

GERMAN DOCTOR BREAKS WRIST OF FAITHFUL NURSE

Gunner Depew Will Tell of This and Other German Atrocities at Boyd Theater Tonight.

If your heart is weak and your nerves are shaky you don't want to come and hear Gunner Albert N. Depew of the French navy, formerly of the American navy. Because what he is going to tell the people of Omaha at the Boyd theater tonight isn't the pleasant stuff in the world—but it's the truth about the Germans. But if you've got fighting American blood in you come and hear it—and get mad at the German Hun.

When a man with the record of Depew tells you of a German doctor who broke the wrists of a faithful young nurse who saved his life it gets under your skin. It is merely a part of the atrocious record of brutalities which Depew witnessed with his own eyes. He was across all of Germany in his prison camp experiences, he saw not the generals and the war lords but was mistreated by the great body of German people. It isn't the Kaiser we are fighting, says he—it's the German character developed into that of ferocious savages by their training of the past generations.

It won't cost anyone a cent to hear Gunner tonight at the Boyd. His personal expenses are being taken care of by the Burgess-Nash firm of Omaha. The Boyd management was more than willing to donate the use of its house and the employees of the house offered their services free to aid him in telling the American people what prisoners in Germany are having to suffer.

There will be a free offering for the Milk and Ice Fund for Omaha babies conducted by The Omaha Bee, which is entirely a voluntary proposition. No admission charges are to be made.

Mayor Ed P. Smith, whose son, Lyle, is in the United States army, will preside and will introduce Gunner Depew to the audience. One of the interesting parts of the evening for those who have friends and relatives "over there," will be the round table discussion to be held following the address of the evening. Gunner will talk personally with all who wish to come up on the stage and meet him and will gladly answer to the best of his knowledge any questions concerning the war.

Eagle Eye of Former Cop Leads to "Booze" Arrest

When Joe Urbanec, formerly a motorcycle officer on the police force, stepped into a pool hall at Sixteenth and Dodge streets Saturday afternoon, he saw one of a group of five men in the rear of the building pull a bottle from his hip pocket and pass it to his lips. From the actions of the men he surmised that the contents of the bottle were not beef tea or cough medicine.

Traffic Officer Hetland was summoned, and when the men saw the law approaching three of them took to their heels and escaped. J. H. Willmore, 634 South Fifth street, and W. T. Mahoney, 2232 Cedar street, however, put up a stiff fight, which left Willmore with a facial map that looked like it had stopped a hand grenade. Two pints of whiskey were found in their possession, and both men were booked on a charge of intoxication and illegal possession of liquor.

Thieves Now Outfitted To Take Vacation Nicely

The thief or thieves who robbed William H. Jones, 232 Millard hotel, and C. H. Rice, Fifth street and Military avenue, are on their way to the seashore or to the mountains by this time with a full line of equipment for a vacation. A tennis racket, a bathing suit, two pairs of white trousers, a pair of white oxfords, five pairs of silk socks, a silk lavender shirt, four black and white striped shirts and a grip made up the haul from Jones' room at the Millard.

Seven suits of clothes in green and white and blue stripes, two commandery coats and six suits of underwear, with a leather suitcase was what the summer tourist secured at the home of Mr. Rice.

Retailers Warned to Obey County Sugar Regulations

Retailers selling sugar to consumers living in other counties than that in which the retailers' business is located must conform to the rules and regulations in effect in the county in which the consumer lives, according to a ruling of A. C. Lau, deputy food administrator for Nebraska. Especially is this rule directed at the methods of keeping check and records on the sales of sugar.

The necessity for such an order arises out of the fact that counties in the state are using different classes of sugar records, some using the cards, others the record, and yet others the certificate. That counties may have a uniform basis and a complete check, it was necessary that consumers must abide by the regulations of their county.

Omaha, more than any other city in the state except Lincoln, will be affected by this order. The metropolis and the capital city number among customers many residents of other counties, who come to do their trading. Under this order it becomes imperative that the retailer selling to consumers must acquaint himself with the rules of the county and make their sales accordingly.

Disregard of the ruling, if proven, will mean the cancelling of the sugar rights of the retailer.

Major Frith, in charge of recruiting in the Omaha district, declares that the new ruling will not have a great effect on the work done by the postmasters as it is expected they will continue to co-operate with those in charge of recruiting.

Husband Squanders Savings; Wife Tries to End Her Life

Despondent over her domestic troubles, 25-year old Mrs. Charles E. Peterson, 1511 Grant street, attempted to commit suicide by drinking poison at her home Saturday afternoon. The arrival of Detectives Chapman and Jensen, and Police Surgeon John C. Follmann saved her life. Saturday night she was out of danger.

Drunkness on the part of her husband, who is a driver for the Central Tassiac company, and the fact that he drew their entire savings of $100 out of the bank and spent it, were the causes of her attempt to take her own life, according to the police. Mrs. Peterson has been taken in sewing to support herself.

Coffey as Surgeon Gives Injured Woman Skilled Attention

Furious blushes mantled the fair forehead of John Coffey, police patrol conductor, Saturday afternoon as he confronted one of the most delicate tasks of his long career as police officer.

Frantic calls came to the police station late in the afternoon for first aid at once to attend an injured woman at 604 North Seventeenth street. The police ambulance was rushed to the scene and it was found that Emma Brown was lying in the basement after a jump of 15 feet from the porch above, with a large gash below one knee.

In the absence of a surgeon, for none had been available when the call came into the station, Coffey mopped her brow, peeled her coat and became a surgeon.

Cross-examination elicited the information that the Brown woman and C. V. Campbell, ironworker, had been having a little party with the flowing bowl as the center of attraction. Hostilities followed and the Brown woman jumped off the rear porch into the cellarway.

Campbell was arrested on the charge of intoxication.

City Employee Burned As Investigates Leak

Failure of the city to supply him with a flashlight instead of an oil lantern may cost F. H. Henton, 20, 1720 North Twenty-fifth street, his right arm. Henton's arm was severely burned by an explosion as he investigated a leak in the gasoline line of one of the city's sprinklers at Thirteenth and Farnam streets. Henton crawled beneath the sprinkler and his foreman, Rudy Havelk, pushed the lantern under to Henton. The explosion followed. Henton was taken to the pharmacy of the Pope Drug company, where his wound was dressed by Dr. R. M. Fouch and Police Surgeon A. J. Edstrom. Later he was taken to the Lord Lister hospital.
