Women in War Time

Learn How to "Break the Ice" at Affairs Given for Soldiers

"Breaking the ice" at the various affairs given for the men in khaki brings forth a number of novel ideas. Sometimes things are a bit stiff just at first, for it is a little difficult to talk to utter strangers and make them feel at home. After you have asked the stalwart guests about their home and their branch of the service, conversation languishes. You can see them growing restive and a bored look comes into their eyes.

At the delightful dancing parties given every two weeks by the Comrade club some very effective "getting acquainted" stunts have been planned. The ever popular "circle two-step" is always used, and it is impossible to be stiff and formal while everyone is running around and round the room flushed and breathless, wondering who their partner will be when the orchestra strikes the opening chord in a jazzy two-step. The "cut-in" or "steal" waltzes are very effective, too, and the girls are whirled until they are dizzy by first one soldier and then another, until they feel that they know everyone in the room.

"Talk to, not at" is the slogan of many of these recreation clubs throughout the country and the girls live up to their motto in every particular. At some of the picnics unique ice-breakers have been used. "Ego" an ingenious game for this purpose is very easy to learn. Each man is given three tri-colored pins which he wears until he says the word "I." Then he must give his pin to his partner and move on to talk to a new girl. By the time a soldier has forfeited his three pins he has a large circle of friends and the most bashful, homesick Sammy finds his reserve melting under the warm sun of new-found friendships.

At many of the parties no ice-breakers seem necessary, however, and in the private homes the Omaha hostesses are so tactful and considerate that each man feels himself one of the family circle.

Mrs. C. A. Mallory, who has endeared herself to every soldier stationed in Omaha, kept open house for the boys for many months before her appointment as hostess at the Fort Omaha Young Men's Christian association. Mrs. Mallory tells proudly that the men felt so at home that they foraged the refrigerator and many were the cozy groups in front of the fire on chilly evenings popping corn and toasting marshmallows. "Home and mother" doesn't seem so very far away to these champions of democracy, thanks to the efforts of patriotic women, who do so much to combat that dread enemy, "homesickness."

Mrs. Wallace in Salvation Drive. Mrs. Eva Wallace has accepted the position of chairman for the woman's committee, Salvation Army war work fund drive here during the week of September 9 to 15. Mrs. Wallace this morning established headquarters in the building on the court house lawn which has served as Liberty hall, enlistment office and Red Cross station.

The Salvation Army lassies' hut, as it is called, will be decorated with pictures of doughnuts and pies, and a dinner bell will be mounted outside.

Mrs. Wallace is calling several score Omaha women to her assistance. They will serve in booths during drive week, and will aid in various ways in advertising the drive before it starts.

Owing to delayed shipment of materials, Mrs. Arthur Mullen, chairman of hospital garments, makes the following important announcements: That hospital garments auxiliaries working in the Masonic Temple shop are to report for duty on regular days beginning Tuesday; all other auxiliaries will not be supplied with materials until September 9, and school auxiliaries will not begin work until October 1.

The people will vote on the question of suffrage for women in Louisiana in November, and, in addition to deciding whether the women shall or shall not have the ballot, also will decide as to whether they shall get it by amendment to the state constitution, or shall have to wait until a majority of the states ratify a Federal amendment.

Mrs. Marguerite Dineen of New York City now has six sons actively in the service of their country, two of them as chaplains. Mrs. Dineen, a widow, recently offered her services to the American Red Cross as a nurse for active service abroad.

Volunteers of America Worker Goes Abroad

Major Jeanette Spencer

Major Jeanette Spencer of Chicago is the guest of Major and Mrs. F. A. McCormick. Major Spencer was formerly in charge of the Omaha division of the Volunteers of America. She has just received sailing orders and will embark for France the middle of September, where she will serve as entertainer and canteen worker under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association. Major Spencer is an accomplished musician.

Red Cross

The Italian Benevolent association has turned in a $250 check to the Red Cross for the second war fund drive. Practically every member has already contributed as individuals from $5 to $10. This additional contribution is a mark of appreciation from the Italian colony for the support the Red Cross is giving to their relatives fighting in Italy.

Hot weather in Venice, too—and 200 sick and delicate babies receive specially prepared milk at the dispensary operated by the American Red Cross.

A piano for the convalescent ward at the Fort Omaha hospital has been loaned by a piano company, through an appeal by the hospital comforts' committee of the Red Cross. This committee, of which Mrs. W. S. Wylie is chairman, buys all supplies for the hospitals at Forts Omaha and Crook and provides home-made cake and ice cream to the convalescents several times a week. Twelve Omaha women do the work at this post and a similar committee of South Side women look after the Fort Crook post.

Miss Wylda G. Rhamey, 3070 Mason street, teacher in the local schools, has enrolled in the motor corps for training for overseas duty. Mrs. W. E. Martin reports no definite information yet received regarding uniforms for the Omaha corps.

Over 700 canteen stations have been established by the Red Cross on railway lines of this country.

To keep the boys happy, if ill while away from home, the Red Cross has 16 convalescent houses in operation at base and general army hospitals in this country.

Y. W. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Joseph Stronge, St. Paul, vice chairman of the Young Women's Christian association for 14 states of the central department, arrives Saturday from Denver. She will discuss with Mrs. Grace F. Gholson, state campaign director, and Mrs. Charles Offutt's cabinet, the co-operative plans for the newly merged drive. After the meeting Mrs. Stronge will be taken for a drive to Camp Brewster. She leaves in the evening.

Young women of last year's physical culture classes will hold a get-together party in the gymnasium Monday evening to meet the new physical director, Miss Galena Stovell of Des Moines, and to make plans for their big fall "gym" exhibition, probably to be staged in the city Auditorium. The exhibition is usually given October 1.

Three new Red Cross classes, one in home nursing, one in dietetics and one in first aid, are being formed. Membership in the Y. W. C. A. is no longer a requisite for admission.

Miss Rhoda Foster, Minneapolis, central field worker, is expected at state headquarters Monday to assume duties of county secretary for Nebraska during the coming drive. She will line up present county associations for the drive and where possible organize new counties for association work. Miss Adele Seyle, Chicago, recruiting secretary, will arrive Tuesday.

Miss Ethel Niermeyer, war work secretary, is back on duty after a slight illness.
