

BRINGING UP FATHER

AMATEURS WILL DECIDE TITLE AT ROURKE PARK

Championship of the Greater Omaha League Will Be Decided by Double Header Next Sunday.

Never in the history of amateur baseball in Omaha has an interesting game been carded as will be played at Rourke park next Sunday to decide the championship of the Greater Omaha league.

The Armours play two games, the first with the Murphy-Dids and the second with the Longways of Council Bluffs. Should the Murphys win the initial performance it clinches the title for the blacks.

The Longways in the first double header of the series lost both games, playing away below their usual form. Last Sunday they apparently became used to the grounds and came back, winning their game from the Murphys.

Horseshoe Pitchers Will Hold Interstate Tournament at Blair

"Dad" Whitehead of Sioux City is one of the latest horseshoe pitchers to enter the Nebraska-Iowa tournament at Blair next Sunday.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

In addition to the grand cup representing the championship of Iowa and Nebraska, several other prizes will be given.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

The tournament will be played under the rules of the Grand League of American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

OH, MONEY! MONEY!

By Eleanor H. Porter

Author of "Pollyanna"

Copyright, 1918, by Eleanor H. Porter and The Public Ledger Co. By Permission of Houghton Mifflin Co. All Rights Reserved.

CHAPTER XXV (Continued). Miss Maggie Duff did not go to the station to see Mr. Smith off.

"Flora," interrupted Miss Maggie desperately, "will you stop talking in that absurd way? Listen, I did not care to go to the station today.

"Why should you?" retorted Miss Flora. "All the rest of us did, too."

"Well, that's all right. You're Blaisdells—but I'm not, you know. You're just as good as one, Maggie Duff!

"Why, yes, of course." "Well, then, I don't think it would hurt you any to show him this last little attention. He'll think you don't like him—or are mad about something, when all the rest of us went."

"Nonsense, Flora!" "Well, then, if you're 20 years younger and I didn't know better, I should say that—"

"Flora," gasped Miss Maggie, her face scarlet. "He did, I know he did! Hattie always said it would be a match—"

"Flora," gasped Miss Maggie again, looking about her very much as if she were meditating flight.

"Well, she did—but I didn't believe it. Now I know. You refused him—now, didn't you?"

"Certainly not!" Miss Maggie caught her breath convulsively. "Flora! Stop this silly talk right now. I have answered you once. I shan't again."

"Hm-m." Miss Flora fell back in her chair. "Well, I suppose, you're right, then, if you say so. And I don't need to ask if you accepted him. You didn't, of course, or,

Mueller Wins Rifle Match With Score of 289 Out of 300. Camp Perry, O., Sept. 19.—K. J. Mueller, Terre Haute, Ind., with a score of 289 out of a possible 300, today won the national individual rifle match, unfinished from yesterday.

Happy Hollow Golfers Give Tribute to Absent Members. Resolutions of appreciation of the members of the club who are in the national service were passed by the Happy Hollow club at the annual Golfers' dinner September 9.

Lexington Races. Lexington, Neb., Sept. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—Results of today's races were: Trot: Governor V. first; Allia Axwood, second; The Lady South, third; Doris D. fourth. Time 2:18.

Races Postponed. Columbus, Sept. 19.—The Grand circuit races scheduled for today were postponed until tomorrow because of rain.

MARLEY-DEVON. Lexington, Neb., Sept. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—Results of today's races were: Trot: Governor V. first; Allia Axwood, second; The Lady South, third; Doris D. fourth. Time 2:18.

Now the three boys are residents of Seattle, Wash., and are noted as being among the world's most noted animal painters.

Charlie is in the city visiting old friends. He came here from Burlington Junction, Mo., where he received a commission from C. D. and C. F. Caldwell, brothers, to paint pictures of individuals and groups of animals which constitute the world's greatest herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

Some of the individuals that will pose for him are worth $16,000, and are better known to beef breeding fanciers than many great men. The paintings will cost $5,000 and the originals will hang in the halls of the Caldwell homes, white copes with adorn calendars which will be shown in homes in Europe, South America, and all over the world where lovers of the beef types of cattle live.

