

LAY BLAME ON WEATHER FOR CORNER IN FOOD

Jupiter Pluvius Accused by Curbstone Brokers of Conspiring With Grocers Against Push Cart Men.

It was general deficiency in rainfall and unseasonable heat which caused the corner in vegetables in the public market, protest against which brought the curbstone brokers, alleged to be responsible, to the notice of the city council and also to Judge Day's judicial observation.

It also resulted in the "buck" being passed to Mayor Smith.

A committee of the produce dealers alleged to be responsible for the condition appeared before the council Monday morning.

Joe Rotolo was the first speaker and he said he had not been able even to accumulate so much as the price of a push cart out of his speculation in vegetables and produce.

"Sweet the grocer," he said. "The grocer gets rich enough to own an automobile and a motor delivery. I cannot even afford a baby cart for my littlest bambino. I work hard and make only a mere living. I have no money ahead, no nothing."

Accuses Produce Men.

George F. Fisher alleged the produce and commission men were responsible for a shortage of early vegetables and small fruit in the market. They bought up the early supply which was not enough for local needs and shipped vegetables, berries and cherries to Sioux City and North and South Dakota points.

He said the association of small dealers paid taxes and made little more than a living. He asked the council to give them authority, in the shape of a franchise, or vested right, to charge 10 cents per day for every person who backed a vehicle in front of their quarters on Eleventh and Howard streets.

Commissioner Zimman suggested the curbstone brokers could be eliminated and much of the trouble obviated if none was permitted to use the sidewalk space in the market district for the display of truck and fruits, except actual growers of produce.

The vexatious problem was finally passed to the mayor for judgment.

Highman of Union Pacific

Helps Rebuild French Lines

Prior to going to France, J. W. Highman was master mechanic in the Cheyenne shops of the Union Pacific. Now he is with the American expeditionary forces, building railroads back of the battle lines.

Writing to friends in Union Pacific headquarters, Captain Highman says that the Americans have rebuilt something like 600 miles of French railroad since their arrival. This has been equipped to a large extent with engines and cars from the United States. He describes the French roads as being out-of-date and very much like the roads in this country 10 years ago.

A. W. Woodruff, superintendent of the Wyoming division of the Union Pacific, is associated with Captain Highman in carrying on the work in France.

Needs Burglar Tools to Get Fund Back From City

Obtaining money under false pretenses is no crime, if committed by the city of Omaha.

Peregoy & Moore were assessed $20.41 against some lots the concern owns for sidewalks. The money was paid over and the firm alleges the sidewalks were never laid.

They petitioned the city to return the money, on the ground they received no benefits from the same. The money cannot be paid over by the city, rules the city attorney, for no provision has been made for refunding under the circumstances.

If Peregoy & Moore gets the money it will have to hire an expert burglar with a jimmy and get the sum out of the city's funds in the custody of Treasurer Endres.

Edward J. Waters, Omaha

Attorney, Enlists in Navy

Edward J. Waters, prominent young Omaha attorney, has enlisted in the navy and is awaiting call to active duty. He is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Waters of Jackson, Neb., to join the colors.

Mr. Waters is a member of the Omaha Barristers' club, the Omaha Bar association and of the Knights of Columbus. He has practiced law in Omaha for eight years, having offices in the Bee building. He expects to leave soon on his new adventure.

Three Enemy Aliens on Way to Internment Camp

Ernest Schmechel, Falls City, Neb., Albert Ridinger, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Carl Northagel of Ottumwa, Ia., all alien enemies who are to be interned for the period of the war, will leave Omaha Tuesday for the internment camp at Oglethorpe, Ga.

Deputy United States Marshall Yates will take the men as far as Kansas City, the first leg of their trip to the southern camp.

The Nebraska man, Schmechel, was arrested some time ago for pro-German speeches.

HYMENEAL.

Wadum-Beaver.

Miss Sarah M. Beaver, daughter of James Beaver, and Mr. Charles Wadum were married by Rev. Charles W. Savidge at his residence Saturday afternoon at 5. They were accompanied by Mrs. Marie Gerhardt.

