

HUNS SQUEAL IN BAYONET FIGHT SAYS OMAHA BOY

S. B. Yule After Six Months in Trenches With French
Army Is Invalided Home;
Wants to Enlist.

S. B. Yule, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Yule of Lincoln, who has seen six months' service with the French army, is in Omaha.

The young soldier enlisted in the French army in June, 1917, at a French recruiting station in Chicago. He went overseas and after 10 days training in France, was put to work driving an ammunition wagon. He wanted to drive an ambulance but the French explained that, although they had plenty of ambulance drivers they were up against it for men for ammunition trains. He served in the American field base. It is a unit composed of American volunteers.

"Thrills?" Yule repeated with a chuckle when he was asked about his experiences. "Yes, I had scores of them. None of the Boche shells had my number but some of them came pretty close. We made most of our trips after dark and we drove right up to the trenches."

Squeal Like Rats.
The Germans squeal like rats when they make a bayonet attack, says Yule, but the Americans and French and English don't squeal—they grunt. Yule was discharged because of general debility. After months of hard labor near the battle line his health broke down and he was taken to a French hospital at Biette where, he says, he was given the best of treatment. When he recovered he was invalided home.

The young fellow was made a corporal while he was in the service of the French. He is a soldier and longs to get back to the firing line. He tried to enlist in the United States army Monday, but because he registered in the draft June 5, he is not eligible for enlistment.

At present he is employed at the Armour Packing company, South Side.

He is a graduate of the Lincoln high school and attended the state university prior to his enlistment. He is a member of the Beta Theta Phi fraternity.

San Francisco Mayor Will Be Candidate for Governor

San Francisco, July 15.—Mayor James Rolph announced tonight that he would enter the race for the gubernatorial nomination. Petitions would be circulated, his announcement said, for his nomination on both republican and democratic tickets. In private life Rolph is a banker and head of a shipbuilding company. The mayor's announcement makes seven candidates for the governorship. The primary election will be held August 27.

President Wilson Signs
Bill for Wire Control

Washington, July 16.—President Wilson today signed the wire control resolution, empowering him to take over and operate for the period of the war all telegraph, telephone, cable and radio lines.

Senator Hoagland Joins Higgins Packing Company

Former State Senator Walter V. Hoagland of North Platte, a large land owner in the western cattle country, has become interested in the new independent packing plant of the Higgins Packing company, and has just been elected director and vice president.

As to crop conditions, the senator has this to say: "We are at present enjoying one of the most prosperous seasons we ever had. While western Nebraska has always been recognized for its thrift in the small grain and cattle industry, this year is a most exceptional one, and going to be a record breaker. If the balance of the state does as well as the western part, Nebraska will enjoy the greatest prosperity ever known in this state. We, being in a cattle growing country, are much interested in the movements of Omaha people in getting better packing house facilities, which not only means more money for the stock producers of the state, but greater prosperity for the city of Omaha."

Is a "Medium" a "Fortune Teller?" Puzzles Police Judge

The case of Ella Liverpool, otherwise known as "madame," charged with conducting a fortune telling parlor without a license, was heard by Judge Fitzgerald in police court Tuesday and was taken under advisement. The particular question to be solved is whether a "first class" medium, as madame admits that she is, is a fortune teller or not. The only witness declared that her fortune had been told by madame, who just looked at her. From the blushes of the witness there seemed strong reasons to believe that the "fortune" pleased her. Her main complaint, however, was not against the madame, but against a colored man whom she suspected of having pilfered some of her jewelry while she was receiving the information from the spirit land.

Government Labor Bureau Can Supply More Men Work

Responding to a government call, the free co-operative employment bureau of Omaha will send sixteen machinists, boiler-makers and copper-smiths to the shipyards at San Francisco Saturday. The following week another shipment of thirty-two will be sent from the Lincoln office to the Seattle shipyards. "We have more calls than we can supply for men in practically all lines of work," said George J. Kleffner, manager of the bureau. "This is true both in the men's and women's departments." Harvest is over in this section, and the bureau is sending the hands that were sent in here to take care of this work on to South Dakota, where the wheat harvest is just beginning.

Judge Dispenses Justice — In Two Dozen Traffic Cases

One of the most heinous crimes which finds its way into the police court these days, replacing the old standby of preprohibition times, is the infraction of the traffic ordinances. Judge Fitzgerald handled two or three dozen such cases Tuesday morning. He dispensed an even-handed justice, either discharging with a word of warning or imposing small fines on those who frankly and smilingly confessed to the possession of cars that could go 30 miles an hour, and plastering somewhat heavier fines on those who protested that their old boats could not possibly make more than 12 miles under the most favorable circumstances.