Charlie has a special penchant for the painting of domestic animals and much of his time is spent in executing commissions for these and his travels take him over widely scattered territory. He says Omaha has the warmest spot in his heart and every day spent here with old friends is a royal holiday for him.

he left to us, and all that, Maggie said; and it talked a lot about how lucky it was that he got back just in time before the other letter had to be opened next November.

"Yes, of course, of course," nodded Jane, rolling the corner of her upper apron nervously. (Since the $40,000 loss Jane had gone back to her old habit of wearing thin aprons.)

"Where do you suppose she's been all this time? Was he lost or just exploring?" "Maggie said it wasn't known—that the paper didn't say. It was an 'extra,' anyway, and it just got in the bare news of his return. But we'll know, of course. The papers here will tell us. Besides, Maggie'll write again about it, I'm sure. Poor Maggie! I'm so glad she's having such a good time!"

"Indeed I do think he was a very nice man," declared Miss Maggie. "Now, Flora, shall I want you to go shopping with me lots. Can you?"

And Miss Flora, eagerly entering into Miss Maggie's discussion of frills and flounces, failed to notice that Miss Maggie had dropped the subject of Mr. Smith somewhat hastily.

Hillerton had much to talk about during those summer days. Mr. Smith's going had created a mild discussion—the "ancestor" feller was well known and well liked in the town. But even his departure did not arouse the interest that was bestowed upon the removal of the James Blaisdells to Plainville; and this, in turn, did not cause so great an excitement as did the news that Miss Maggie Duff had inherited $50,000 and had gone to Chicago to spend it. And the fact that nearly all who heard this promptly declared that they hoped she would spend a good share of it in Chicago or elsewhere—on herself, showed pretty well just where Miss Maggie Duff stood in the hearts of Hillerton.

It was early in September that Miss Flora had the letter from Miss Maggie. Not but that she had received letters from Miss Maggie before, but that the contents of this one made it at once, to all the Blaisdells, "the letter."

Miss Flora began to read it, gave a little cry and sprang to her feet. Standing, her breath suspended, she finished it. Five minutes later, gloves half on and hat asked, she was hurrying across the common to her brother Frank's home.

"Jane, Jane," she panted, as soon as she found her sister-in-law. "I have had a letter from Maggie. Mr. Stanley G. Fulton has come back. He's come back! Alive, you mean? Oh, my goodness gracious! What'll Hattie do? She's just been living on having that money. And us, with all we've lost, too! But, then, maybe we wouldn't have got it anyway. My stars! And Maggie wrote you? Where's the letter?"

"There! And I never thought to bring it," ejaculated Miss Flora vexedly. "But never mind! I can tell you. She said she didn't write much. She said it would be in all the eastern papers right away, of course, but she wanted to tell us first, so we wouldn't be so surprised. He's just come. Walked into his lawyer's office without a telegram or anything. Said he didn't want any fuss made. Mr. Tyndal, brought home the news that night in an 'extra'; but that's all it told—just that Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, the multimillionaire who disappeared nearly two years ago on an exploring trip to South America, had come back alive and well. Then it told all about the two letters he left, and the money he left to us, and all that, Maggie said; and it talked a lot about how lucky it was that he got back just in time before the other letter had to be opened next November.

"Yes, of course, of course," nodded Jane, rolling the corner of her upper apron nervously. (Since the $40,000 loss Jane had gone back to her old habit of wearing thin aprons.)

"Where do you suppose she's been all this time? Was he lost or just exploring?" "Maggie said it wasn't known—that the paper didn't say. It was an 'extra,' anyway, and it just got in the bare news of his return. But we'll know, of course. The papers here will tell us. Besides, Maggie'll write again about it, I'm sure. Poor Maggie! I'm so glad she's having such a good time!"

