

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Conducted by Ella Fleishman

Women in War Time

Temperance Funds for War Work.
All funds of the Douglas county Women's Christian Temperance union will be appropriated for war work. It was decided at a county meeting held Wednesday in the Hanscom Park Methodist Episcopal church. War orphans and reclamation work are the two big points of branches of service in which the Women's Christian Temperance union's are mainly interested, according to Mrs. W. T. Graham, president of Omaha union.

Last year, the temperance women started a big drive for comfort kits, but this, with the Red Cross work, is now being carried on in co-operation with the Red Cross. The Women's Christian Temperance unions raised a large sum of money recently to provide flowers and hospital comforts for Nebraska boys in the hospital at Camp Funston.

Mrs. J. N. Taliaferro presided at the meeting. A gold medal contest in which children of the City Mission took part was a feature of the meeting.

Organize for Next Loan Drive.

Efforts of the women's committee in the fourth Liberty loan drive will be confined to a house-to-house canvass, according to Mrs. Frank W. Judson, who succeeds Mrs. E. M. Fairfield as chairman of the woman's section. Mrs. Fairfield has gone east for an extended stay.

A military organization grafted onto the ward and precinct system is the plan of work to be carried out. Mrs. Judson will appoint 12 majors, one for each ward in the city. Captains will be named to take charge of precincts and lieutenants for the block chairman.

Mrs. Judson and the executive committee will establish downtown offices next week.

Clifton Hill Red Cross Auxiliary will hold a meeting in the parlors of the Clifton Hill church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The district system of the salvage department is working out well. Total receipts for August were $1,695.75.

French section of the Red Cross, Baird building, re-opened Tuesday with Mrs. Fred Cuscaden's circle at work. Meetings will be resumed as usual. The quota is large and must be finished by September 14.

Miss Merle I. Dunn, 1704 North Thirty-fourth street, enrolled Tuesday for overseas Red Cross motor service. This makes the 10th applicant for overseas service.

Mrs. Frank Carmichael, chairman of auxiliaries, announces a meeting of chairmen and supervisors on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium. It is most important that supervisors attend this meeting in order that they may get information first hand.

Workers are needed at the public shop. Mrs. Lee Huff today issued an appeal to women to come to the shop and help with the work.

Business Woman's Club auxiliary will resume work Thursday evening from 7 to 9 at the Young Women's Christian association.

The Women's Christian Temperance union Red Cross auxiliary at the Masonic temple will open for work Thursday morning. Mrs. Homer Robinson is chairman and Mrs. W. A. Pixley and Mrs. E. M. Morsman, jr., assistant chairman.

Service League Notes

Plans for the second annual White Elephant sale of the National League for Woman's Service were discussed at a board meeting Tuesday. The sale will be held in November and will combine last year's features with those of a Christmas bazaar.

The service league will reopen its Liberty bank on the courthouse lawn for the next Liberty loan drive, beginning September 28. Permission was obtained from the county commissioners to use the bank in the same manner as the last drive.

Thirty-two band instruments for the military band soon to be established at Fort Omaha, have arrived and are now on exhibition in Burgess-Nash windows. Service league members will present the instruments to the post, through Captain A. A. Wedemeyer, who will direct it, probably Thursday. The instruments are valued at $1,300.

Members of the motor corps made 252 calls during August, according to the report of Mrs. E. S. Westbrook. Of these, 50 were for the Red Cross canteen, public shop and civilian relief departments and 130 for the department of justice. Calls were also made for the reclamation department, quartermasters' corps. Fourteen women were graduated from the motor course during July and August.

Mrs. T. G. Travis, chairman of knitting, reports 2,000 finished articles ready for distribution, of these 600 are sweaters for emergency calls and there are also 1,300 pairs of socks.

Y. W. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Grace Gholson, state director of the Young Women's Christian association war work campaign, and Miss Kate McHugh, chairman of the speakers' bureau, left this morning for Lincoln to attend the four-minute men's convention.

The Lafayette Patriotic league will entertain a company of boys from Fort Omaha at a picnic dinner Thursday evening in Miller park.

Six more districts will be added to those already organized for Young Women's Christian association campaign work by Miss Adele Seyle, who arrived Monday to do recruiting for Nebraska. Miss Seyle hopes to

To Head Refugee Work for Red Cross

Mrs. H. H. Fish

Mrs. H. H. Fish has been named chairman of the newly organized refugee garment department at the Red Cross state inspection warehouse. The new department was authorized by Mrs. Howard Baldrige, state censor, on account of the heavy demands made upon the hospital garments division, under Mrs. J. L. Kennedy, of which this work was formerly a part.

Before taking up her duties, Mrs. Fish has gone with her husband and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Farnsworth for a three weeks' stay in Atlantic City, where they will be at the Traymore.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish have a son now serving as an aviator in Italy.

place a district chairman at Fremont, Wakefield, Columbus, Central City, North Platte and Scottsbluff. Six districts out of a total of 20 are already lined up for the drive.

Miss Seyle, who is originally from Savannah, Ga., has been in association work for 11 years. She was directing hostess at the Camp Dodge Hostess house.

All members are requested to be present Tuesday evening for the first of a series of instructions in first aid.

"Dreamland Adventures"

By DADDY—"Jerry the Clown"

A Complete, New Adventure Each Week, Beginning Monday and Ending Saturday

CHAPTER IV. Peggy and Elephant.

