SWIFT EMPLOYE
HELD ON CHARGE
FALSE PRETENSES

Officer Madsen Arrests George Dannis, On Complaint He Attempted to Collect Wages Twice.

George Dannis, 4933 South Twenty-third street, a stevedore at the Swift packing plant, was arrested Friday on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense.

According to Police Captain Madsen, who made the arrest, Dannis took his pay check, amounting to about $24, to the soft drink parlor of Joe Sporic and asked to have it cashed. He got Sporic to endorse the check, under pretense that he could not write. He then made a cross after the signature and received the money. His next move was to complain to the paymaster at Swift's that he had not received his check. He was given an order for the amount, but in the meantime the paymaster became suspicious and ordered payment stopped. Sporic was taken to the packing house and identified Dannis.

Wife Charges Husband Attempted to Force Her Into Immorality

Because her 60-year-old husband attempted to force her to earn their living by leading an immoral life, Mrs. Anna Morton alleges, she is suing Justin Morton for divorce, on the basis of these charges.

The couple were married in Ottumwa, Ia., in 1909, when he was 60 and she was 28. Shortly afterwards he attempted to force her into immorality, she says, and became abusive and swore at her when she refused. She also charges that he came to an Omaha physician and asked him to use his influence with her to persuade her to earn money through these means for their support and to pay the expenses of an operation which he was to undergo. Soon thereafter they came to Omaha. She asks an absolute divorce.

Married Men Having Self-Supporting Wives Placed in Draft Class 1

General Crowder's order to exemption boards "to use common sense" in the work of reclassification, is the basis of the changes being made by local boards.

Married men without children and with self-supporting wives are being boosted forward in the army lottery. Men married either before or after the war who can show no strong case of dependencies are being reclassified to Class 1.

Many married men are listed with those who are to go to a cantonment July 22 and many will be called in the August quota.

Many of the local exemption boards are so busy with the work of the July call that reclassification work will not be taken up until the latter part of the month.

OMAHA BOYS OVER THERE ENJOYING BEST OF HEALTH

Lieutenant McCullough Returns From France to Become Instructor in This Country.

Lt. Phil M. McCullough of company E, 408th Telephone battalion, son of T. W. McCullough, associate editor of The Bee, is visiting relatives in this city en route from France to San Antonio, Tex., where he will be engaged in instruction work. Lieutenant McCullough has had especially favorable opportunities for observing the 408th battalion and comes back with a cheering message to the friends and relatives of the men in the organization.

This battalion, a part of the signal corps, was organized from men of the northwest group of the Bell Telephone company and Company D consists largely of Omaha boys. The men are located now, Lieutenant McCullough states, in one of the larger towns in the central part of France, in a very pleasant section. They are in touch with many of the direct war activities on the front, but so far as personal safety is concerned are in absolutely no danger.

Indulge in Sports. The men are all kept busy, but are thoroughly happy and contented. They are also making a great record in the matter of health. The chief recreation, according to Lieutenant McCullough, is base ball. The two companies are completely equipped for the American national game, having bought some of the stuff themselves and the rest having been furnished by the Young Men's Christian association.

Company D some time ago had an opportunity to make a fine record for itself among the refugees. The company was located in a town which was used as the point of departure to various parts of France of large groups of refugees fleeing from the front. Under the leadership of Major McDougall and Captain Gieret most valuable assistance was rendered in the matter of transportation. For this work the battalion received special mention from the Etat Major.

The condition of good health and contentment which prevails in this battalion Lieutenant McCullough says is general throughout the American army in France. He states that the men are and have been completely equipped with every needful thing, and that the American army is the best fed, best clothed, best tended and happiest army in Europe. The only complaint which any of the men ever has is that they some times do not get to the front as soon as they would like. They realize that they are up against a man-sized job and they want to be at it.

Lieutenant McCullough comes back in splendid health, glad to be home and greet his friends, but eager also to be at his work again. He is particularly anxious that the relatives of the men in the 408th battalion shall be assured that everything is well with them "over there."

Street Workmen Run Down by Automobile; One Is Badly Injured

William Peterson, 813 1/2 South Twentieth street, was badly bruised about the body with possible internal injuries when he was struck by an automobile at Fiftieth street and Military avenue at 5 o'clock Friday night. He was taken to the Lister hospital, where his injuries were attended by police surgeons.

According to the story told police by the workmen they were run into by an automobile driven by A. Jensen, 6921 Bedford avenue. They allege Jensen was running his machine about 30 or 35 miles an hour and deliberately drove through the workmen employed in the street. The other men escaped injury.

So many well informed men know that they may now buy at retail clothes which cannot be replaced at present wholesale prices, that it seems almost superfluous to mention it.
