

GRANDFATHER FEARS HE MIGHT KILL YOUNG GIRL

Asks for Granddaughter's Removal to Orphan Asylum; Is Scored by Judge.

"You had better take her away, for I'm a big man, and if I double up my fist and hit her, I might kill her." This is the reason William Krasne assigned for wanting his little granddaughter, Ella, taken away and put in an orphan asylum, according to the statement of President Rosenthal of the Jewish Relief society in juvenile court Saturday morning.

Krasne is a big, husky man. Ella is a delicate looking child of 10 years. Some months ago Ella's mother died without means and deserted by her husband, leaving three little children in Krasne's care. The two boys were placed in an orphan asylum, but the Jewish society prevailed upon Krasne to keep Ella, as he is financially able to provide for her.

Krasne tried to get the girl placed in the orphan asylum, also, asserts Mr. Rosenthal. The Jewish committee finally told him they would place her in another asylum, where he would have to pay for her support, whereupon he ceased trying to dispose of her.

Trouble Starts.

All went well until Mrs. Krasne, the grandmother, went away on a visit. Then the trouble began. The grandfather said Ella wouldn't work. Ella says she would work, but that she objected to cleaning up fifth in the yard. The grandfather finally complained to the probation officers that the child was unmanageable.

"Among other complaints," stated Mr. Rosenthal, "he said that a photographer in the neighborhood had been taking nude photographs of Ella and another girl. I saw the photographs, and they were unobjectionable, showing the children dressed in costumes of various nations."

Ella wept all through the session of court Saturday morning. The grandfather insisted that he cared for Ella, and the fact that she had food and clothes was a proof of his affection.

"You are one of those men," Judge Sears told the man, "who value pennies and nickels and dimes more than their own flesh and blood."

Krasne offered no objection to this, but when the decision was announced that Ella be placed at the detention home until the return of her grandmother and Krasne charged $15 per month for her support, he objected strenuously.

As the child was leaving the court, she asked her grandfather for a dime to buy ice cream. "Ice cream!" he exclaimed angrily. "You can eat bread."

Sent to Detention Home.

Jack Garelick and George Koha were also sent to the detention home. These boys are alleged to have taken an automobile that was parked near a repair shop, taken a joyride and deserted the car. The police picked up the car soon after the owner arrived looking for it.

Two small boys who had found a purse in Hanscom park, spent the money and thrown away a key it contained, and then hid the purse under a grapevine, were dismissed on a promise to return the purse and key to the owner. One of the boys had refused steadily to confess until forced to do so by a threat that the purse would be dug up and recognized. Judge Sears delivered quite a lecture on honesty and truthfulness to the little chap, who listened wide-eyed and promised to be good in the future.

Charges Husband Brutally Slammed Her Around House

The only Christmas present that Mrs. Alice Clear got last Yuletide from her husband she got the day before, she says in her petition for divorce from Walter Clear. That was when he "brutally and violently threw her on the bed," the petition for divorce says. Three months later he struck her in the back and attempted to choke her and a month ago knocked her down and wrenched her arm, she alleges. This constitutes just ground for divorce, she says. He makes $100 a month working for the Chicago & Great Western railroad and ought to be able to pay alimony, she claims.

Mrs. Alice Strausser Charges Husband Threatened to Shoot

Locking her in a room, threatening her with personal violence by flourishing a revolver in her face and threatening to kill her, constitutes incompatibility of temperament, thinks Mrs. Alice M. Strausser. When her husband, Caryl H. Strausser, did all of this last Friday, according to her allegations, she lost no time in filing a suit for divorce and Saturday made an application. They were married last February. She wants her maiden name restored which was Alice M. McCormick.

Valley Druggists Estopped From Collecting Insurance

Because the Royal Insurance company, Limited, has its headquarters in London, England, over 4,000 miles away, is no reason why it should lose money, thinks County Attorney Magney. So he has filed an information against Charles Ackers and Frank L. Luce, druggists at Valley, Neb., who, the county attorney charges, attempted to collect on their policy of $4,000 on their store which was destroyed by fire under suspicious circumstances June 20.

PLAN TOURNAMENT WITH JACKSTONES

Exciting Contests Arranged for City Parks; Annual Election of Commissioners Takes Place Soon.

A jackstone tournament is proposed for the girls of the city at the playgrounds of the parks some time during the month by Recreation Superintendent Isaacson.

There is something fascinating in the dexterity of play required in the intricacies of this ancient game, and as there are some mighty expert players among the girls of the city, it is expected there will be many breathless moments during the contest.

All boys and girls in the city are requested by the superintendent of recreation to some time during the month try for places in the athletic badge tests prescribed by the physical directors of America. This is one of the tests required in physical education.

On July 19 the annual election of playground commissioners will be held, and all voters between the ages of 6 and 16 years are required to register at places provided in the different parks during the six days preceding the election.

Self-Governing System.

Playground activities will be divided into different departments, with a commissioner in charge of each department. Candidates for commissioner must be between the ages of 10 and 16 years of age. The commissioner receiving the largest vote will be elected mayor. Commissioners will appoint all officers which work under them in their different departments. The playground system of the city is self-governing, and those elected to responsible places will do the administrative work under the playground superintendents.

Children at the playgrounds are working on war and other patriotic programs, which are calculated to instill a spirit of Americanism and understanding of the customs and ideals of the allies.

Madame Guerin Adds $1,000 to Fund for War Orphans of France

Coincidence of all denominations were showered on the truck used by Madame Guerin, a French woman who is touring the country in the interest of French war orphans, and her assistants, at Sixteenth and Farnam streets Saturday afternoon and night.

An impromptu vaudeville entertainment was given by a "jazz" band and juvenile dancers and singers, which attracted large crowds, who listened to the appeals of Madame Guerin.

It is estimated that more than $1,000 was raised for the fund.

The sale of buttons will continue and the money will be turned over to Madame Borglum, who will act as treasurer for Omaha, and will be eventually devoted to the care of French children who have been bereaved of heroic fathers in the struggle for world liberty.

The children will be adopted in the name of the "Omaha public," this to show in a substantial way the sympathy of our people for suffering France.

Vatican's Invasion of China May Meet French Opposition

Paris, July 13.—The news of the Vatican's decision to appoint a papal nuncio for China is calculated to make a deep impression upon the French diplomatic and church circles, in the view of the Rome correspondent of the Petit Journal. He recalls that Pope Leo XIII in 1885 appointed a nuncio for Peking. The French minister at the Vatican threatened that France would break off relations with the Vatican if the plan were carried out. Pope Leo cancelled the appointment, the correspondent adds.

The Rome correspondent of the Havas agency says that the name most frequently mentioned in connection with the Peking post is that of Monsignor Joseph Petrelli, apostolic delegate to the Philippines.
