"Back to the Primitive" Is Slogan of Devoted Wives of Army Men

TOT all the hardships of war are meted out to the men in uni-form, for the wives of the army officers are suffering many inconveniences and discomforts that they may be near their ausbands. "Back to the primitive" seems to be the slogan of these patriotic matrons. whose hearts are in the service, and to us, living as we do, in this electric lighted age, it is indeed a sacrifice to choose to live without the little conveniences which make the wheels of life run smoothly.

A former Omaha girl writes very graphically of life at Camp Dix and of the difficulties she has encountered in finding accommodations near the camp where her officer husband is stationed. After much searching she finally found a boarding house where there was an unengaged room. Her braska Young Women's Christian asdowny couch was composed of 'a straw mattress, and you who are slumbering in luxury in your Ostermoor please reflect on the delights of a sleep producer of straw.

A mere turn of the wrist does not flood the room with light at this that kerosene lamps are part of the comforts she enjoys.

The natives near the camp seem to hold the army in contempt and their independence is amazing. Her description of the first night spent at Mount Holly is very amusing. Four different boarding houses refused to serve anything because it was after 7 p. m., and when a hotel was reached, the waitress said in a bored tone. "pork chops and egg plant." hope was not lost, however, for after much persuasion the haughty waitress condescended to have some eggs

The bride was in white, her gown of white georgette made on simple lines, and a picture hat of the same material shading her face. A shower bouquet of white roses was carried.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives. Dr. and Mrs. Nigro left this after-noon on a western trip. The bride's traveling suit was of dark brown satin, with which she wore a small hat of the same shade. Dr. Nigro and his bride will make their home in Kansas City.

A Patriotic Pageant.

A patriotic pageant, a great chorus of girls' voices and music by Dan Des-dude's band are among the attrac-tions offered by the War Camp Community service at Riverview park next Saturday evening. The pageant will be "The Spirit of Freedom," conducted by Mary Wallace. The patri otic league girls are to sing, and all other girls in the city who would like to help in this chorus are invited to

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

1st—Their effect on prices; 2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?