Gideon-Whitmore.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gideon announce the marriage of their daughter, Alice, to Mr. Ross Whitmore of Clearmont, Wyo. Mrs. Whitmore, who has been engaged in educational work in the Omaha schools, as well as in the west, will be with her parents during the absence of Mr. Whitmore, who is in training at Camp Lewis, Wash.

Omaha Boy Lands in France After 11 Days

SAM ALPERSEN.

Sam Alpersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alpersen, has arrived safely in France after a voyage lasting 11 days, according to a cable received by his parents. John is well known among Omahians who met him daily at the cigar store, 321 South Sixteenth street. He enlisted last October in the 340th field artillery, battery A, 89th division. John's brother Edward is a sergeant at Camp Dodge.

THIRSTY? PLENTY OF LIQUOR HERE

Vast Quantity, Valued at $40,000, Reposes in Court House, but It's Guarded Well.

Forty-thousand dollars worth of intoxicating liquor is the value of the treasure which Sheriff Michael Clark and his deputies are faithfully guarding night and day at the county jail. Of this, there is $24,000 worth of beer and the remainder mostly whisky. A few hundred dollars worth of alcohol, gin and wines is included in the list of the "bootleggers' product."

Case piled upon case of beer, whisky and alcohol line the walls of Mike's "wine cellar," as he facetiously terms the rooms in the basement of the court house and the top floor of the building where the "stuff" reposes under double locks and keys. All of it is labeled and marked as evidence. Practically all of it is being held by the sheriff for court orders as to its final disposition.

Beer in Early Raid.

Most of the beer was taken from the farm of Anton Larson on West Center street, raided by the sheriff and his men over a year ago. At $1 a quart bottle, which is reported to be the current price of beer on the Omaha "curb," the beer is worth $24,000. The value of the whisky is figured at the minimum price on the Omaha "exchange," $6 a quart. At top prices, $10 a quart, it would probably amount to much more than $15,000.

But, alas for the dreams of the thirty, there have been made away with a small part of the beer, for evidences of bars twisted apart and iron mesh cut were found one day last winter. The thieves succeeded in cutting a hole only large enough for one bottle at a time to be passed through. But with the heavy locks now barring all of the doors of the treasure chamber, it is unlikely that a similar attempt would succeed.

Army Officers Take Flight When Police Make Raid, Is Report

Two second lieutenants seem to have mysteriously disappeared during a raid on the home of Grace Jones, alias Mailand, in 526 South Twenty-fourth avenue. The proprietor and 11 inmates were arrested at 2 a. m., charged with being inmates of an ill-governed house.

Two men and two women forfeited bonds. Police allege they overheard those in the house speaking in loud and profane language, to the disturbance of neighbors. Miss Jones alleges that the complaints came from personal enemies and that she was entertaining friends at a house party.

She alleges two lieutenants attending the party were released by police. Sergeant Anderson, in charge of the morals squad making the arrest, denies any knowledge of army officers in the house.

Several empty bottles alleged by police to have contained whiskey were found in the house. The charge against the women inmates were dismissed. The case against the keeper and men inmates, two of whom had been drinking, were continued until Friday.

Rev. F. W. Leavitt Preaches His Farewell Sermon

Rev. F. W. Leavitt, for many years pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, and who has accepted the position of secretary of the Missouri Valley Congregational union, delivered his farewell sermon Sunday night, and will immediately assume his new duties, with headquarters in this city.

The union, having general oversight of the Congregational churches of the Omaha and Council Bluffs territory, will engage the entire time of Mr. Leavitt. The farewell service was largely attended and the retiring pastor was given a cordial expression of the esteem of his people.

City Will Not Operate Municipal Drying Plant

Municipal drying plants used in Omaha last summer will not be in operation this year unless community clubs will operate them. The two plants stationed at the Central park and South High schools last year have been packed away in the Auditorium. The community clubs to whom the welfare board has offered them have so far refused to use them and defray the necessary expenses, although the drying plants were considered very successful last year.

The Public Welfare board will be glad to have these plants put into use if any club will take them.

VETERINARIANS TO MEET THIS MONTH

Missouri Valley Association Will Hold Convention in Omaha, With Prominent Speakers Present.

