UNCLE SAM HOLDS STUDENTS READY TO BE SOLDIERS

University Professor Prepares Information for Use of Boys in Various Colleges

Professor Chatburn, of the University of Nebraska, campaign manager for this state of the Students' Army Training Corps, has prepared the following questions and answers which will doubtless help many young men of college age to decide upon their course of action:

Students' Army Training Corps.
Is a man in the Students' Army Training Corps really a soldier?
Uncle Sam so considers him, and he will be called into active service in case of emergency.
To what class is he assigned?
To class S-D, that is those already in the service as provided by the selective draft regulations.
How may he get into active service?
In four ways. (1) Upon call of the president as above indicated. (2) Upon the day when his draft number would have ordinarily been called, had he not previously enlisted, the president of and commanding officer at the college will recommend that he stay in college, be sent to an officers' training camp, or into some special corps of the army. (3) A student who shows no special ability in his college work may be recommended for immediate active duty. (4) Upon graduation he goes into an officers' training camp or into some other active service.

What is the chance of getting into the officers' training corps from the Students' Army Training Corps?
The presumption is that, for the next year, at least, the largest proportion of the student body reaching 21 years of age will be required to supply a large part of the officers needed in the national army. It is understood that at least four or five times as many officers will be required as the total number of students who will graduate from all American colleges and universities.

May one transfer to other lines of service?
Yes. Opportunity will be given to transfer from army to navy, and vice versa; and upon recommendation of the college president to be assigned to any of the various arm corps.

Does the student receive any training other than college training?
At least six hours per week military training, under approved army officers, must be given; and during each summer vacation the student must attend a training camp.

Will he receive pay and uniform?
He will receive and be expected to wear the regulation army uniform, including hat, shoes and overcoat. During the summer encampment he will receive pay as a private, be fed and housed and have his traveling expenses paid by the government.

What will be his status should the draft age be reduced?
Those enlisted in the S. A. T. C. will remain in it. Those not already in may find difficulty in entering the service other than through the draft boards.

Where can he receive training?
Any college having 100 men qualified for this work can make arrangements with the government to train the students. Write to your school and see if it has made such arrangement.

What branches are open for this training?
The government calls for all kinds of technical engineers, chemists, physicists, geologists, economists, psychologists, doctors, officers and administrators.

Who can enlist?
Any able-bodied man over 18 years of age who has had work preparatory for college entrance may enlist. Those under 18 who have had preparatory training may enroll and receive the military training until such time as they can legally enlist.

Fremont College Offers Fine Educational Features

Fremont college is a synonym for service, the most liberal school in the state and the grandest place on earth for young people struggling to get an education. An education within the reach of all is the slogan at Fremont college. Here is a school whose doors swing wide open 50 weeks in the year, where one can get superior instruction at a minimum cost of time and money. Work is so organized as to make it possible for anyone to attend. The only credentials are a good character and a willingness to work.

The preparatory school offers beginning classes in all the common branches. Students who feel their early education has been neglected or who for any reason do not wish to pursue any regular course, may enter this course, at any time without examination and pursue as many or as few subjects as they desire and study only those things which they want to know and best of all the cost for board, tuition and room with electric lights, steam heat and water need not exceed the cost of board and room elsewhere.

Edmund Vance Cook in the American Magazine, commenting on the low cost of board, room and tuition says: "It is all in the wholesale buying of wholesome food and cutting out the nonessentials, nor are the housing economies accomplished by undue skimping. The situation of the school is beautiful; the dormitories are steam heated, electric lighted and city watered. Sometimes the school finances the student, usually he pays cash, but if a young person comes to the school hungry for an education and has no money, the president schools him and takes his note in payment. The school educates them, finds them a position and expects payment out of the first year's salary."

Dworak's Accounting School Moves Into Its New Quarters

Dworak's School of Accounting moved into its new quarters on the second floor of the Wead building at Eighteenth and Farnam streets last week. Spacious rooms have been obtained by this newest educational institution in Omaha and as this was all that was needed by the organization to be able to take care of a large number of students, the school announces that it is fully ready to turn out accountants and office help.

E. A. Dworak, president of the school, has organized a specialized branch of educational work in turning out accountants, comptometer experts and bookkeepers and the work of the school will be kept along these lines. Mr. Dworak who is a well known accountant of high standing in this territory supervises the work himself and he has obtained expert teachers in every branch of accounting and office work in general. Stenography and typewriting are not specialized in this school as he and his staff feel that there was an opening for the branch of work which they have undertaken.

