect of helping the housewife to set her table more economically and also of preventing gluts of products, or at least greatly lessening their du-ration," said G. V. Branch of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. "Our local agents are constantly watching the market, and when a glut is expected in a certain fruit, for instance, he begins to tell the housewife to get jars and sugar ready for canning. Sometimes he gives recipes. In this way the demand is increased and considerable spoilage is avoided. "Briefly, the situation works out along the following lines: The housewife is informed through the local press reports that tomatoes are plentiful and that the retailer is paying 75 cents a bushel, or about 91/2 cents a half peck. The consumer compares this information with the price that the retail dealer is charging, and if the price is unreasonably high the retailer is soon forced by the demands of his patrons to make a fair charge. HEN a wise woman wants to Consumers then buy so freely, when look her loveliest she wears the price is lowered, that the glut is pink georgette crepe. Elabor- consumed, to the advantage of all uate of Vassar, and has long been identified with sociological movements of national scope.

| Growers report that prices have been stabilized and losses greatly reduced. | well as the more conservative shades, from $5.00 to $19.75.

Right Off the Reel

Who wouldn't have the mumps if he could catch 'em from Marguerite patriotic farm worker.) Clark? Charles C. Ayres got a kiss and the mumps from the little Para-mount star when she was in Chicago selling Liberty bonds. Charles is 11 years old. He was so proud of those of A mumps that after his recovery when they were making four-minute speeches in the Lincoln school he told about them and was awarded the certificate for the best speech.

Benjamin Chester Chapin, famous for his impersonations of Abraham Lincoln on the stage and in motion pictures, died at the Loomis sanitor-ium at Liberty, N. Y., on Sunday evening, June 1

Mabel Normand is barely five feet tall. One of those "little but O my's!"

Marguerite Clark is quite the whole thing in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," she plays the two roles of Little Eva and Topsy. In filming the picture she was compelled to change from one make-up to another at least 100 times.

Motion picture patrons throughout the country will chalk up another score against the kaiser when they learn that he is responsible for separating that popular screen duo, Jack Pickford and Louise Huff. Jack has given up his profession and joined the navy because the Hun decided to make the world unsafe for democracy.

The screen will show what a semiropical hurricane looks like when Metro releases "A King in Khaki," a picturized version of Henry Kitchell Webster's romantic tale starring Harold Lockwood. The hurricane scenes of the picture have just been made razed to the ground.

Dorothy Dalton's new picture, Green Eyes," is a negro camp meeting in which hundreds of colored brederen and sisteren" were employ-Frank Judson will return Wednes- ed to make it realistic. They worked day from Washington, where he has themselves into such a fine frenzy of religious fervor that it was all Director Neill could do to bring them out of it at the finish.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

At Her Home? Yes.

Do you think a girl 16 should have be having any boy friends at her home. They

CHORUS:

CHORUS:

Three cheers, woman's day dawns anew!
Three cheers for our cause just and true:
As shoulder to shoulder advancing
We march 'neath the Red, White and Blue!

Down the ages there comes softly stealing
The echo of voices in prayer;
We, too, for our victory appealing.
Pray justice may reign everywhere.

We work has borders has been as a conditions of the burden of the burden day and serious as need be tactful and satisfied from morbid currest than a girl who cities and in other large centers of population, where plans are being made for the department to co-operate with editors, market conditions are less than a contract of the department to co-operate with editors, market conditions are being made for the department to co-operate with editors, market conditions are less than a simple, unselfconscious attitude toward the companionship of boys and men is safeguarded from morbid curred to soft, and men is safeguarded from morbid curred to shoulder advancing to make his wife.

I try always to be kind and courteous attitude toward the companionship of boys attitude toward the companionship of the companionship of the safe true attitude toward the companionship of the safe true attitude toward the companionship of the safe true attitude toward the companionship brought up to take a simple, unselfconscious ate with editors, market conditions home becomes the center of "good times," and prices will be presented in a and so the good times are of a simple, hon-

Newspapers, Magazines.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a young man and do not have kindly suggest what I shall read? SAM.

is a myth.

Too Much Effort,

Dear Miss Fairfax: Are all men enigmas? have, on different occasions, met several who, at first sight, have taken a fancy to me. From them I have accepted sev-eral invitations, and always when leaving

COLD PACK METHOD IN 12 SHORT STEPS

No. 5

To fill jars with vegetables or fruits, after blanching and cold dipping, a fruit funnel is useful, says the National War Garden Commission. The process is shown above. Watch for step No. 6. Send a two-cent stamp to Commission at Washington for a free primer.

oped figure, and nohing is more grace- at a higher price with much loss ful than the bias tunic, weighted with through spoliation. "In communities where the report- less, some collarless, some skirtless, scaln soft and the hair fine and silky to step comfortably. This gown will tives of all classes concerned with develop beautifully in any shade of marketing problems feel that the

"Dreamland Adventures" By Daddy—"Foes of the Farmer" A complete, new adventure each week beginning Monday and ending Saturday

CHAPTER I. The Food Destroyers. MERICA, to win the war, must raise great crops of food for its army and its allies."

