 ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Goodnight Kiss, Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: We are three young girls averaging 16 years of age. We are going on a hike soon and know the boys will suggest sentimental games. How shall we object as we do not wish to make them angry. Is it a true friend that asks to kiss you good night and you object he

So now, Miss Fairfax appeals With the large acreage of potatoes cents a basket. White California to the young men and she asks if they think it's their fault' or are the girls to blame?

Many Admirers.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I went about with a boy some years my sentor and enjoyed his company very much. Then B came along and asked for my company for just one night. As I was going with A. I felt like I ought not go with him. and when I was at the point of refusing, he said: "I leave for camp in three or four days; then I thought how awful it would be to refuse and maybe never see him again, so I went. And before I could see A again his sister had told him and when he came over where I was stuying he told me things that made me know he did not like it very well, so as soon as I left and came to Colorado he has never written. I received a letter from B while I was still in Nebraska and after I came out here I answered it and have been writing to him ever since.

I was over to a girl friend's yesterday and she told me of ecceiving a letter from A. Then she asked me why A and I fell out and I told her. She said, "Well, I am going to do my duty by A and not go with anyone while I am writing to him."

Do you think he did right in quitting over such a little thing?

Do you think he did right in quitting over such a little thing?

Then her brother brought me home that evening and asked me for my company. I told him he might come once in a while, but I did not want steady company. He told me he didn't either till he saw how this wat was going to end. I also told him of writing to B and he said. "That is none of my business if you write to a dozen in camp." Now, Miss Fairfax, I am a girl of 16. I have no way of going only when my father takes me. I have no mather, no sister, and my brother is in the training camp and I am so lonesome. I have no girl friends any my brother is in the training camp and I am so lonesome. I have no girl friends any learer than six miles and the only way for me to get to go to Sunday school and church is with C. Do you think I should keep on writing to B and never tell him of going with C. If you think I should tell B tell me how I should break the news to him, as I think more of B than I do of C. Yours reassetfully. C. Yours

You have many admirers for a girl se oung. I would not take any of these young nen so seriously, but would be a good chum man of whom you speak acted in a selfish manner, for I do not see why he should monopolize your entire time. Write friendly letters to your soldier friend, but if you are not engaged to him I can see no reason fol you telling him where you spend all
