THE president, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Wilson and Miss Bones are finding life in the White House in the summer very comfortable and very charming, with every possible luxury to enjoy, and no official functions to bother with. The president's recreation is golf in the early morning, with Mrs. Wilson or Dr. Grayson; a motor ride in the late afternoon, and sometimes in the evening, the theater or a ride into the country. Their favorite drive is around the Speedway or Potomac Park, as it is known, which is a lovely panorama of river and Virginia hills, and at the eastern end of the drive, the modern buildings of the Army War college and the other buildings at the barracks, just across the harbor, where the steamboat landings are, and where the great gray British cruiser lies at anchor. It is the flag-ship of Vice Admiral Sir William Lowther Grant, who is temporarily attached to the British embassy. A drive down in that locality in the late afternoon invariably discloses a smart little tea party on the shady side of the deck, with Lady Grant pouring tea for her excellency, the Countess of Reading, wife of the British ambassador or Mrs. Daniels, or Mrs. Baker or Mrs. Lansing, or some others, and sometimes, perhaps, all at the same time, of the prominent official or smart resident society circles. This is really a fascinating feature of this summer's life in Washington. Lady Grant accompanied her husband on the cruiser by special grant from the British government, as in these modern warring days no women are permitted on board such craft.

Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Grant, formerly of Omaha, Mr. Grant being a son of the late John Grant, a contractor of the Gate City, are receiving the congratulations of friends over the birth of a daughter a few days ago.

Red Cross.

There is added industry among the Red Cross workers, and calls come every day for more dressings and more garments of every kind for the sick and wounded. Washington has its share of injured soldiers at the Walter Reed hospital. Women who have automobiles take parties of them out every day, and those who are convalescing may be seen at the theaters, the concerts and movies after noon. Most of them are on crutches. All of them have lost a limb or more. One of them has lost all of his. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Lansing entertained all who were able to go out, at tea in her garden—such a pretty garden of blooming flowers and shaded nooks. She made the tea and poured it, and it was a charming informal time, with a number of attractive young girls assisting.

Mrs. Reavis, wife of Representative C. F. Reavis of Falls City, Neb., is remaining quietly in her Cleveland Park home, out near the home of Senator and Mrs. Norris, during the absence in France of Representative Reavis. Their son, Jack Reavis, has postponed his visit home, to stay with his mother here until his father returns, probably some time next month. Mrs. Reavis keeps herself busy with the Red Cross unit of the congressional club. She works there three days in the week—Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The Nebraska women are among the busiest of the war workers.

Genevieve Clark War Workers.
The Genevieve Clark War Workers, an organization of congressional women, mainly those who live in the neighborhood of the capitol, is continuing its work wonderfully, the interest and energy of the women not waning in the least. Mrs. Clark, wife of the speaker, entertained them on a recent afternoon at Congress hall and made a short address, a favorite mode of entertaining with Mrs. Clark. Mrs. Shallenberger, wife of Representative A. C. Shallenberger of Alma, Neb., assisted Mrs. Clark at the tea table. Mrs. Shallenberger is chairman of the cutting committee of the organization—in fact, she does nearly, if not quite, all the cutting out of the garments made.

Omaha.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Penfield, the latter formerly Miss Lucille Bacon of Omaha, returned Monday from Atlantic City, where they spent the Fourth and the week-end.

Miss Ruth Hitchcock was one of the ushers at the concert given this week at the Belasco theater for the benefit of the Roumanian war orphans by the Roumanian relief committee. A number of society girls ushered and sold programs, netting a considerable fund for the kiddies. Miss Margaret Wilson had a box party; Mrs. Lansing had Lady Reading and General Crozier, wife of her box, and Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French ambassador, had a box party. Miss Hitchcock was also one of the guests at the dinner-dance given in the evening by Major Levis Tseissanu, military attaché of the Roumanian legation, in honor of the artists who gave the program. Major Tseissanu is a charming bachelor who has seen long service at the front and has lost his right arm, and came over here with the Roumanian mission. Among his guests were Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Bones, Lt. General Crozier, head of the British high commission here, and General Guglielmotti, military attaché of the Italian embassy.

A Card Party.
A card party will be given Wednesday afternoon by the Columbian Club at their hall at Twenty-second and Locust streets. Mrs. J. G. Sherry and Mrs. Henry Mason will be hostesses.

Motor Party.
Mrs. L. H. Greer and 36 guests of the Flatiron hotel motored to Valley Saturday for a swim and a chicken dinner.

It is estimated that 1,000 negro women in Birmingham and vicinity are now engaged in manual labor formerly done by men.

These Physicians Warn Public Against

Taking Substitutes for Nuxated Iron

Say That Ordinary Metallic Iron Preparations Cannot Possibly Give the Same

STRENGTH, POWER AND ENDURANCE

As Organic Iron. Besides they may upset the digestion, disturb the secretions and thereby do more harm than good, and that Health Officials and Physicians everywhere should caution the public against accepting inferior substitutions in medicines.

Dr. A. J. Newman, former Police valuable advice and information on the use of organic iron as a tonic, strength and blood builder.

Careful investigation by designated physicians among druggists and patients has revealed the fact that there are thousands of people taking iron who do not distinguish between organic iron and metallic iron and that such persons often fail to obtain the vital energy, strength and endurance which they seek, simply because they have taken the wrong form of iron. They seem to think iron is iron on a good deal.
