ALL STARTERS IN POLITICAL RACE READY FOR WORD

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lincoln, Aug. 18 .- (Special.)-With the primary campaign practically closed, speculation as to the winners is about all there is left for the politicians to discuss. Never before in the history of a primary campaign has so much money been spent for publicity and political advertising and the result will be watched with much interest.

Outside of the senatorial campaign the fight in the democratic party over the governorship is of the most interest. It is interesting because if either of the two candidates are nominated, each one stands accused of being unfit to become executive of the state by the charges made by the opposing candidate.

On the democratie side in the senatorship campaign somebody is liable to disappointment. So far five of the five candidates are sure of nomination according to their own

Each One a Winner.

Former Governor Morehead says he has the nomination without a question; Attorney General Willis Reed says that it is as good as won; Dick Metcalfe has a lead pipe cinch; Lieutenant Governor Howard declares there is nothing to it but counting the votes; while "Bill" Price insists that things have been coming his way so fast the last two weeks that it is simply pitiful when one contemplates the small number of votes the other fellows will get.

Consequently everybody ought to be happy for at least two or three days longer.

On the republican side Chairman Ed Beach of the republican state committee is not worrying. The republicans, according to Beach, don't have to worry much this time. As a general thing the republican candidates before the people for their votes at the primary, he says, are all good men with clean records and there should be no worry regarding the Beach, of course, like any other man, has his choice, but is not letting it prejudice the strength of the others. "We are going to get behind the men nominated and elect them if we can," said he yesterday.

Western Nebraska Stockmen Organization Is Growing

The Association of Western Nebraska Stockmen, which was organized last May, is already making its influence felt in that portion of the

It has grown from a mere handful to a membership of over 250 in the two months of its existence. This represents practically every county in the state west of the meridian, and the association expects to have a membership of 1,000 by fall.

The secretary is now actively engaged in digging out the live stockfording to their interests, and pub lishing this information in a 200-page directory, which will be sent free to members and others supplying him with the necessary information per taining to their herds.

Besides the directory, the association has succeeded in getting the Duroc members together in sufficient numbers to hold a co-operative boar sale during the Lincoln county fair at North Platte this fall.

The object of this association is not however to sponsor any breed but to lend its influence to the development of all. This is but a be ginning. It will be particularly serviceable in discovering and bringing together breeders of similar stock and to work for stockmen's interests

ENGINEER SAYS HE WAS COMPELLED TO GIVE UP HIS RUN

Smith Restored By Tanlac After Suffering Fourteen Years - Gains Fifteen Pounds.

"If I had only known about Tanlac sooner I could have kept on running my engine," said I. N. Smith of 1026 Q street, Lincoln, recently. Mr. Smith, before his health gave way, was a locomotive engineer and ran out of Lincoln for sixteen years. He is at present following the carpenter's trade and states that he has never felt finer than he does since taking

"Before trying Tanlac," he continued, "I was simply a nervous and physical wreck and a more miserable person couldn't be found anywhere. had been suffering from catarrh of the throat and stomach for fourteen years and I just seemed to be played out in every way. I had no appetite and was so nervous and restless that I would just toss and roll all night long. I often had dizzy spells and simply suffered agony at times with rheumatism, which seemed to affect my whole body. I lost considerable weight and finally just had to give up engineering on account of my miserable condition. "But I am feeling as good as I ever felt in my life now and not only that, I have actually gained fifteen pounds in weight besides, which certainly seems remarkable for one of my age, as I am now past sixty. My appetite is so big that I eat like a wolf and all the symptons of catarrh and stomach troubles are gone. I am not nervous and dizzy any more and my rest every night is fine. In fact, all my pain and suffering is gone and I have never felt finer in all my life, not even when I was a boy. Tanlac has simply turned things right about for me and my only regret is that L did not know about it long

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., corner 16th and Dodge streets; 16th and Harney streets; Owl Drug Co., 16th and Farnam streets; Harvard Pharmacy, 24th and Farnam streets; northeast corner 19th and Farnam streets; West End Pharmacy, 49th and Dodge streets, under the personal direction of a Special Tanlac Representative, and in South Omaha by Forrest & Meany Drug Co .- Adv.

