

SAFEGUARD COAL BY 14 BINS FOR CITY HOSPITAL

Local Dealers Refuse to Make Contracts for Winter Delivery; Steps Are Taken to Conserve Supply.

To safeguard the county's coal supply for next winter the county commissioners late Wednesday afternoon voted to construct fourteen coal bins at the county hospital at an approximate cost of $6,000. Plans have been drawn and the work will begin at once.

The plans call for fourteen bins with a total capacity of about 100 tons each. Each bin will be 20 feet square and independent of the other to safeguard against possible fire. Concrete foundations will form the sub-structure with a heavy wooden floor raised above the ground to allow free circulation of air beneath to serve as a fire protection. The walls and roof will be of wood.

State Fuel Administrator Kennedy has informed the county commissioners that he will be unable to guarantee to hospitals and public buildings any coal next winter. He has given plenty of warning, he says, and the only safeguard is a full bin.

Local coal dealers have refused to make any contract with the county for delivery next winter. Only immediate delivery orders are accepted.

F. A. Neary Arrested On Grave Charges Made by Young Girls

F. A. Neary, 207 North Fourteenth street, was arrested on complaint of people in the vicinity of Riverview park that he attempted to mislead small girls near the outskirts of the park, Wednesday night. Children of the neighborhood identified Neary as the man who mistreated Lillian Hansen, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hansen, 2112 South Fourth street, a week ago. The child is in a serious condition.

Neary gave no reason for lurking in the park vicinity. He told police officers that his home was in Scranton, Pa.

Session of Veterinary Surgeons Comes to Close

Missouri valley veterinarians closed their session at the Rome hotel Wednesday morning. Only about 50 of the 230 registered delegates remained for the final session, which was to have been an all-day clinic, but was changed to an unfinished business session on the nonarrival of the clinical material.

Several resolutions were passed. Food conservation, especially in the case of meat products, was urged on the members. It was resolved to seek legislation forbidding the unsanitary method of buying carcasses of infected animals and forcing more modern disposal. Legislation also will be asked for encouragement of the more extended use of horseflesh and safeguarding its use.

Woman Released From Detention Home When Habeas Writ is Given

One-half hour after a writ of habeas corpus directed against Dr. E. T. Manning, city health commissioner and Miss Alta Berger, superintendent of the city detention hospital, had been served on them for the production in court of Ruth Livingston, the woman was released and went to her home. Persons on whom writs of habeas corpus are served have the alternative of producing the person confined in court, or releasing the person.

"We released the woman simply because we found her free from disease," said Dr. Palmer Findley, surgeon in charge of the home under Dr. Manning. "She was released in the regular way and her dismissal had nothing to do with the court order."

The woman had been found guilty in police court of being an inmate of an ill-governed home and had been ordered to the hospital by the police magistrate. She passed eight days in the home.

L. B. Day, attorney for the woman, says that authorities of the home exceeded their legal authority when they compel inmates to undergo physical examinations or to take treatments for diseases.
