Women of Omaha Will Enlist to Bake Pies For Soldier Boys

Expert pie makers are needed. Every woman who can make luscious lemon pies, appetizing apple pies, gorgeous grape pies or pies of any other brand that can only be described by superlative adjectives, is asked to register with the War Camp Community Service...

All the experts have to do is to bake one, or more than one if preferred. The boys like pie better than anything else eatable. The women of Omaha have the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to find their way to a man's heart through the avenue that is agreed is the most likely.

Fortunately, the recruiting offices are all closed. Otherwise, they would not doubt be filled to overflowing with applications from men anxious to sample the work of Omaha's domestic science graduates and old-fashioned cooks. Some interest is already being expressed as to which of these branches of the culinary profession will most please the soldiers, and the results of the contest will be watched with interest.

Wahlstrom-Samuelson Nuptials. The marriage of Miss Lillie Samuelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Samuelson and Mr. Arthur Wahlstrom, will take place Wednesday, August 21 in Swedish Immanuel Lutheran church. A large wedding party has been named by the bride, including Miss Ruth Wahlstrom as maid of honor, the Misses Mildred and Eva Wahlstrom, bridesmaids; the Misses Alma Gustafson, Ellen Wahlstrom, Ruth Peterson and Maoline Larsen ribbon stretchers, and Harriet Samuelson, ring bearer. Harry Samuelson will be best man, and William Broadbent and Richard Peterson, ushers. Rev. Chiniund will perform the ceremony.

Women Take Auto Trip. A party of Omaha women left on an automobile trip to Lake Geneva Wis., where they will attend the summer conference of the Young Women's Christian association. Mrs. L. M. Lord is hostess and will be driver for the entire trip. They left Omaha this afternoon and will spend the night in Des Moines, Ia. From there they will go to Chicago, and thence to Lake Geneva. In the party will be Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Grace F. Gholson, Mrs. Hudson of Simeon, Neb., and Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan. The party expects to be in Lake Geneva August 16. From there Mrs. Gholson will go to Chicago, where she will attend a conference of the Young Women's Christian association war workers.

Future Events. Miss Goldie Melcher will entertain at cards and tea at the Blackstone hotel Wednesday. Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority will give a luncheon at the Blackstone hotel Thursday. Mrs. R. H. Thompson has charge of the reservations.

W. C. T. U. Election. The annual meeting and election of officers for Omaha Woman's Christian Temperance union will be held Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the Young Women's Christian association. Local superintendents will give reports.

Card Parties Abandoned. The Columbia club of Sacred Heart parish will dispense with its card parties during the remainder of August but will resume the parties September 11.

Suffrage Case in Court. Omaha suffragists expect examination of suffrage referendum petitions to be concluded by September 1 and the case to come up in court by October 1.

Today is the 100th anniversary of Lucy Stone Blackwell, pioneer American suffragist. No formal observance of the day was planned because the suffragists in the city are busy with various forms of war work.

PERSONALS

D. A. Johnson is home from a month's trip through Iowa, spending most of the time in Des Moines and Sioux City.

A. A. Holcomb returned Monday morning from a western trip, but left again in the evening to join his wife at Rapid City, S. D.

Mrs. Arthur E. Irvine, formerly Miss Myrtle Brady, is visiting at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Thomas, of Syracuse, N. Y., are visiting Mr. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter L. Thomas, 4624 Farnam street.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

When my friend is deserving I will go to him often with words of praise. For then he will be inspired to bigger things and grander deeds. I wonder if any kindred soul ever warmed the heart of Lincoln with fit praise and let him know what grandeur was in his work and how well he deserved of humanity. Or did the words of reverent affection fall only upon eyes of glass and the words of love and praise upon ears of clay.

FLICKS OF FASHION

Vogues of the Moment in Omaha Shops

It is a truism that events have always had their effect upon fashion. One of the nattiest serge dresses, shown me yesterday certainly had an air militaire about it, with its cape back and jacket front like the uniform of a dashing French officer. A bright cerise and blue checked lining added a decided note of gaiety to the blue serge cape.

I can't refrain from telling you about a very unique chapeau I saw in this same store. It was a high-crowned sailor of navy blue pattern with this side a large black silk ornamented in front with a panel of plain silk and embroidered with a basket of old-fashioned posies, encircled the crown.

Whilst I was touring the stores yesterday morning, I saw Mrs. J. J. Hess of Council Bluffs shopping with her charming young daughter, Gretchen. They were evidently in quest of pretty clothes for Miss Gretchen's boarding school outfit. Mrs. Hess looked very cool and summery in a lovely frock of navy blue voile, with crisp collar and cuffs of white organdy. With this she wore a large black Milan hat, faced becomingly with black satin. Miss Gretchen looked exceptionally smart in a frock of open blue voile, and a small chic hat of blue.

