Successes of Allied Troops in Balkan Area Heartens Slav Races and Increase Austrians' Troubles.

(By Associated Press.)

London, July 10-Successes won by the allied troops in Albania will add seriously to the troubles of the Austrians. They were won by a fresh, determined action in the Balkan area where a military success must always have immediate and valuable political

The line on which fighting is going on at present runs from the river Devoli to the Adriatic, a distance of over 60 miles. In addition to the French and Italian troops engaged in the battle, Albanian troops under Essad Pasha are fighting against the Austrians and, because of their familiarity with the country, are in a position to give valuable assistance.

Although the region of the allied advance is 70 miles from the Saloniki front, there are already signs of nervousness among the enemy troops in that area. The advance in Albania is a serious threat to the right flank of the Bulgar armies in the region of Monastir. This is evidently appreciated by the enemy and will have the effect of bringing to the side of the allies many from the hill tribes, who

A further short advance will bring the allies to Berat, the chief town of Southern Albania, and it is significant that Austrian official statements admit the progress of the French and Italians.