Time Near for Opening of Fall Term at Boyles School

"In announcing our fall term which opens Sept. 3 for day sessions, and Sept. 4 for night classes, we are abiding strictly by the decree of Old Dame Tradition, who has set September as the opening of the school year. It is a singular fact, however, that this year has proven an exception to the general rule, for all during the summer young people have pursued commercial training in preparation to accept the many good positions created through war-time conditions.

"In making formal announcement of the fall term, it is our purpose to again call attention to our intensive training system whereby students may begin any day and progress just as fast as they can master the instruction, this regardless of the lack of progress on the part of other individual students or of classes.

"The appeal for trained office help is louder than ever and will continue to increase as long as men are leaving for military service and women are entering civil service positions in Washington and elsewhere. The younger generation is responding to the appeal for patriotic reasons and because of their desire to earn more, to attain goals in the business world open only to those who have a well-rounded commercial education in addition to a plentiful store of energy. Promotion comes fast to such workers.

"From present indications enrollments for the fall term will break all records, and many of the young people are enrolling now in order to take advantage of the several weeks lead they will have over those waiting until Sept. 3."

St. Joseph Academy Is Now a Boarding and Day School

St. Joseph academy, a boarding school, conducted by the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and affiliated with the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C., and with the State University of Iowa, is ideally situated on West Grand avenue in the best residential district of Des Moines. Surrounded by a campus which covers 17 acres, with wood, lawns and avenues, the school possesses the double advantage of a beautiful and desirable location and affords every inducement for educational facilities and advantages. Pergolas, tennis and basket ball courts, walks, groves and a natural spring lend to the picturesque beauty of the grounds and offer every means to the students for all kinds of beneficial outdoor exercises.

The buildings proper include the academy, the chapel, the conservatory of music and art and the auditorium, and are modernly equipped as regards lighting, heating and ventilating. A library containing 2,000 carefully chosen volumes, is at the disposal of the pupils, while the physical and chemical laboratory is amply supplied with all necessary material and apparatus. A department of home economics, equipped with individual apparatus, is arranged for private class demonstration and instruction in domestic science.

Officers' Training Corps Unit at Missouri College

Columbia, Mo., Aug. 18.—An authorized military unit of the student officers' training corps will be established at the University of Missouri at Columbia when school opens August 30. The unit has been authorized by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. Students enrolled may continue their academic or professional education, and at the same time make special preparation for military service.

The unit will qualify students for more effective service by systematic and standard methods of training. It will permit those qualified to complete their education, and will provide a reservoir from which candidates for officers' training camps can be drawn. Men enrolled will obtain the moral and intellectual advantages of military discipline, and at the same time will have developed in them robust health, hardihood and aggressive physical courage."

Franklin Academy Notes.
Principal G. W. Mitchell has just returned from a student campaign trip extending into eastern Colorado, and returning through Fort Collins, Chase and Red Willow counties in Nebraska.

The outlook for students seems to be fine. More than 20 are already in line for the senior class. Rooms in Harrison Hall for girls are nearly all taken.

Military drill for boys is to be provided. This will take the place of much of the usual form of athletics. A competent instructor is found in one of the commissioned officers of the local home guards.

The buildings are being thoroughly cleaned and the campus put in shape for the opening of the fall term, September 3.

Miss Demuth, a graduate of the Bethany college, Linaborg, Kan., has been secured as the instructor in expression in Franklin academy.

Mrs. Mary Helser Mitchell has been secured to act as secretary in the principal's office, and to be assistant treasurer.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are actively engaged in lining up new students for participation in the work of these organizations.

All graduates and former students are invited to attend the annual reception to new students to be given in Harrison Hall, Friday evening, September 6.

A Franklin academy picnic on the grounds during the Franklin chautauqua, was one of the jolly good times which Franklin academy folks have such a habit of having.

FREMONT COLLEGE Trains for Higher Positions

The world demands leadership. The man or woman who KNOWS is the one who is promoted. A generation ago leading positions were filled by those who had risen from the ranks. Now these positions are held by those of university training.

What the world needs most is brains—TRAINED brains. Brains that can mobilize labor to greater productiveness, capital to greater usefulness, and humanity to greater efficiency is the supreme need of the country today.

The higher places are for those who are efficient—the result of TRAINING, not inspiration. This is the age of opportunity, in which men and women share equally as never before.

FREMONT COLLEGE—non-sectarian and co-educational—is a broad school, a practical school, a useful school, and a democratic school.

It continues the education of the high school student through the preparatory school, the college of arts and science and the professional, technical and vocational schools of the university without the usual loss of time incident to false starts, repetitions and duplication of studies. It does this at a normal cost.

Be one of those sharing the larger opportunities of the university-trained man or woman. When writing for catalog state profession or vocation in which you are interested. Address