WOMEN IN WAR TIME

Women Serve in Many Fields. "The girl behind the man behind the gun." A practical talk on this slogan of the Young Women's Christian association was given by Mrs. Grace Gholson, state director of the war work campaign in Nebraska at a meeting Monday afternoon of the Liberty club at Happy Hollow.

Mrs. Gholson made the astounding statement that at present there are as many women and girls in war service as there are men. This takes in the Red Cross, the Waacs, the Young Women's Christian association and many other activities. She also stated that women were in all work that men were, not even excluding actual fighting, citing the Russian Legion of Death to illustrate the fact.

Mrs. Carrie M. Spellman, grand matron of the Eastern Star, was present and gave greetings from the state board.

Call for Applications. All volunteers in the United States student nurses reserve are asked to call in the vestibule of the county court house where application blanks will be furnished them. Mrs. C. S. Elgutter in charge.

Three more girls enlisted after the drive closed Saturday, which brings the total for Omaha up to 212.

Red Cross

A call for help is issued by the Red Cross public workshop in the Keelie building. The mending of soldiers' uniforms is the work for August, and there are 400 of them to be repaired.

If some of the women in town who have not been working with us could give us a day flow and then, or even an occasional hour or two," said Mrs. H. B. Robinson, chairman for August, "it would be a great help to us and enable us to get them done in time to get a little vacation."

The uniforms are clean, just from the laundry, and the work is not disagreeable. If help is not forthcoming, the faithful few who have been working all summer will have to keep on all through the dog days to complete the mending.

A Paisley shawl and two mourning veils are among the contributions to the salvage department. These will be sold at a reduced cost. Mrs. Frank Adams is asking local merchants for the use or gift of a standard or frame for hanging garments, which is needed in salvage headquarters.

Keep Zinc Away From Your Preserves

Do not use galvanized utensils in making preserves, jellies or fruit juices, the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture advises. Some of the zinc with which the vessels are galvanized may be changed to salts of zinc, which will give the product an acid and astringent taste and render it unsuitable for human use. Moreover, the dissolving of this zinc coating tends to ruin the container. The use of galvanized utensils for boiling down fruit juice is especially risky.

The choice of white for wedding gowns is of comparatively modern origin. The Roman brides wore yellow and in most eastern countries pink is the bridal color.

Latest in Beauty Spots Is Coat-of-Arms Affair Designed by Atlantic Miss

MISS ADA KASHNER, Miss Ada Kashner, of Atlanta, Ga., is the creator of what possibly is the latest in beauty spots. Miss Kashner has a sweetheart in France. Her beauty spot has now been transferred into the insignia of the United States infantry, crossed rifles. She also worked in the "V" service stripe, which designates the six months' service in the war zone.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have for some time read your advice to people in The Omaha Bee, never expecting to call on you for advice, but your advice is so good, so I am asking you to help me. I am a young man of 19 years and in love with a girl two years my senior. I had been keeping steady company with her for over a year. Two months ago I went out with another girl friend. I admit I did wrong, but what should I do to win her back? I love her. She has treated me cold ever since I did this. But I shall never do it again, as I think too much of her. Please answer this in The Bee. ANXIOUS.

Why not explain to the girl just as you have to me. When she understands I am sure she will forgive you.

Returning Gifts. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have been an interested reader to your helpful advice. Where could I get particulars about filing on a homestead? I am 19 years old and have been keeping company with a young man two years my senior. He has asked me to return a ring, which one of my old friends gave me last year. He said if I did not want it, he would give it to me. I am afraid if I return this ring he will think I am doing it to get another one. This ring was only a friendship ring with an opal set. I don't care to return it, but will wait for your advice. Am I old enough to file on a homestead? If I am about how much I need to start on. Can young girls see wear big bows tied on top of their heads? I thank you very much for your advice. Please do not print my name. Now Miss Fairfax, I am afraid if I return this ring he will think I am doing it to get another one. This ring was only a friendship ring with an opal set. I don't care to return it, but will wait for your advice. Am I old enough to file on a homestead? If I am about how much I need to start on. Can young girls see wear big bows tied on top of their heads? I thank you very much for your advice. Please do not print my name.

If you are engaged to this man he would be justified in asking you to return the ring, but if he is merely a friend, I cannot see why he should comply with his request, unless you wish to. You must be 21 years old before you can file on a homestead.

Nineteen is a little too old for bows. I think you can arrange it some other way that will be girlish.

Too Slow. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have a serious problem, and which I wish you would help me solve. Some years ago I met a girl whom I learned to love very dearly, and who I thought I would like to marry. The affair had not reached the stage where we had an understanding, and we were both free to go and come with whom ever we pleased. Later another young man came along and paid considerable attention to the girl. I continued to see her occasionally, but never talked about the future in a serious manner, and probably showed less interest in her unintentionally. She seemed to enjoy my company and rather than think she cared a little, however, she became engaged to this young man, and, of course, I discontinued my attention to her. They have been engaged now over a year but they are not seen around much. I am deeply in love with her, which I know, because my love has not died out in all these years.

