

BEACH DECLARES COMMITTEE FOR ENTIRE TICKET

Republican State Chairman in Statement Squelches Rumors That Some Are Favored Above Others.

From a Staff Correspondent. Lincoln, Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Communications to republican state headquarters relative to the attitude of the state committee toward the candidacy of George W. Norris has led E. D. Beach, chairman of the state committee to make the following statement:

"I do not know why anyone should be at all worried over the republican state committee is doing regarding candidates nominated at the late primary. The state committee is not a personal campaign committee. The republican voters of the state have made their choice through the primary and it is the duty of the state committee to bend every energy toward the election of every man upon the ticket from the United States senator down to the bottom and the committee is so doing.

All Behind President. "There is something to be thought of besides personal matters in this campaign. The war must be won in a way that will bring glory to America and its allies. Every man upon the republican ticket from top to bottom is heartily behind the president in the prosecution of the war and will give him their support, whether he be elected as a United States senator, a congressman, a governor, or any other office on the republican state ticket.

Democrats in congress have said that the republicans in congress have been more strongly behind President Wilson in his war plans than have the members of the democratic party, and the records of congress so disclose. Robbing the political grave yard to get issues has never been a republican program, and will not be at this time, though the democrats appear to be doing so, although they are compelled to pick the particular portion of the political cemetery where their own issues are not buried.

What President Thinks. Perhaps our democratic governor, who is charging in his speeches that the election of republicans will be evidence to Germany that President Wilson has been discredited, has not heard that the president, no matter what he may say politically, believes down in his heart that republicans are very essential to the successful prosecution of the war, for did he not appoint Garfield, a republican, at the head of the coal administration? Did he not appoint Hoover, a republican, at the head of the food administration? Did he not appoint Hughes, a republican, his recent antagonist for the presidency, at the head of the aircraft investigation?

Did he not appoint Mr. Taft, a republican, who ran against him the first time for the presidency, chairman of the war labor board? Did he not put Mr. Schwab, a republican, at the head of the emergency fleet building board and Mr. Vandenberg, another republican, in charge of the war savings stamp sales? And if recognition of republicans was pleasing to the kaiser, why when it came to appointing officials in Nebraska on the war program, did he appoint John L. Kennedy, a republican, coal administrator and Mr. Wattles, another republican, food administrator, two of the most important places in Nebraska, in connection with war activities?

With this picture before us, the republican state committee is endeavoring to elect men who will be behind the president and to that end is giving its activities toward the election of the entire ticket.

Mrs. Green Swears Priest Gave to Her Stockings and Gloves

Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 26.—Testifying today in the case of the Rev. William Windolph, pastor of the Catholic church at Creighton, Neb., who is on trial in federal court here, charged with making defamatory statements. Mrs. Mary Donahue Green, a member of the defendant's congregation said that the accused priest gave her love poems and wrote her an improper letter. The government also introduced in evidence silk stockings and silk gloves, which Mrs. Green testified, the priest had given to her, but which she said she had never worn.

Anonymous letters attacking Father Windolph's character, which Mrs. Green admitted she wrote, were introduced by the defense in an effort to show Mrs. Green had a bitter personal feeling against the defendant.

Before adjournment Mrs. Green admitted under cross examination that she knew nothing of Sister Hortencia's moral character except what was told her by Father Windolph.

In reply to questions by Assistant United States Attorney Saxton, she said the typewriter on which she wrote anonymous letters attacking the character of Father Windolph and Sister Hortencia was secured by her in order to learn to use it, and in order that she might leave Creighton because the defendant had been annoying her.

On March 28, 1917, she testified on redirect examination, that the defendant called her to the back of his house and then induced her to go into the house and then he bolted the door. She then testified that the defendant wanted her to write a letter of apology to the mother superior for writing the anonymous letters and when she refused to do this she said she slipped her.

"He said that if I told or reported him he would call out my army and mob me," the witness said. "He had a letter from the archbishop naming him to be superintendent of schools in this diocese," she testified, "and he brought it to me and showed it to me and said if I would move to Omaha he would see that I was well taken care of and he would accept the position."

At this time Mr. Saxton asked the witness: "Do you know anything about Sister Hortencia except what Father Windolph told you?" "No. Nothing further than that," replied the witness.

Cotton Escapes Tax Under New Revenue Bill From the House

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Cotton, one of the major crops of the United States, has escaped taxation in the new house revenue bill, thanks to the southern congressmen. The question of taxing cotton was raised during the discussion of the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill by Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, republican member of the ways and means committee, who made a fight to have cotton also taxed. He suggested that as more than 11,000,000 bales were produced in 1917, a tax of $3 per bale would produce $33,000,000, and relieve the tax burden on other commodities. The motion was beaten by a solid democratic vote.

"There is nothing personal or sectional in this proposition," said Mr. Moore, in a statement today. "It is simply a question of levying taxes equitably very much as was suggested by President Wilson in his address to congress. Cotton has been on the protective tariff list and also on the taxable list. It was protected by a tariff duty from 1798 to 1866. Three cents a pound was then levied against cotton imports. That helped to build up the wonderful growth of cotton in the United States. It has been upon the free list, however.

"Well, I had about the greatest surprise of my life when I got on the scales after taking Tanlac a few weeks and found I had gained thirty pounds," said Philip W. Smith of 5001 Randolph street, Lincoln, Neb., while in the Harley Drug Store, recently. Mr. Smith has been a brick mason in Lincoln for thirty-five years and is known throughout the city. "My phone is L-7997," he continued, "and will be glad to tell anybody personally just what Tanlac has done for me. I had suffered with rheumatism for twelve years. My back and hips pained me so I would roll and toss for hours every night, unable to sleep. My stomach also went back on me and I got to where I couldn't eat without suffering agony. What I would eat felt like lead in my stomach and the gas formed by it would almost smother me. I dropped about one hundred and eighty pounds to one hundred and thirty and was just completely knocked out. I would often have headache to last me all day and was so dizzy at times that everything seemed to be spinning around. Nothing helped me and I had about lost hope of ever getting any better. "I heard of Tanlac when it first came here, but it was a long time before I even thought about it being good for me. Now I can see what a mistake I made by not trying it long ago. I have been picking up ever since I began taking it. My appetite is so big now that I can hardly eat enough and everything agrees with me. My rheumatic pain and headaches have disappeared and I am enjoying good, sound health for the first time in twelve years. I sleep like a log every night, work hard every day and feel fine all the time. I have already gone up in weight from one hundred and thirty pounds to one hundred and sixty and this is pretty good proof that Tanlac is the right thing for me." Tanlac is sold in Omaha by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., corner 16th and Dodge streets; 14th and Harvey streets; Owl Drug Co., 16th and Farnam streets; Harvard Pharmacy, 24th and Farnam streets; northeast corner 19th and Farnam streets; West End Pharmacy, 49th and Dodge streets, under the personal direction of a Special Tanlac Representative, and in South Omaha by Forrest & Meany Drug Co.—Advertisement.