The Missouri Valley Veterinary association will hold its twenty-fifth annual convention in Omaha July 15 to 17. Headquarters will be at the Rome hotel.

Mayor Smith will make the address of welcome and A. T. Kinsley will respond. R. C. Moore of St. Joseph, Mo., will deliver the president's annual address and R. F. Bourne of Fort Collins, Colo., will present the report of the secretary-treasurer.

On Monday afternoon there will be addresses by W. S. Nichols of Ravenna, Neb.; W. P. Bossenberger of Williams, Ia.; H. C. Simpson of Denison, Ia.; C. F. Harrington of Denver, Colo., and J. S. Koen of Des Moines, Ia.

Monday evening the men will go to the Ak-Sar-Ben den and the ladies will be entertained at the theater. On Tuesday the ladies will be taken on an automobile trip.

Addresses at the Tuesday morning session will be by A. Eichorn, Pearl River, N. Y.; J. L. Gibson, Des Moines, Ia.; C. E. Salesbery, Kansas City, Mo.; D. M. Campbell, Chicago, Ill., and A. W. French, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Election of officers will be on Tuesday afternoon followed by addresses by E. R. Stell, Wilbur, Neb.; G. H. Glover, Fort Collins, Colo.; L. Van Es, Lincoln, Neb., and I. C. Brenner, Chicago, Ill.

There will be a banquet on Tuesday evening. Wednesday will be devoted to an extensive clinical program.

Art Estelle Says Camp Life is Fine Training For Married Man Later

"If I ever get married after this war the woman who gets me will get a mighty good housewife," says Arthur Murray Estelle, son of Judge Lee Estelle of the district court. Young Murray has recently enlisted in the 19th company, signal corps, and is now at Fort Logan, Colo.

Murray had just finished cleaning out his quarters in the evening after a hard day's work when he wrote home to his parents that he was receiving excellent training as a housewife.

After breakfast we drill until noon," he wrote; then after lunch we drill some more; then we have school the rest of the afternoon, and then after supper we clean up. At 10 o'clock in the evening we are through."

Young Estelle expects to be transferred soon to Fort Leavenworth, Leavenworth, Kan.

Judge Estelle himself is a veteran of the civil war. He was but 15 when he enlisted in 1863.

Union Pacific Sues Great Western on Rent Bills

For the payment of bills which it is asserted have been running for from one to 10 years, the Union Pacific railroad has instituted suit against the Chicago and Great Western railroad. The total sum involved is $12,911.07, of which $11,527.74 is for the principal and the rest for interest.

The charges which the Union Pacific says are unpaid include bills for labor and materials and rentals. The items run from $2 up to several thousand. Rental of tracks in Council Bluffs from the Union Pacific transfer to the Missouri river bridge, the use of tracks at Council Bluffs and Leavenworth, Kan., switching at Council Bluffs, Leavenworth and South Omaha, the use of wrecker crews and charges for passenger equipment and car repairs, are among the bills which it is alleged are unpaid.

The petition of the Union Pacific says that repeated statements have been sent to the Great Western for the payment of the bills. The first charge is for services rendered in August, 1907, and the last for services rendered in November, 1917.

Dworak Denies Wife's Allegations of Cruelty

E. A. Dworak, expert accountant, in a cross petition filed in answer to his wife's suit for divorce, denies her allegations of cruelty, denies he abused her, but admits that he was forced to stay down town late at night on one occasion when he had to work late at the office. Dworak admits having had differences with Mrs. Dworak, but alleges that they all originated because of his protest against her misconduct. So Dworak asks that her petition be dismissed and that he be given the custody of his minor son, Arthur C. Dworak.

Jacobson Alleges Wife Keeps Roof Company; Asks Divorce

Frederick Jacobson has filed a petition for divorce from his wife, Florence Jacobson, to whom he was married three years ago. He alleges that his wife deserted him, that she is in the habit of traveling about the country with disreputable men and women and that she has become involved in a white slavery case. He also asks the custody of a minor child.