"Conscob" Saved From Firing Squad, But Must Go to Prison Camp Mead, Md., Aug. 18 .- Private Herrman Lunderson, a "conscientious objector," has been saved from the firing squad by President Wilson, but he must serve 15 years at Fort Leavenworth and receive a dishonorable discharge for his actions.

Richard L. Metcalfe Bids Defiance To the Pro-German Vote In Nebraska

"Do Your Damndest" Is the Message Which the Candidate for United States Senator Sends to the Kaiserite Forces Marshaled Against Him.

Metcalfe Throws Down the Gauntlet and Calls Upon 100 Per Cent Americans of All Parties, Regardless of Birthplace or Descent, to Help * Him Win the Fight.

T N the Nebraska senatorial contest now drawing to a close there is one big question to be determined. It is the question: Is the "pro-German vote" the dominant factor in the democratic party?

Politicians who oppose me frankly urge democrats who are anxious to nominate the strongest candidate that "the pro-German vote" will be against me and that my chief opponent could command that vote even more solidly in November than at the primaries. It is pointed out, with considerable force, that this "pro-German vote" has for years exercised control in democratic primaries; and "don't underestimate the German vote" has been dinned into the ears of every democrat who is anxious to nominate a winning ticket.

The chairman of the democratic state central committee, a German-American of great personal, political and racial influence, has been drafted for a tour of the state in behalf of my chief opponent and in the hope of impressing upon democrats the importance of nominating for senator a candidate who will not be offensive to the pernicious "German vote."

On every hand there is such commotion with respect to this particular influence that a stranger might imagine that we are about to select a candidate for the reichstag rather than an American

This, then, is the issue: Shall the democratic party in Nebraska choose its candidate for senator with the view of winning the approval of the pro-German vote!

Not so greatly different is the issue in the republican primary where it is proposed to nominate for senator a man who said that for the United States to go to war with Germany would be to put the dollar mark upon the American flag. It is an open secret that "the German vote" in the republican party is lined up solidly behind this candidate.

Many politicians are wondering whether Germans who have been voting with the democrats will go over to the republican primary to help nominate Mr. Norris or whether some who have been voting with the republicans will rush to the democratic party in the effort to defeat me. Opinion seems to be divided as to whether they hate me more than they love Mr. Norris.

I am writing this without passion or prejudice, but in a frank way, in order to suggest to republicans and democrats alike the seriousness of the situation confronting both parties in Nebraska, and as Americans we are all concerned in the action of both parties. Personally L-feel friendly to Mr. Norris. We have been friends for many years, but personal friendship does not count in the present crisis. If I am to be the democratic nominee I would prefer (speaking from the political standpoint) to have Mr. Norris as my opponent. But speaking as an American who counts neither political advantage nor personal fortune as of any moment at this time, I hope Mr. Norris will be defeated for the nomination.

For obvious reasons it is more difficult to speak frankly with respect to the democratic situation. But I can say without impropriety that upon the issue "Shall the pro-German vote dominate the democratic primary?" Nebraska democrats cannot afford to take an affirmative stand. The same applies to the republican party. Democrats generally would be amazed to know how plainly obsessed certain politicians and great editors are with the notion that it is the duty of the party to cater to the vote which, racially at least, represents the foe our boys are fighting "over there." These men can see no personality other than the German no influence other than the German, and no principle so precious that it should not bend in the presence of the all-important duty of selecting a candidate who will be acceptable to German voters. This view is expressed by these men so frankly, so bluntly, so persistently that it amounts to an affront to American sentiment and an insult to American intelligence. This is not a primary election in the ordinary sense. It is a contest to determine whether political parties shall be dominated by men who are all American, regardless of their birthplace or descent, or by men who either hold divided allegiance or in their hearts give all allegiance to the foe.