Now, what I wish to know is this: Would it be fair to her and the young man if I should ask her to grant me an opportunity of having a frank and serious talk with her, and tell her my feelings, so she will know both sides, and let her choose?

"ON THE SQUARE." "He who hesitates is lost," and you were too slow, my friend. If this young woman is now engaged to another man I would wait until I was sure that her engagement was broken before I told her of my feelings. I like the sensible tone of your letter and am sorry that this happiness has slipped away from you, but next time, hurry, before some other man steps in.

Wants to Help. My Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Could you please give me some good ideas for making money for the Red Cross? I have a friend who is partly blind and is not able to see or knit, but she would like very much to do her part as an American. Thank you in advance, I am S. C. M.

Have you seen the beautiful scrap books made for the convalescing soldiers? Your friend would probably enjoy making these and the Red Cross are anxious to get them. If she cannot sew or knit I hardly see how she could make much money for the Red Cross. If she is able to cook she might sell bread, pies and cakes among her friends, if she feels able to donate the materials.

A Trouseau. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am engaged to a young man in the army and he has just returned home. We expect to be married about the middle of September. After the ceremony we expect to leave (by train) for a short trip to visit his relatives for a few days. When his trip is up to expect to return with him to Manhattan to be with him for probably two weeks, after which I expect to return to the home of my parents. Now, Miss Fairfax, I am a girl making $10 a month and want to buy all of my clothes, without the financial help of my parents, if possible. I want to dress neatly but not extravagantly. Will you please tell me just what I will need while I am gone? I would appreciate the answer being in Sunday's Bee if possible and sincerely thanking you for your help, I am S. C. M.

I would buy a tailored suit, blue, if becoming to you, and a smart little hat to match. This, with a dark waist of georgette, will be appropriate for traveling. A stylish silk dress of some dark color would be very useful on cool days. If you can afford it buy a pretty light dress for evening wear, one that you can use all winter. Try to have several frock, pretty blouses and perhaps an extra separate skirt and I think

"Dreamland Adventures" By Daddy—THE MIGHTY WHIZ ARMY

A complete, new adventure each week beginning Monday and ending Saturday.

CHAPTER III. The Spy is Surprised.

(General Swallow calls Peggy to see an army marching through the city. It is the Whizz army under General Thrift. She accompanies it to an airplane factory, where she finds a German spy at work.)

AS PEGGY made the discovery that the foreman was secretly injuring the airplane, a young man in an army aviator's uniform entered the room. The foreman quickly slipped his file into a pocket and pretended to be giving the machine a final inspection. "Got her ready for me, Carl?" cried the young man. "She's fine and fit, Lieutenant Young," answered Carl. "Good," responded Lieutenant Young. "She looks like a blinger! I'll have a chance to test her in real action today. We're going after those German U-boats with every machine we can get."

Lieutenant Young was so much absorbed in admiring the seaplane that he did not notice the gleam in Carl's eye. Peggy saw it, however, and she clenched her fists. She wasn't going to let the foreman send this brave young officer to his doom if she could help.

The seaplane was mounted on a truck and workmen called by the foreman quickly ran it out of a large door to an incline used in launching the machines upon the bay on which the factory faced.

Peggy ran after. She didn't know just how to warn the lieutenant. She was invisible because of the effects of Camouflage Perfume, and she was so tiny she couldn't whisper in his ear. By the times he reached the incline Lieutenant Young had climbed into the pilot's seat.

"You've tested all the wires and everything," he asked Carl. "You know I wouldn't neglect that," said Carl, so hypocritically that Peggy wanted to pinch him. She had to act quickly, to upset his plot. "Give me a boost to the lieutenant's shoulder," she cried to General Swallow. He fluttered above her and she grasped his legs. He rose into the air, lifting her to the cockpit that enclosed the officer and the controls with which he worked the seaplane. Peggy leaned far over and shouted: "Look at your wires! They've been cut!"

Motors popping within the factory drowned her tiny voice so that it scarcely got through Lieutenant Young's aviator helmet. Yet he heard her and looked around to see who was speaking. Of course she was invisible, and when he saw no one he thought his imagination was playing tricks on him. So he prepared to start his engine.

"Look at your wires!" again screamed Peggy, as loudly as she could. The warning worried Lieutenant Young, who evidently thought it was just a fancy of his mind. He examined the wires close to the cockpit, but not at their other ends, where Carl had filed them.

"Are you sure the wires are all right?" he called to the foreman. "Sure I'm sure," repeated Carl, getting his English tangled up in his nervousness. "I just looked at them."