Thus Peggy read in the newspaper. The item started her thinking. "Wasn't it a good thing I tamed the Giant and made him a grower of tarmer heard her snicker and whirled remarked.

just an eater, he is now a feeder. I along. It was the same farmer who had carried Peggy into the country the time she had reformed the Giant. "If I only had some Camouflage Perfume—" Peggy stopped short in the midst of her wish. Something had dropped out of the oak tree above her head and struck her on the nose. She had sent to her with the message:

sniff and a whiff of this acord Will make you as if you had never bee born. A splash and a dush as you'll agree Will hide you in air so none can see.

Peggy eagerly picked up the acorn and took a sniff of it. Sure enough it was Camouflage Perfume, and it gusted. worked, for her body instantly faded from view. She had to hurry if she was going to catch a ride, for the farmer was starting his engine. She hopped on and they show an entire village being the farmer grew nervous. He remembered the strange happenings on One of the most effective scenes in the trip when he carried Peggy before, open-mouthed astonishment.

The trip when he carried Peggy before, open-mouthed astonishment.

"Gosh!" he exclaimed. "You're one tin previous adventures Peggy has been power to hurry past the spooky place. of them folks that talk to spirits, Peggy knew now just what button I'm going to get out of here.' to push to stop the motor. When started his engine in a hurry and flew they were opposite the Dalton farm, down the road in a cloud of dust. where the Giant was working, she The Giant laughed, for he remembered leaned over and pressed the button. how upset he had been when he first

The engine stopped and the truck heard Peggy talking out of the thin slowed down. "Spirits again!" groaned the farmer, so scared that Peggy snickered out with a glow of pleasure. Everything loud. It was funny for him to be seemed to be growing splendidly. afraid of a little girl, even if she was food," she mused. "Instead of being about. He was badly mystified. wonder how his crops are getting after this," he muttered. He started Then Peggy noticed he wasn't look-Just then a farm truck drew up was still moving too fast for Peggy worried. next door to deliver butter and eggs. to jump off, she once more pushed the stopping button. The engine spluttered and quit. The farmer, much soldier boys, nor our Allies, nor our flustered, put out his hand to the people at home?" starting button and it touched Peggy.

"Wow!" shouted the farmer, "A puzzled. spirit has got me! Help! Help!" Peggy snickered again, and the voice, and there was the Giant of the Woods looking over the top of a hedge.

"Spirits!" yelled the farmer. They've attacked me!"

The Giant of the Woods looked dis-"I guess it's the kind of spirits you get in a rumshop," he retorted. Peggy jumped off the truck and ran to the

"It's only me!" she laughed. The Giant started in surprise, then his the motortruck and away they went, the motortruck and away they went, face lighted up.

When the neared Birdland Woods, "My invisible fairy," he shouted. "I've been wishing you'd come." The farmer looked at the Giant in of her age, but her parents object to her Complete the letters of Simon's sign—they will spell the name of a movie star. Answer to previous puzzle—VANDYKE pers of eight cities in the United

The forbidden has a dangerous charm. A young sire who has boy friends and is just the sort of girl a man would be happy to make his wife.

The forbidden has a dangerous charm. A young sire who has boy friends and is just the sort of girl a man would be happy to make his wife.

cease calling. I cannot remember a time I have in any way injured them, nor can I repreach myself for my treatment of them. What is the matter?

DILEMMA.