(Peggy, Billy Belgium, Bally Sam, Johnny Bull and Billy Goat volunteer to take the place of an act in a circus, so Jerry the Clown, with his daughter, Countess Alice, can say goodbye to his departing soldier son.)

PEGGY found the costume of Countess Alice just fit her. But it made her look so different that she scarcely recognized herself when she peered into a tiny mirror she found in the trunk.

She was all tinsel and gilt, while little wings sprouted from her shoulders. A thrill of exultation ran through her—she was to make her first appearance in a circus arena.

But now a disturbing thought popped into Peggy's mind—one that should have popped there long before. What was she going to do when she got into the arena? She hadn't the slightest idea of what Countess Alice did.

"You look very sweet!" commented Nanny Goat. "You're sure to make a hit."

"But what am I to do?" asked Peggy.

"First ride in the opening pageant as a fairy princess."

"I know how to do that," answered Peggy much relieved. "I am Princess of Birdland."

"Then in Jerry's clown act you appear as Titania, queen of the fairies." "Oh, like in Shakespeare's 'Midsummer Night's Dream'?" cried Peggy, growing enthusiastic.

"It's Jerry's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' not Shakespeare's," answered Nanny. "If Shakespeare is calling it his he is trying to steal our act."

Peggy didn't have time to argue that it was Shakespeare's first, for time was precious.

"What do I do as Titania?" she asked.

"You change the clown into a mule, and then you put the mule through his tricks with a goat and the dog. We do some funny tricks, but there hasn't been any fun in it of late Jerry has been so cranky since his son went into the army that he's got us all dull and cross."

"Maybe that's what the matter with your act," commented Peggy.

"Your best part is at the finish," went on Nanny. "Then you dance on the mule's back as he gallops around the ring.

"Gracious, I'll fall off," cried Peggy.

But she didn't have time to worry over this prospect, for just then a bugle sounded and Nanny bleated a warning.

"That's the call for the pageant. You musn't be a second late."

Out ran Peggy, joining a crowd of circus girls and women who were streaming into the assembly tent. There she found a confused looking mass of men, women and children of all sorts of colors and nationalities. Arabs, Bedouins, Hindus, Chinese, Japanese, Siamese, Indians, Ethiopians, Syrians, and all sorts of strange peoples. Mixed up among them were scores of horses, ponies, camels, zebras and elephants.

Poor Peggy didn't know where her place was in this mob, and Nanny was not there to tell her. Hoping that someone would direct her, Peggy ran along. But no one paid any attention to her.

Dismayed and half frightened, she finally stood still. A trumpet blew, followed by a blast of music as the circus band placed itself at the head of the grand opening pageant. The whole mass of men and animals got into action, quickly unwinding itself into a glittering parade that streamed out into the arena.

Peggy pressed back to get out of the way of the horses. She felt that she was going to be left behind. Then it would be discovered that she wasn't Countess Alice and she would be driven out of the circus in disgrace. Perhaps, even, she would be arrested.

She looked around anxiously for Billy Belgium and Bally Sam. If she could find them, she was sure they would help her. Her eyes glanced upon them just as Billy Belgium, dressed as a clown, and seated in a funny cart, was driving Bally Sam, Johnny Bull and Billy Goat out into the big tent. Peggy started on a run to catch up with them.

But suddenly she was stopped. A long snaky something was around her waist, holding her fast. She gave a little shriek. Then the snaky something lifted her high in the air and she looked down to find herself amid a herd of elephants. She realized in an instant that the snaky something was an elephant's trunk. It turned her around so that she was looking right into an elephant's twinkling eyes. She didn't know whether they were twinkling in fun or in mischief. She had heard all sorts of stories about elephants. Some were good and some were bad. What was this one?

The elephant gave her the answer. Trumpeting softly, he closed one eye at her with a wink that was strangely reminiscent of Judge Owl's. Then he tossed her up over his head and right into a pretty golden throne, fastened to his back. It was the very place where she belonged. The elephant had recognized Countess Alice's costume and had come to the rescue at just the right moment.

As Peggy settled herself on the throne, hanging on tight to keep from being thrown off by the queer rocking motion of the elephant, they moved out into the main tent, and Peggy found herself being stared at by thousands and thousands of excited eyes.

(Tomorrow the strange act that is put on by Peggy, Billy Belgium and the animals will be described.)

School Days

AND MILK
WHY THEY MUST HAVE IT

The young folks must have the right kind of food to keep their bodies growing and their minds alert. Do not load their delicate stomachs with heavy, greasy foods. See that your children get plenty of milk and watch them forge ahead in their studies.

WHY IT IS ECONOMICAL

A bowl of crackers and milk or bread and milk is the cheapest and best lunch for school children; compare the cost of these with other foods, also the results.

THE KIND THEY SHOULD HAVE

Be sure your milk is clean, rich and pure and above all be sure it is pasteurized.

"EVERYBODY'S STORE"

These are the days to most fully enjoy your

New Fall Suit

WHAT a sense of satisfaction one feels to be smartly appareled in a new Fall suit, before the styles become common. Then, too, there is the month of extra service that the new suit gives to the wearer.

Today the fashions for the season are complete and the handsomest models are here for your selection—many of them will not be duplicated later; and perhaps the one that best expresses your individuality—the one most becoming to you—may not be obtainable later on.

The new suits are most distinctive of the season—simple in effect, yet radically different in lines—skirts are shorter and narrower as a rule, by reason of the war conservation of wool; jackets are short, yet many clever tailoring touches seem to give them perceptible length. Certainly they were never smarter in style than now.