Constructing Temporary Roof Over Elks' Rooms

A temporary roof over the Elks' lodge rooms, which were damaged by fire a week ago, is in the course of construction and business firms housed in the building are beginning the renovating and repairing of their stores. The Elks' lodge cafe is to be reopened today, and will have a special menu in celebration of the event.

Interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Four Naval Recruits Sworn in While Guests Chamber of Commerce

Four naval recruits took the oath of allegiance Monday noon at the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, where they were honor guests at luncheon of the good fellowship committee.

Ensign Condit, in charge of navy recruiting in this district, administered the oath and later gave a short talk.

The recruits are: John P. Abts, machinist's mate in the aviation section; John D. Carew, seaman; William H. Bedford, machinist's mate in the aviation section, and Earl E. Harvey, carpenter's mate.

Ensign Condit predicted that it will not be long until the four men advance in rank.

"We give our boys the best possible chance," he said. "We are glad to have them enter as privates and we are always on the alert to help them. A manly recruit always makes quick progress."

The ensign is allowed to select a man a month for an officership.

William Bedford, one of the recruits, was formerly advertising manager for a harvester company in Council Bluffs.

Former City Official Is Held on Dope Charge

Detectives Dolan and Lepinski took into custody for investigation Sunday afternoon Tony Hoffman of 1460 South Eleventh street, who is suspected of having been interested in the sale of dope. Hoffman was formerly city license inspector.

A man who was talking with Hoffman when he was arrested ran when he saw the officers. Hoffman has been released on bond.

J. C. Skomal's Wallet With $75 and Checks Vanishes

Seventy-five dollars in cash and about $1,500 in checks, belonging to John C. Skomal, 1415 Center street, were taken from the window sill of his new house being built at Thirtieth and Connell Court, Saturday night. Skomal had laid his pocketbook, containing the money and checks, on the window sill while he picked up some kindling wood. When he went to get the pocketbook, it had disappeared.

Red Cross and All Kindred Organizations Do Their Part

New York, July 3.—Volunteers in the Red Cross, Young Men's Christian association and kindred organizations are a part of the militant forces, second only to the men who meet the deadly fire of the enemy," Secretary Daniels said tonight in an address at a Young Men's Christian association meeting in Carnegie hall.

In the Silent Drama

Empress—Connors and Edna, a good looking and well matched team, who are appearing at the Empress theater, have a dandy little skit which they call "Shopping." Some very clever comedy, several song numbers and a fast comedy dance makes this a sure-fire act. "The Seven Serenades" have a very entertaining act. Miss Peggy Hyland won many friends and brought the old ones closer to her at the Empress theater yesterday when she appeared in William Fox's latest photoplay, "Other Men's Daughters."

Sun—J. Warren Kerrigan enters into a new field of acting for him in his play, "A Dollar Bid" to be shown here today to Thursday. In this play the western cowboy scenes he is pictured among the great race horse men of Kentucky. In "A Dollar Bid" Kerrigan is pictured as a wealthy youth who has been raised in the negro quarter of the town, accented worthless by whites and blacks alike. He finally comes to the notice of the daughter of one of the finest farms in Kentucky and is given an opportunity to go there and work. There is carried through the play the wonderful development in the character of the youth and the unfolding of an interesting romance with the daughter who had been the means of his having a chance in life. Miss Lois Wilson, who has played opposite Kerrigan in many plays, is taking the part of Virginia Dare, the daughter of the owner of the plantation.

Blaine—In the days of war you never know but that your next door neighbor, your servant, or even your friend, may be a spy in the employ of Germany. In "The Spy in the Shadow," the new Dorothy Dalton picture, which is now being shown as the feature of the Rialto's program for the first time this week, the operations of the Man plotters beneath our very noses are depicted—and also the alert methods of the United States which detect them. Thomas H. Luce has placed his beautiful young star in the lead of the picture, which is an interesting thing to a degree. She makes the most of every opportunity and the splendid advantage of a character such as Nora Hildreth in an example of the care in production. The story was a serial in the All Story Weekly magazine. The second installment of official government war pictures are also parts of the Rialto's program for the first half of this week.