In such a contest the personal fortunes of an individual do not count; personal friendships are shattered and personal enmities fade away in the efforts of 100 per cent Americans to do battle for their

I have never said or done anything to justify loyal German-Americans in antagonizing me. I do not hold race prejudice. As a member of the State Council of Defense I worked very hard to correct the viewpoint of men of German blood who had said or done things out of harmony with our country's welfare. I will leave it to any such men with whom I have had dealings whether I was harsh and unkind or whether I tried to be helpful to the individual as well as to

The worst thing that German-Americans could do for their own individual interest is to combine together at this election. Such combination will only fan the flames of prejudice, and I have ever been keenly alive to the importance of protecting men of German blood from

But when they do combine, when they organize, as they are organizing in Nebraska today, in the effort to punish me for the service I rendered my country and my state as a member of the State Council of Defense, then they do not find in me a cringing candidate for public office, anxious to dodge the issue or plead for favor. They find a militant American who gives no concern to primary election results and no consideration to his personal fortunes.

No man in Nebraska knows better than I do the power of the pro-German influence in this state. As a member of the State Council I have pleaded with it, argued with it, fought with it. I know what it has meant in giving embarrassment to the effort to bring about perfect unity with respect to this war. I know what it has meant in the spread of German propaganda and in the dissemination of the one hundred and one German lies that have been retailed over this country. I know what it means when united at the ballot box-uniting the pro-Germans who deliberately mean mischief to our country and the good German who thoughtlessly has yielded to the argument of the kaiserite. For the very reason that I know its power and its malign influence I am determined to resist it; and I shall resist it. I know how it has brought great newspapers to its side and persuaded or required them to give it aid and to antagonize those who fall not within its favor. I face that influence today without a trace of bitterness in my heart, but with a determined purpose to fight it to the end. Some politicians may cater to it and some editors may fawn at its feet, but as a candidate for the senate I defy it, even as I have defied it as an Here's patience and sympathy with every man of German blood who is doing his duty to America-patience and sympathy for the hard road he has had to travel in sundering the ties that held his heart to the fatherland!

But to the pro-German who covers his tracks with a Liberty Bond purchase, gives his heart to the foe and cultivates hatred for those who are trying to serve America-here's the defiance that comes swelling from the heart of the father of boys in the service and the lover of all the comrades of those boys.

"Do your damndest," is the message I send to every pro-German in Nebraska; to every editor and to every politician that is playing to "the German vote. I believe that when the smoke of battle shall have cleared away or defeated I will still be the uncompromising foe of every influence or defeated I will still be the uncompromising foe of every influence that is hostile to this war and to every organization that seeks to embarrass the efforts of my country and its allies to crush the governments that are recognized foes of civilization. In the senate or out of it I will fight any peace treaty that does not mean that Germany and Austria shall kneel in the presence of civilization—shall return stolen territory and liberate all people held unwillingly under their control. In the senate or out of it I will fight pro-Germanism at home, and I will strive for that Americanization of America that will dissolve every clinker in the melting pot and make our nation what it ought to be-a nation of freemen comprising the blood of the world, but devoted to one country and one flag-the country and flag within whose presence all civilization is kneeling today.

I appeal to every 100 per cent American-democrat, republican or independent-to help me win this fight.

RICHARD L. METCALFE.

THE KAISER'S BOAST

CAN HE MAKE IT GOOD AT THE NEBRASKA PRIMARIES AUGUST 20? From the Saturday Evening Post: In a speech to the secret council at Potsdam in June, 1908, the kaiser, as reported in the New York Times of Sunday, March 12, said: "Even now I rule supreme in the United States, where almost one-half of the population is either of German birth or of German descent, and where 3,000,000 voters do my bidding at the presidential elections. No American administration could remain in power against the will of the Germans.......who through that powerful organization, the German-American League of the United States, control the destinies of the vast republic beyond the seas....."
