lughes, one up. The two played 18 toles with neither having a lead of ore than two during the entire time-It was a draw most of the time with one or the other forging one hole head. Both putted unusually well. The third round of the main flights will be played this morning and the rounds of the consolation second ights. In the afternoon the semifinals will be played off in all flights. In addition those who failed to qualify Wednesday will play against bogey. Finals will be played in all flights Saturday morning. The second half of the championship flight, in which a total of 36 holes will be played, is carded for the afternoon.

Dan McCabe Unbeaten.

Dan McCabe, youthful golfer and former caddy at the Field club, re-mains undefeated. In the first round of the championship flight he de-feated W. L. Wilcox, six up and five to play. He next disposed of W. N. Chambers, one up playing 18 holes. Young and Marley divided honors on the first green and Young took the second hole. The third was also halved. Young escaped a ditch by a few inches on the way to the third hole and made it in fewer strokes than Marley. A nice drive sent Young's sphere on the way to the third green, but on the next stroke the ball bounded from the green and rolled several feet down the incline. The hole was halved.

Young's ball sought a resting place in some high grass near the next green. Since Marley's putting ma-chine continued to backfire, Young gained the hole, three up. Young's putting then declined to Marley's evel and the two split the hole. The ninth was Young's, 4 to 5. Coming in, Young's ball betook itself to a water hazard and refused to be dislodged with a single stroke. The tenth hole added to Young's lead giving him a five up which was the nighest attained in the match. The next hole was halved and the next two went to Marley. Young came back and annexed the next and split the fifteenth. This ended the match, making Young the victor.
