Women in War Time

Mrs. Learned's Masque
The first reading of Mrs. Myron Learned's patriotic masque, "A Fantasy of the Flag," was held before the directorate of the Wilson Community Center in Washington, D. C., Friday evening, August 30.

Mrs. Dorothy De Muth Watson, who is interested in the color, costumes, and active production, writes: "I think the masque is very beautiful and I am certainly most anxious that trained artists have the principal parts, so that the lovely lines will be heard in the open air."

The performance will occur in October in the new Sylvan theater, which seats ten thousand people. The money taken will go for furlough houses behind the lines in France.

War Work Conference.
From the office of the state campaign director, Mrs. Grace F. Gholson, invitations have gone out to general secretaries of Nebraska's Young Women's Christian associations to be present at a monthly meeting of the National War Work Council, September 10, and of the National Campaign committee, September 11, in the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago.

The state's general secretaries include Miss Etta Pickering, Omaha; Miss Aimee Fagundus, Lincoln; Miss Fay Stahl of the Richardson county association, Falls City; Miss Emma E. Sheely of the Hall county association, Grand Island; Miss Gertrude Geoparth of the Adams county association, Hastings; and Miss Hazel Butterfield, Gage county association, Beatrice. They will attend principally to come in personal contact with the women who are executing the Y. W.'s vast war work program.

Steinway

The PREMIUM PIANO OF THE WORLD

Wherever music is known the STEINWAY is recognized as the supreme instrument.

It is significant that the most celebrated pianists and gifted artists, in both America and Europe, when left free to choose their own piano and where no monetary consideration exists, the Steinway is invariably selected.

It is true the Steinway costs a little more than other pianos, but considering its wonderful tone, which has charmed the musical world for 66 years, and its marvelous durability, it is by far the least expensive piano on the market.

In line with our established policy of many years standing we sell Steinway pianos at the same prices at which they are sold in New York by the manufacturer.

You can buy a Steinway Upright at $600, or a Steinway Grand at $910. Your old piano accepted in exchange.

If you can't call, write for Steinway literature. It is interesting and instructive. Make arrangements for your Steinway now before prices advance.
