Winter Dancing Club Finishes Its Career With Picnic Supper

The requiem of the Winter Dancing club will soon be sung and the last sad rites will take place Wednesday evening.

A picturesque spot overlooking the Elkhorn river has been chosen, where the pretty girls and jolly young fellows who compose the club's membership will bury the happy memories of all their good times in laughter and jollity. This little coterie of merry-makers have been friends for a number of years and most delightful have been the little dances they have given in the snappy winter evenings at Harter hall, and when the summer breezes blew at the different clubs. But the exigencies of war have scattered the young men to the four corners of the world, and in consequence there has been a hurrying and scurrying to find the proper number of the sterner sex at each party. It seems significant that the first president of the club, Captain Taylor Belcher, is now in France, while the treasurer, Captain Walter S. Byrne, is stationed near Troy, N. Y. And so it has gone with many of the young men, and although the officers from Fort Omaha have been invited to the dances, it is not quite the same as in those merry old days before Kaiser Wilhelm took such an active interest in our affairs.

If you can be at the southwest corner of Elmwood park Wednesday evening, just as the birds are chirping their good-night songs and the sun's golden rays begin to cast long shadows on the grass, you will find a jolly crowd of young fellows and girls, with picnic hampers full of delectable dainties, bound for their picnic grounds, where they will have one last good time together before the Winter Dancing club becomes only a memory.

Quiet Wedding.
Miss Margaret A. Overton of Ogdenburg, New York, and Mr. Frank S. Johnson, Wray, Col. were united in marriage at All Saints church, Sunday morning, Rev. T. J. Mackay officiating.
Mrs. Florence M. Doane attended the bride and Mr. George W. Overton of Chicago was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in Wray, Col.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Nathan Robert Reasoner are stopping at the Broadmoor hotel in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Ferciot Honored By Red Cross

MRS. JAMES LLOYD FERCIOT

The Omaha Red Cross was signally honored Saturday when Gould Dietz, chairman of the Omaha chapter conferred upon Mrs. J. L. Ferciot, the gold pin given by the national organization as a reward for 500 hours of effective and efficient service to the Red Cross work.

Thus far but 10 of these pins have been issued in the United States and this is the only one now existing in Omaha.
Mr. Ferciot, who is supervisor of the surgical dressing work done in the Red Cross rooms in the new Masonic temple, has devoted 500 hours to the work and is an expert cutter and knows every detail connected with this branch. She is an indefatigable and enthusiastic worker, her whole soul and energy being in the cause.
When Chairman Dietz was pinning on the badge of honor he facetiously remarked to Mrs. Ferciot: "Now that you have won this coveted badge I suppose it will end your service."
"No," replied Mrs. Ferciot, "it will only be an inspiration to harder and more work on my part."
The gold pin is an enameled circle, embracing a gold cross, of the

Personals

Miss Carita Herzog of Lincoln is visiting friends and relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Loomis are planning to leave in the near future for Chattanooga, Tenn., where Mr. Loomis will serve his country at the ship building yards.

Mr. Lawrence McConney, who is attending the radio school in Lincoln, spent the week-end in Omaha.

Mrs. Edward Hayden and Miss Ophelia Hayden left Monday evening for Deadwood Springs to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Doane have returned from a trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Winn and family of Korea, will arrive Wednesday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Evans. Mrs. Winn is a niece of Mr. Evans, both she and her husband are missionaries in the orient. Their children were all born there. This is the first visit to this country in several years.

Mrs. G. J. Ingwersen and Miss Helen Ingwersen are planning to leave soon for Chicago, where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

Miss Edith Finch left Monday evening for New York and Washington. Miss Finch expects to be gone about three weeks and will return by way of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Miss Marion Towle will leave Wednesday for New York, where she will probably spend the summer.

Packages Versus Bulk

There are four important economic reasons for packing food products in small containers for the household.

These reasons briefly stated are:
First—The conservation of health through the sanitary superiority of package foods.

Second—The conservation of food by reason of increased keeping qualities of package foods.

Third—The conservation of time both in store and home through greater convenience of package goods.

Fourth—The conservation of wealth through the economy of package foods.

That package foods are superior to bulk foods from the standpoint of sanitation cannot be disputed.