Perhaps you are one of those girls who take themselves and their good points so am I. seriously that after a time they weigh on the consciousness of those who know the one pan of the scale there is your much time for reading, as I want to be them-begin to bore and tire their friends. able to keep up with and be able to talk Perhaps you are too self-conscious and weighs heavier? It does not matter one on current events intelligently. Will you elaborately charming. Perhaps you have bit who is in the right or who is in the the fatal habit of thinking too much of wrong; what counts is who is generous yourself and so of talking too much about enough to say, "I am sorry." Of course, One look at the newstand nowadays, and yourself. And perhaps your "pride" makes you don't want to "run after" any man; the question becomes, not what shall you you touchy and difficult to get on with. but if you have had a misunderstanding. read, but what dare you omit reading? The Perhaps, too, you give the impression of why not seek an explanation as simply and editorials in the newspapers are an educa- "husband-hunting"—of taking your men naturally as you would if your trouble were tion in themselves, and if you add a friends and their attentions too seriously, with a girl. monthly magazine of the "review" type At all events it is evident that men tire of and one or two of the good weeklies you you. Can't you stand off and analyze your will get plenty of material for conversa- failing instead of your good points? Can't tion. Read as you travel to and from you have a frank and friendly talk with supplies and prices for the benefit of work, give an hour before you go to bed someone who knows you? Your letter does at night and two hours or so every Sun- not reveal enough of yourself for me to The reports include shipped-in day to your pursuit of information, and undertake a serious diagnosis of your case fruits and vegetables, as well as those you will discover that your lack of time -it is general, not specific. I have an idea that you try too hard to please, and that so you undo the effects of your natural charm.

Making New Friends.

Dear Miss Fairfax: Since all the eligible young men have gone to war, we girls are so lonely. Couldn't you suggest a way for some charming, attractive and beautiful young ladies to become acquainted with some nice young men? Of course we are too refined to use stringent methods, so please suggest some delicate way of establishing acquaintanceship. Sincerely yours, BLUE EYES and BROWN EYES.

Yours seems to be the fate of "women in wartime." I can understand your predicament for in the small towns, especially, a girl's life is very empty these days with all her men friends in the service. There are many activities open to women, and we must content ourselves with doing the work nearest at hand until the men come marching home. Your friends in khaki will appreclate your letters and by writing to the Young Men's Christian association secretary

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust. dirt. dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months .-- Adv.

fortunate enough to have friends and rela-

Not Very Important.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Won't you help me out of a predicament? A few weeks ago I went out with a friend whom weeks ago I went out with a friend whom I admire. I was hurt by something he said, and let him know I didn't like it. He persisted, for he is the type that seems to demand obiedence, or rather submission. Now, since then I have not seen or heard from him. I should not like to break our friendship, but still I will not run after him. He is very busy—but so am I.

It isn't a very serious predicament, On pride, on the other your friendship, Which Peggy looked at the broad fields "Your crops are looking fine. You'll hidden by Camouflage Perfume. The be able to feed a lot of soldiers," she

The Giant's laugh died away. The "I'm going to take the other road, joy in his face gave way to gloom, the engine again, and as the truck ing at all well. He seemed tired and

"They look well now," he sighed, "but they will never feed our brave "Why not?" asked Peggy, much

"They have been attacked by an enemy as ruthless as the Huns-an farmer covered his head with his arms enemy that is destroying them in all looked down. It was an acorn—the as if fearing instant attack. Fortu-their fresh vigor and beauty—an same kind of an acorn Judge Owl nately the truck had stopped by this enemy that is making all our labor "What's the matter?" boomed a big that may ruin America,"

"Why, what enemy is that?" ex-claimed Peggy. "A plague of insects, of bugs, of all sorts of devouring things that are eating our crops as they grow."

"And can't you stop them?" "Billy Belgium is fighting them in the potato patch; Farmer Dalton is battling them in the truck garden; I am trying to stop them here in the bean field. It is all in vain. They are too many for us.' Peggy's heart sank. It seemed a terrible thing to lose such splendid crops at a time when America needed food so hadly.

"Hail, Princess Peggy," chanted a chorus, afar off. She looked toward Birdland. There in the trees were hundreds of birds. "Hail, Princess!" they called again, waving their wings. "Come to us, we do not dare come to you!"

An idea flashed into Peggy's head. She turned to the giant.

"Don't feel so badly," she said. "I have an army of loyal subjects in Birdland. I'll bring them to your aid."

(Tomorrow it will be told how Peggy finds the birds in a rebellious mood and why.)

'La Beau Monde'

delights in the exquisite blouses from the house of Flanders, so dainty, so different are they. Thorne's fashion shop, 1812 Farnam, has the exclusive sale of the Flanders line.

ASK FOR and GET Horlick's Malted Milk For Infants and Invalids Substitutes Cost YOU Same Price

BLAKE SCHOOL FOR BOYS

CERVA is pure-nutritious and non-intoxicating.

A very remarkable soft drink.

Forty United Profit Sharing Coupons (2 coupons-denomination, 20) are packed in every case Exchangeable for valuable pre-

LEMP Manufacturers ST. LOUIS

UNITE

CERVA SALES CO.-H. A. STEINWENDER, Distribute 1517 Nicholas St. Omaha, Neb. Danglas 2843