"Indeed I do think he was a very nice man," declared Miss Maggie. "Now, Flora, shall I want you to go shopping with me lots. Can you?"

And Miss Flora, eagerly entering into Miss Maggie's discussion of frills and flounces, failed to notice that Miss Maggie had dropped the subject of Mr. Smith somewhat hastily.

Hillerton had much to talk about during those summer days. Mr. Smith's going had created a mild discussion—the "ancestor" feller was well known and well liked in the town. But even his departure did not arouse the interest that was bestowed upon the removal of the James Blaisdells to Plainville; and this, in turn, did not cause so great an excitement as did the news that Miss Maggie Duff had inherited $50,000 and had gone to Chicago to spend it. And the fact that nearly all who heard this promptly declared that they hoped she would spend a good share of it in Chicago or elsewhere—on herself, showed pretty well just where Miss Maggie Duff stood in the hearts of Hillerton.

It was early in September that Miss Flora had the letter from Miss Maggie. Not but that she had received letters from Miss Maggie before, but that the contents of this one made it at once, to all the Blaisdells, "the letter."

Miss Flora began to read it, gave a little cry and sprang to her feet. Standing, her breath suspended, she finished it. Five minutes later, gloves half on and hat asked, she was hurrying across the common to her brother Frank's home.

"Jane, Jane," she panted, as soon as she found her sister-in-law. "I have had a letter from Maggie. Mr. Stanley G. Fulton has come back. He's come back! Alive, you mean? Oh, my goodness gracious! What'll Hattie do? She's just been living on having that money. And us, with all we've lost, too! But, then, maybe we wouldn't have got it anyway. My stars! And Maggie wrote you? Where's the letter?"

"There! And I never thought to bring it," ejaculated Miss Flora vexedly. "But never mind! I can tell you. She said she didn't write much. She said it would be in all the eastern papers right away, of course, but she wanted to tell us first, so we wouldn't be so surprised. He's just come. Walked into his lawyer's office without a telegram or anything. Said he didn't want any fuss made. Mr. Tyndal, brought home the news that night in an 'extra'; but that's all it told—just that Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, the multimillionaire who disappeared nearly two years ago on an exploring trip to South America, had come back alive and well. Then it told all about the two letters he left, and the money he left to us, and all that, Maggie said; and it talked a lot about how lucky it was that he got back just in time before the other letter had to be opened next November.

"Yes, of course, of course," nodded Jane, rolling the corner of her upper apron nervously. (Since the $40,000 loss Jane had gone back to her old habit of wearing thin aprons.)

"Where do you suppose she's been all this time? Was he lost or just exploring?" "Maggie said it wasn't known—that the paper didn't say. It was an 'extra,' anyway, and it just got in the bare news of his return. But we'll know, of course. The papers here will tell us. Besides, Maggie'll write again about it, I'm sure. Poor Maggie! I'm so glad she's having such a good time!"

McAdoo Approves Further Increase in Express Rates

Washington, Sept. 19.—Director General McAdoo today approved Railway Express company for further proposal to the Interstate Commerce commission for final action. The commission announced tonight that public hearings on the matter will begin Tuesday, October 8.

Nuxated Iron increases strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances. It has been used and endorsed by such men as Hon. Leslie D. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, and E-Governor of Iowa; General John B. Clem (Retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was sergeant in the U. S. Army when only 18 years of age; also United States Judge G. W. Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington, and others. Ask your doctor or druggist about it.

AMUSEMENTS. BOYD SUNDAY MONDAY. ARTHUR HAMMERSTEIN'S Dainty Musical Play. "YOU'RE IN LOVE" Catchy Music Pretty Girls CHORUS OF EIGHTEEN GIRLS—JUST 18.

