WOMEN IN WARTIME

How Will You Celebrate Glad News of Peace?

Does anyone ever pause to consider what we will all do when it's over "over there?" It might be amusing to let the knitting needles rest idly for a moment and ruminate on just what you would do first if the glad news of peace were to come. By questioning, you will find that nearly every one has a different idea on just what would be the proper way to celebrate the great event.

One Omaha matron when questioned laughingly gave her husband's sentiments first. It seems that Friend Husband has been heard to say that he was going to indulge in a "real spree." However that is a purely masculine idea, according to this matron, and she feels that the most of us will think only of giving thanks.

It is interesting to note what the boys in uniform who are now in service overseas think about the matter. One chap says he intends to lie down in the softest bed in France and sleep for "an aeon or two," and wee betide the person who disturbs his slumbers.

A faithful knitter has said that she will burn her needles and indulge in eyelids, French knots and other fancy stitches dear to the heart of those who once worked with embroidery hoops. The lovers of sugar awo that they will indulge their sweet tooth in all the sweetmeats they can find, and those who have found the coarse hours a hardship will enjoy once more the luxury of white bread.

The first day of peace will be a mad, disorganized day if everyone keeps their promises to do all the things they have planned in the way of celebration.

It is safe to say, however, that the old careless ways will never come back completely. Habits which we have formed in these war days will cling to us, and it is doubtful if the "before the war" extravagances will ever again be in vogue.

Canning Auction Saturday.

Perfectly canned fruit and vegetables will be sold at auction Saturday night at the headquarters of the Boys' and Girls' Canning club on Seventeenth street, opposite the court house. Children who have canned the vegetables and fruit will be given the cost of canning, and all money made above cost will be used to pay the expenses of the winning teams and individuals on a trip to the state fair.

The auction will take place at 7 o'clock, with Auctioneer H. H. Claiborne on the block. Some of the boys and girls have refused to give up their cans, but most of them are willing to give one can each to the good cause.

Tryouts are now on for honor of attending the fair. "Mothers may be assured," says Miss Sarah Canfield, "that the winning teams and individuals who attend the fair will be properly chaperoned and looked after."

Garden Club Prizes.

Prizes for the best war gardens will be awarded Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the South Side Social Settlement, Twenty-ninth and Q streets. Thomas L. Kimball has designed the prize certificates and Uncle Sam's badges will be given all children under 18 who competed. These are four-leaf clovers in design with four H's for Head, Hands, Heart and Health on each leaf.

A canning demonstration by the winning team which is to go to Lincoln for the state fair, will also be put on Friday evening.

Mrs. Wattles Home Friday

Mrs. Gordon W. Wattles.

A great deal of interest centers about the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Wattles, who will return from California Friday evening. After a honeymoon spent at "Jualita," the palatial Hollywood home of Mr. Wattles, he and his attractive bride are returning to make their home in Omaha. Mrs. Wattles will undoubtedly take prominent place in social circles and it is expected that the many affairs given in her honor will brighten the social calendar.