Strand—The theory that a petted child, who later becomes the wife of a struggling lawyer, cannot aspire to higher altitudes than that of a baroness, is shown in "A Doll's House," the latest Arrerström photoplay starring Elsie Ferguson, which is now being shown at the Strand theater. In this superb photoplay Miss Ferguson portrays a role of deep sobriety with consummate artistry. The development of a character such as Nora Hildreth in this strong photoplay is one practically new to the silent drama, but Miss Ferguson's intelligent support by a competent staff of players, all of whom have appeared to the highest advantage in motion pictures.

Grand—In "Mr. Fix-It," a comedy-drama of New York, we have Douglas Fairbanks in a new character. In place of his outdoor character, which he has shown to get into, we have him in dress suit and high hat. However he's the same old Doug and in a character in which he believes that happiness comes from helping others to be happy. In the end after an exciting fight, which he cleans up a gang of toughs of the city, he is shown to be a happy man.

On Wednesday will be shown the sixth episode of Pearl White's and Antonio Moreno's great serial, "The House of Hate," and the Pathé News weekly.

Robbit—Jane and Katherine Lee are in their own element in "The Troublemakers," to be shown here today, and they take full advantage of the opportunity to get into the kinds of mischief. They nearly break up a perfectly good love affair, disarrange plans, and generally cause all sorts of trouble that keeps the other actors in a continual chase trying to keep up with them and the audience. On Wednesday will be shown E. A. Walsh in "The Honor System," a thrilling drama of law and the manner in which it is carried out, with an interesting love story woven in.

Alhambra—Theda Bara in the historical drama "The Rose of Bagdad" will be shown here today. In the play are shown the splendors of the French court at the height of its extravagance, and Miss Bara has been shown to the advantage in playing rare dramatic powers in the sensational and powerful scenes of the play. There will also be shown on Wednesday, a Mutt and Jeff comedy, "On Wednesday," and Frederick Ward in "Horton's Double," and the 14th episode of "The House of Hate" and Antonio Moreno's great serial, "The House of Hate," and the Pathé News weekly.

Muse—Constance Talmadge will be offering today for the last time in a bonanza of laughter, "Good Night, Paul." More charming and entertaining than ever, each thing is such a gem that Talmadge's girliness is so winsome and her comedy of humor so keen that she is perfect in every scene. The comedy and News Weekly complete the bill.

WHITE GIRL SAYS NEGRO SOLD DOPE

Testifies in Federal Trial of Johnny Moore, Alleged Leader of Gang of Morphine Dealers.

Trial of Johnny Moore, negro, alleged leader of a gang of "dope" dealers, was begun in federal court Monday afternoon.

Clyde Lake, agent in the Department of Justice, testified that he bought cocaine and morphine from Moore and that, on one occasion, he paid him a marked $1 bill, which was later found in Moore's possession.

Anna Moore, a white girl, former maid at the Neville Hotel, who had been a dope user, testified that she had purchased morphine from Johnny at his "place," 221 North Thirteenth street. She lowered her voice as she testified about going to the negro's place and of the amount of morphine which she used. But she raised her head and smiled at the prosecuting attorney when she told him she hadn't "touched it since last January."

In answer to the prosecuting attorney's question, asked with sarcasm, "How did you get cured?" the witness smiled wisely and explained, naively, "By letting it alone."

The trial will be continued Tuesday. Prosecutors contend that Moore has been the head of extensive traffic in dope. At the time of his arrest about $800 worth of drugs was found in his room.

City Ticket Offices May Be Consolidated This Week

The consolidation of the railroad city ticket offices is coming soon. Chairman Wakeley of the local committee asserts that the first move in that direction is likely to occur this week, when a location for the consolidated office will be announced.

Where the consolidated ticket office will be located is not known. However, it is reasonably certain that it will not be in any of the rooms now occupied by the individual roads. In the windows of all these offices, "For Rent" signs have been hung and the quarters are available for other lines of business.

There is a belief that the consolidated office will go into the Union Pacific headquarters, but Chairman Wakeley asserts that this location has not been decided upon.