Lieutenant Young put out his hand to his throttle. Peggy was desperate. She called on General Swallow for help. "Show him the wires are cut," she screamed. "Rap on them! Tear them!"

General Swallow acted instantly. He hammered at the cut wires with his beak, shaking them and making the putty fly from the filled places. Lieutenant Young couldn't see General Swallow because of the effects of the Camouflage Perfume, but he did see the quivering wires and the flying bits of putty. He climbed out on the wings of the seaplane and reached up to the wires. In a moment he had found the cuts made by the file.

Carl went pale as he saw that his evil work was discovered. Peggy saw him move as if to run away. Then, like an actor, he forced an unconcerned smile to his lips and came to the side of the machine. "Anything wrong?" he said. Lieutenant Young stepped back from the injured wires and looked Carl full in the face.

"What made you think there might be something wrong?" he asked in a very calm, very cold voice. "You just said the wires were all right."

"That's what the inspector said," quickly answered Carl. Lieutenant Young called to the inspector. "Inspector Mordyce, will you kindly come here?" Lieutenant Young pointed to the wires. "Did you give your approval to these wires?"

The inspector carefully examined the wires. Then he grew as white as Carl had been. "Some one has tampered with them," he whispered to Lieutenant Young. The officer, his face set hard and stern, and the boyish fun all gone out of it, nodded his head. "That's plain to be seen," he said. He looked Carl square in the eye. "Foreman Carl, you and your crew were the only persons who touched this seaplane after its inspection. Line up here."

Nine men lined up with Carl. "Which of you 10 tampered with the wires?" "The men looked at him in astonishment, even Carl simulating surprise. No one answered. Peggy turned eagerly to General Swallow.

"Make him confess," she cried. "The way you did Blue Jay." "That was enough for General Swallow. He darted to Carl's shoulder and seized him by the ear, nipping it fiercely. The foreman let out a yell of pain and fear. "Wow!" he screamed, jumping forward. "Wow! Wow!" "Humph!" muttered Lieutenant Young. "I half suspected it."

"No, no, no!" yelled Carl. "It wasn't me!" General Swallow nipped his ear again, and Carl screamed the louder. "Pull the file from his pocket," cried Peggy. General Swallow went to Carl's ear and jerked the file partly out of his jumper pocket. Lieutenant Young saw it, stepped forward and took the file. He fitted it to the marks in the wires. Then he nodded his head and beckoned to two guards. "Place this man under arrest!" he ordered.

(On Friday will be told how the seaplane, with Peggy on board, goes searching for submarines.)

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bothers

(Modes of Today) It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Adv.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Discolored or freckled skin, so common at this season, is gently, gradually absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use it like cold cream. This will help any skin at once and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably clear, young and healthy.—Adv.

Stomach Trouble and Constipation

"I was sick for three years with stomach trouble and constipation, and doctored continually with different physicians with only temporary relief. A friend advised me to try Chamberlain's Tablets, which I did, and they completely cured me, not only of stomach trouble, but also of constipation," writes Mrs. Hester Waite, Antwerp, Ohio—Adv.

LINCOLN WOMAN GAINS 25 POUNDS TAKING TANLAC

Had To Be Wheeled Around In Chair For A Year—Tanlac Restores Her.

"I had to be wheeled around in a chair for a year and I don't believe I would be alive today had it not been for Tanlac," said Mrs. M. A. Van Kleeck, who resides at 1011 North 29th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska, recently.

"Beginning eight years ago," she continued, "I went down from a strong, healthy woman, weighing one hundred and eighty pounds, until I weighed scarcely a hundred and was just a complete physical wreck. I suffered from stomach trouble, indigestion and gas and what I thought was heart trouble. I also had sick headache a great deal of the time and was so nervous and miserable I could hardly sleep at all. I had the very best of treatment, and it seems to me I took enough medicine of different kinds to stock a small drug store, but with it all I kept getting worse. I was so weak and run-down for two years that I couldn't walk to the corner and finally got to where I had to be wheeled about in a chair.

"Twenty-five pounds—have gained twenty-five pounds—and want to place myself on record as saying that Tanlac has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took put together. Before I finished my first bottle my appetite improved and I commenced to feel better. So when I found Tanlac was helping me I kept taking it and in a few weeks I was enjoying normal health. For five long years I was never in a store, but now I can walk all around town shopping. It has been about two years now since Tanlac restored me and by using it just occasionally I am able to keep feeling well. I have recommended it to dozens of people who have also taken it with great benefits. Yes, I will praise Tanlac the longest day I live. I can't say too much for it."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., 16th and Dodge streets; 16th and Harney streets; Owl Drug Co., 16th and Farnam streets; Harvard Pharmacy, 24th and Farnam streets; northeast corner 19th and Farnam streets; West End Pharmacy, 49th and Dodge streets, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and in South Omaha by Forrest & Meany Drug Co.—Adv.