Because he does not need to weigh and pack them, the grocer is enabled to handle a stock of package goods and wait on his customers with a minimum outlay of time and labor, therefore increasing the man power of the country—an important economic achievement. The grocer handling package goods is able to carry smaller stocks which are more easily accessible and require less time to reach and distribute—further increasing the man power.

Home Helps

Saving all bacon drippings separate from any other drippings. Did you know that the thrifty housewives of northern Europe use these drippings as shortening in pies and spice cakes? Many spread rye bread with a thin layer, salt it and place a thin slice of quality dry sausage on it, making a very nutritious sandwich for the children coming home from school.

Making soup with beef extract, vegetables and cereals. Did you know that when you boil meat for soup stock, extracting all the flavor and juices and giving the meat left to the dog that you have given your family just the flavor and stimulant and you have given the dog all the body-building material?

Women in Wartime

Miss Marie Mathews, selected for canteen service with the Red Cross abroad, has received sailing orders. She will leave soon. The other Nebraska girls chosen for the work have not received any notifications.

A demonstration in canning will be given by Miss Nellie Farnsworth and Mrs. Paul Rivett at the North Side Christian church for the residents of the Lake and Lothrop school districts. Every woman is welcome.

Needles are flying in all Red Cross auxiliaries over the immense quota of 25,000 shirts which are being remodeled by the Omaha chapter for the boys in the southern camps.

After sewing up the shirt in the back, putting on a soft collar and opening the front, eight buttonholes are made with the special buttonhole attachment to the sewing machine. The buttons in place, the garments are then sent to the dyers.

It is the purpose of the National League for Woman's Service to raise $1,500 to equip a permanent post band for Fort Omaha by the sale of tickets for the opening of the soda fountain at the Sherman-McConnell drug store at Harney and Sixteenth streets, on Monday, July 8.

Arrangements have been made to give 50 per cent of redeemed and 100 per cent of unredeemed tickets. The members of the league will canvass the city in an advance sale.

Flicks of Fashion

All the feminine world loves a parasol!
Old Sol may smile his approval of Milady, in all the daintiness of her summer attire, but if she hasn't one of these sheltering affairs hoisted o'er her fair head, he is bound to leave the imprint of a tiny freckle on the end of her tip-titty nose.

When one visits the shops these summer days, one sees with a little catch of the breath, wonder creations in parasols, fashioned from the airiest of summer fabrics. Parasols of chiffon, organdy and georgette, lovely in their witchery of fluttery ruffles, cordings, and dainty flower-like trimmings.

One noted whilst touring the shops this morning, of sand georgette, was daintiness exemplified, with its rows of corded shirtings and tiny plaited ruffles. Bunches of velvety English violets perched here and there atop this exquisite parasol added a note of unexpected charm.

Organdy Parasols.
Organdy, which may well be called the queen of summer fabrics, is highly favored for parasols, and one cannot imagine a more delightful picture than a pretty girl attired in a frock of this fresh, crisp material, with a parasol to match the shade of her dress.
Rows of snowy white picotéd ribbon ruffles were effective in their accomplishment, when they tried to produce a parasol which would be as lovely as the heart could wish.

Another new effect was created by the use of Irish green taffeta, which is put on in fringed ruffles.
Paisley silk parasols are indeed lovely, and breathe an old-time quaintness.

Bagasol Fad.
But, have you seen a bagasol, ma cherie? Ah, you'll be sure to want one, I know! These clever, two-in-one affairs are as jaunty as can be. You have a smart looking parasol when the bagasol is elevated, but just try closing it, and dropping the handles inside—Presto! a bag of such pleasing style, that you'll just be dying to carry your knitting in it to a party, and giving your friends the surprise of their lives.
Little vanity bags of ribbon, or silk, are attached to the wrist straps of some partyified parasols.

Motorists' Delight.
Have you not often longed for a delicious chicken dinner at the end of your auto ride? Then follow the broad, shady road to Bellevue and there you find just what you are seeking, for every evening finds numbers of gay parties enjoying dinner together at the college. Dinner is served from 6 to 8:30 and many hosts prefer to entertain in this informal way rather than in their homes or at the clubs.

Miss Bessie Townsend of Atlantic City, the only woman city comptroller in the United States, has been honored with election to the vice presidency of the National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers.

The use of package goods does much to prevent food hoarding by the householder, an object much to be desired in these times.
