

LARGE CROWDS HEAR M'KELVIE ON STATE TRIP

State Issues Discussed by Republican Candidate for Governor at North Platte and Gothenburg.

North Platte, Neb., Sept. 18.—(Special Telegram)—S. R. McKelvie, republican candidate for governor, addressed well attended meetings in North Platte and Gothenburg today. His address was confined largely to questions of interest in the management of the state government and co-operation with the national government in the successful prosecution of the war. Attacks made upon him by newspapers opposed to his candidacy were replied to in a clear-cut and convincing manner. He was accompanied by H. G. Taylor, republican candidate for railroad commissioner, who also spoke briefly.

In his addresses Mr. McKelvie said: "Of equal importance with prosperous industrial and business conditions in our state is the subject of the domestic relations of the people. In times like this, when the public mind becomes easily inflamed, it is of the utmost importance that the people should be encouraged to consider the common good and the rights of the citizens as reserved to them by the laws and the constitution."

"Since the time when our republic was established it has been a well-observed principle that every individual is entitled to a hearing before a court of proper jurisdiction, or a jury of his peers before being pronounced guilty. This principle is being urged upon the people by our national administration and it should be just as faithfully observed by our state administration."

Organize Secret Service

"If I am elected, it is my intention to aid the government in perfecting a secret service organization in this state which will permit no guilty man to escape, and will enable the administration to see that the laws of justice are properly invoked."

"So far as our state is concerned, the question of prohibition has been settled at the hands of the people."

"Upon every occasion when the opportunity has been given to me, I have contended for the right, time and influence in the interests of prohibition. The records will show that when prohibition was a local issue in Lincoln I was a contributor to the dry fund and was included among those who were interested in its success."

Favors Prohibition

"I was elected to the legislature of 1911 from Lancaster county upon a county option platform, that being the issue in that campaign. In keeping with this section, I voted and was for prohibition in that session and was one of those who were most active in obtaining the passage of the bill for the initiative and referendum, the primary purpose of that legislation being to place the question of prohibition directly in the hands of the voters for a decision. As is well known, it was through this measure that it was made possible for Nebraska to obtain state-wide prohibition."

"In the campaign for prohibition in 1916, I was a contributor to the dry fund and as a candidate for governor, stated frankly my position in favor of state-wide prohibition. Throughout all the time since prohibition has been an issue, my record has been clear as an active supporter of it. Through the columns of my farm paper I have always advocated it and since I have been in charge of the 'Nebraska Farmer' not a line of liquor advertising has ever been carried in its columns. I look upon prohibition as an economic necessity as well as a moral need, and I expect to be found at all times enlisted in its support."