EMPERESS NEW SHOW TODAY. Continuous From 11 to 11. BEATRICE MORRELL SIXETTE Singing and Musical. MAIDIE DE LONG DEB LONG Bill Bag. OWEN & MOORE The Little Court from Broadway. FRANCIS X BUSHMAN "A FAIR OF CUPIDS" A Comedy of NEW FRENCH Farce Romance. Com. Sun. GLADYS BROCKWELL in "KULTUR" The Rape of Democracy.

PHOTOPLAYS. "THE BLINDNESS OF DIVORCE" also "WILD WOMEN AND TAME LIONS". "LOTHROP" 24TH AND 30TH. "THE MARRIAGE RING."

PAINTER WASN'T ABLE TO WORK AT TRADE, HE SAYS. Takes Tanlac and Now Puts in Full Day's Time Without Feeling It. "I never had much faith in medicines of any kind, but Tanlac has done away with all my prejudices and I am glad to endorse it for the way it has fixed me up," recently said W. T. Keay, a painter and paperhanger, who resides at 454 North Sixteenth street, Lincoln, Neb.

"Several months ago," he continued, "when I began to go down hill I lost my appetite and soon got so I didn't want to eat anything at all. The little I managed to force down did me no good. I fell off all of nineteen pounds and would feel so weak and miserable at times that I wasn't fit for a thing. My kidneys worried me constantly and I would get so restless at night that I could hardly sleep. Then I had trouble with my feet, which ached and pained me so much that at times I just couldn't stand on them, and of course in that condition it was impossible for me to work at my trade."

"I got to reading in the papers about the way Tanlac was helping others, so I thought I would try a bottle and see if it would help me, too. Well, sir, my appetite picked up on my first bottle and in a short while I was eating and enjoying my meals just as well as I ever did in my life. I soon gained eight pounds and am still putting on weight every day. My kidneys don't bother me now, but are acting in a normal healthy manner, and I sleep like a log all night. All that misery I had in my feet has been entirely relieved and I don't have a bit of trouble standing on them all day when I am working, and I can put in a full day's time now and never feel it. I sure am glad I found Tanlac when I did, for it certainly straightened me out."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., corner 16th and Dodge streets; 16th and Harvey streets; Owl Drug, 16th and Farnam streets; Hayward Pharmacy, 24th and Farnam streets; northeast corner 19th and Farnam streets; West End Pharmacy, 49th and Dodge streets, under the personal direction of a Special Tanlac Representative, and in South Omaha by Forrest & Meany Drug Co.—Advertisement.

SON DOROTHY DALTON in "Love Me" RIALTO THE CAILLAUX CASE Stramb 18th & Douglas Presents Enid Bennett "Naughty Naughty" "THE MARRIAGE RING."

MUSE TODAY FRIDAY SATURDAY TOM MIX Doesn't Camouflage HE RIDES OVER HORSEBACK OFF HOTEL BALCONY DRIPS SELF AND GIRL 300 FEET UP PRECIPICE WHIPS FOUR MEN, SINGLE-HANDED SHOOT GILA MONSTER ATTACKING WOMAN HURLS MAN LIKE FOOTBALL IN Desperate Fight HE MAKES MR. LOGAN, U. S. A. A BLAZING VOLCANO OF FIRE! A MACHINE GUN OUTBURST OF ACTION! REEL AFTER REEL OF DARING!

Studebaker MOTOR CARS Beautiful in Design Thoroughly Modern Mechanically Right STUDEBAKER engineers have proved the design of the New Series 19 Studebaker Cars not only by accepted engineering principles, but by the severest endurance tests to which an automobile can be subjected. Each new model was driven over 10,000 miles on the country roads and through the mountains of the United States and Canada—and then given 30,000 more on the Chicago Speedway during the worst winter weather. During this terrific mid-winter test not an adjustment of any kind was made, excepting those of the most trivial nature. THE BONNEY-YAGER AUTO CO., Studebaker Distributors 2550-54 Farnam Street. Phone Harney 676. Omaha, Neb.

MARLEY-DEVON MARLEY 2 1/2 IN DEVON 2 1/2 IN. ARROW COLLARS