Harry Sigwart in Italy With Railway Contingent

Sergeant Sigwart of the police department has received word from his son, Harry, who is with the railroad contingent in overseas service. The young man has been transferred to Italy, where he, with other members of the contingent, are reconstructing and building railroads back of the fighting lines. He was in France until a little more than a month ago.

Young Sigwart had lived in Omaha all his life. He enlisted about a year ago and almost immediately thereafter was sent overseas.

Medal for Heroism

Washington, July 16.—Award of a gold medal to Commander Henry C. Mustin, United States navy, for heroism in saving the life of Fireman H. L. Legette on January 15 last, was announced today by Secretary Daniels.

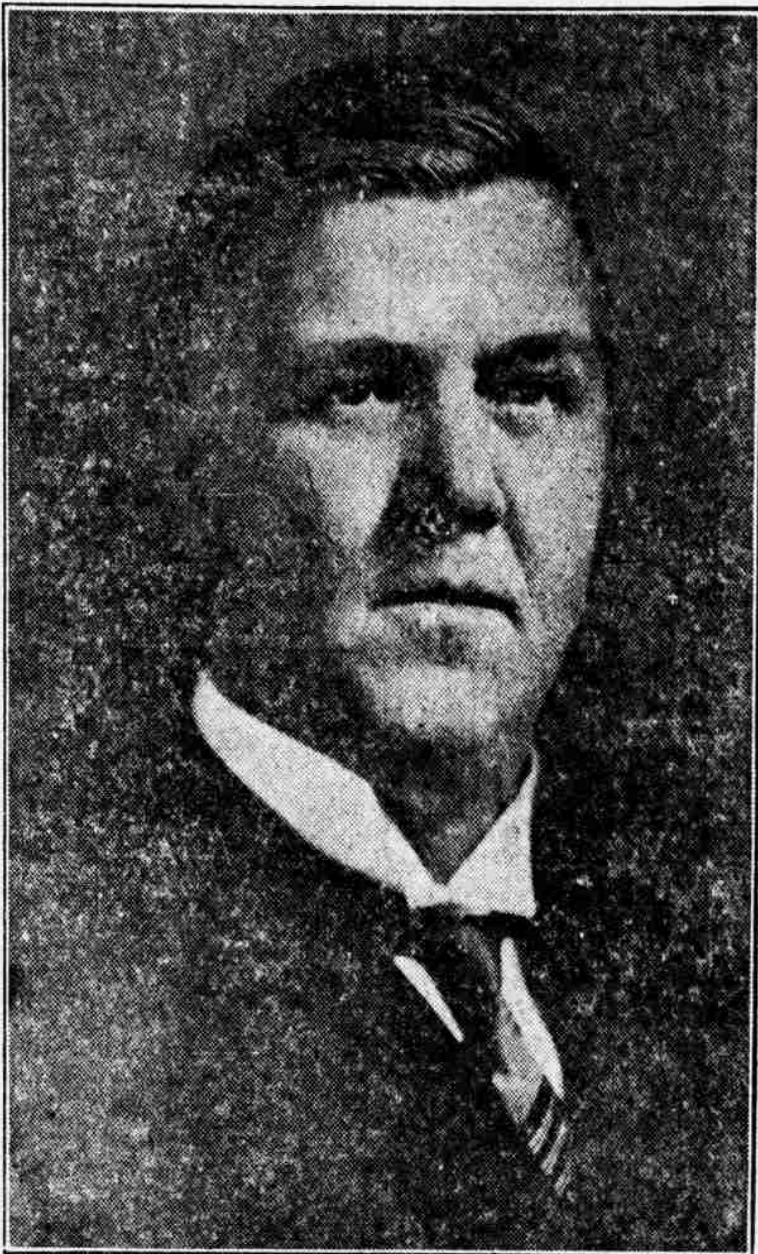

Supply House to Still Be on a Credit Basis

The recent announcement of the automobile men regarding various measures adopted to put the automobile business on a war time basis has caused more or less confusion in regard to its application to the supply houses.

According to C. G. Powell the supply houses will still continue to do credit business. The main aim of the recent measures adopted by the automobile dealers is to eliminate minor service work which can be done by owners if they will try to help themselves. Every minor bit of service work done by owners will release mechanics for war work and necessary skilled repair work on cars.

The cash basis will do away with the owners who continually drive in for advice and unimportant tinkering which they can do themselves.

Brandeis Stores

WHILE we are re-placing the old fixtures on the Second Floor with the newest and most beautiful apparel fixtures that have ever been seen in this part of the country, perhaps many of our valued patrons will be slightly inconvenienced with the changing around of departments and the re-arrangement of stocks—but we know that when the change shall have been completed—the added conveniences and the immense improvement in surroundings will more than compensate for any temporary annoyance experienced now.

With the fixed idea of better and better service always in mind—we are taking out fittings that are the equal of any in this part of the country and replacing them with newer and more improved fixtures that are not to be seen anywhere else for miles and miles around.