Is Grateful for the Work of the Civilian Relief

Sergt. Michael P. Janich of the 505th aero squadron, now in camp at Charlotte, N. C., is at his home in this city on a brief furlough. Sergeant Janich is enthusiastic over the splendid treatment which the men in training are receiving in the camps. He is particularly pleased also over the civilian relief work of the local Red Cross. He states that during his absence there seems to have been no need of his family which has not been met by this organization. Sergeant Janich is looking forward to the early departure of his squadron for overseas service.

JAILER CORCORAN AT SOUTH OMAHA TELLS OF TROUBLES

Troubles Had Cost Him Five Hundred Dollars—Praises Tanlac.

"It certainly seems remarkable that three bottles of this Tanlac should do me more good than other treatment and medicines that have cost me all of five hundred dollars, but it has and I am glad of this opportunity to tell the public about it."

The above statement was made recently by Michael Corcoran, who resides at 2416 F street. Mr. Corcoran has lived in Omaha for twenty-eight years, half of which time—fourteen years—he has held his present position as jailer in South Omaha. He is also well known in fraternal order circles and it is, indeed, doubtful if there is a more genial and better liked man in this city.

"With stomach trouble, kidney and bladder disorders and other complications until I lost forty-eight pounds in weight. I couldn't eat without it hurting me and had to diet myself for a long time, living mostly on the very lightest of foods. I could eat no meats at all. I had a great deal of pain in the region of my kidneys and suffered considerably with rheumatism in both shoulders. For years I had had headaches and, in fact, I never did know exactly what all was the matter with me. I spent ten weeks in the hospital and, as I said, paid out five hundred dollars trying to get my troubles corrected, but nothing did me as much good as Tanlac has."

"I was feeling so badly that I was willing to try anything there was a chance of doing me any good, and seeing Tanlac so highly recommended I decided to give it a trial. Well, the results so far have certainly been fine. I have already gotten back fifteen pounds of my lost weight and feel like a new man compared to the way I felt before I began taking it. My appetite got so big soon after I started on Tanlac that I was afraid I would hurt myself eating, but everything seemed to agree with me and I felt no bad effects from it. My kidneys and bladder are in pretty good shape now and the rheumatic trouble is gone, too. My head don't ache any more and I sleep better than I have in a long time. I have so much faith in Tanlac that I got a bottle for my sister-in-law, who was in need of something to build her up, and now she's improving right along and thinks just like I do, that it's great medicine."

"Tanlac is sold in Omaha by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., corner 16th and Dodge Sts., 16th and Harney Sts., Owl Drug Co., 16th and Farnam Sts., Harvard Pharmacy, 24th and Farnam Sts., northeast corner 19th and Farnam Sts., West End Pharmacy, 49th and Dodge Sts., under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, and in South Omaha by Forrest & Meany Drug Co.—Adv.

Agitation Bubbling In Court House For Increased Salaries

With the expected resignation of four clerks in different departments at the county court house, because of higher salaries paid in business lines, the agitation for increased salaries for county employes has reached an acute stage. Many of the county departments are running short of help because clerks have left to enter military service or to secure better positions elsewhere.

Clerks in the office of the clerk of the district court say they are working as much as 20 hours a week overtime to take care of the county's increased business, and to do the work usually done by employes who have left.

Difficulty is found in filling some of these vacant positions because of the low salaries paid, some of them paying only $50 a month. On the other hand, in some of the other departments, the lowest salaries are $90.

The county commissioners have been petitioned by County Treasurer Endres and County Clerk Dewey to take up the matter of increases for subordinate clerks, but up to date nothing has been done. It was said at the office of the county commissioners Monday morning that the commissioners would probably take up the matter at their meeting next Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dundey Have Divorce Decree Nulled and Remarry

By dissolution of the divorce decree and re-marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Dundey have become reunited and have re-established their home in Omaha.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Judge Day at the court house, out of personal interest in the parties, Mr. Dundey being a well known attorney here and Mrs. Dundey's father, Judge E. M. Bartlett, once a judge of the district bench.

There is one boy, 15 years of age, who is a factor in the happy reunion. During the separation Mrs. Dundey was with her father in Kansas City.

MORE DEADLY THAN A MAD DOG'S BITE

The bite of a rabid dog is no longer
