BULGARIA DIVIDED OVER PEACE OFFER

Law, chancellor of the exchequer, are in conference with David Lloyd George, the premier, with regard to the Bulgarian armistice proposal. Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 27.—The Wolff bureau, the semi-official German news agency, says the Bulgarian premier Malinoff's peace offer is against the wishes of King Ferdinand and the Teutonic alliance.

London, Sept. 27.—Germany intends to send a solemn protest to Bulgaria against Premier Malinoff's request for an armistice, according to a Berlin report received in the Amsterdam and forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph company.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The hope that there will be no question of peace with the central powers until they have been brought to admit their guilt was expressed by Nikola Pachitch, the Serbian premier, in a statement given out by him here yesterday. He voiced this hope after having pointed out that the allied successes on all battlefields had opened up a prospect of the end of a struggle that had been imposed upon the world by the Germanic powers.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Bulgaria, suing for peace with her armies beaten and her border strongholds in the hands of the allies, will get no peace in the making of which Germany even indirectly has a finger and no peace leaving in her possession the slightest portion of the spoils of her inglorious part in the war as Berlin's tool.

On these points there was no disagreement tonight in official and allied diplomatic quarters when word came through American official channels that the Bulgarians had asked for an armistice to discuss terms of peace. In fact the emphasis laid everywhere upon conditions which the Bulgarians must meet almost overshadowed the very real feeling of satisfaction over this sign that the expected crumbling of Germany's lesser allies is at hand.

Nor will there be any interruption of the victorious march of the allied forces into Bulgaria until the Bulgarians are ready to disarm.

"PEACE PRICE IS IMPARTIAL JUSTICE TO ALL NATIONS"

pared to assume its full share of responsibility."

President's Address.
President Wilson said in part: "The air was clear about us. We saw things in their full, convincing proportions as they were; and we have seen them with steady eyes and unchanging comprehension ever since. We accepted the issues of the war as facts, not as any group of men here or elsewhere had defined them and we can accept no outcome which does not squarely meet and settle them. Those issues are these:

"Shall the military power of any nation or group of nations be suffered to determine the fortunes of peoples over whom they have no right to rule except the right of force?"

"Shall strong nations be free to wrong weak nations and make them subject to their purpose and interest?"

"Shall peoples be ruled and dominated, even in their own internal affairs by arbitrary and irresponsible force or by their own will and choice?"

"Shall there be a common standard of right and privilege for all peoples and nations or shall the stronger do as they will and the weaker suffer without redress?"

"Shall the assertion of right be haphazard and be casual alliance or shall there be a common concert to oblige the observance of common rights?"

Can Be No Compromise.
"No man, no group of men, chose these to be the issues of the struggle. They are the issues of it; and they must be settled—by no arrangement or compromise or adjustment of interests, but definitely and once for all and with a full and unequivocal acceptance of the principle that the interest of the weakest is as sacred as the interest of the strongest."

"This is what we mean when we speak of a permanent peace, if we speak sincerely, intelligently and with a real knowledge and comprehension of the matter we deal with."

"We are all agreed that there can be no peace obtained by any kind of bargain or compromise with the governments of the central empires because we have dealt with them already and have seen them deal with other governments that were parties to this struggle, at Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest. They have convinced us that they are without honor and do not intend justice. They observe no covenants, accept no principle but force and their own interest. We cannot 'come to terms' with them. They have made it impossible. The German people must by this time be fully aware that we cannot accept the word of those who forced this war upon us. We do not think the same thoughts or speak the same language of agreement."

"It is of capital importance that we should also be explicitly agreed that no peace shall be obtained by any kind of compromise or abatement of the principles we have avowed as the principles for which we are fighting. There should exist no doubt about that. I am, therefore, going to take the liberty of speaking with the utmost frankness about the practical implications that are involved in it."

Impartial Justice Price of Peace.
"If it be indeed and in truth the common object of the governments associated against Germany and of the nations whom they govern, as I believe it to be, to achieve by the coming settlements a secure and lasting peace it will be necessary that all who sit down at the peace table shall come ready and willing to pay the price, the only price, that will procure it; and ready and willing, also, to create in some virile fashion the only instrumentality by which it can be made certain that the agreements of the peace will be honored and fulfilled."

"That price is impartial justice in every item of the settlement no matter whose interest is crossed; and not only impartial justice but also the satisfaction of the several peoples whose fortunes are dealt with. That indispensable instrumentality is a league of nations formed under covenants that will be efficacious. Without such an instrumentality, by which the peace of the world can be guaranteed, peace will rest in part upon the word of outlaws and only upon that word. For Germany will have to recieve her character, not by what happens at the peace table, but by what follows."

"And, as I see it, the constitution of that league of nations and the clear definition of its objects must be a part, in a sense the most essential part, of the peace settlement itself. It cannot be formed now. If formed now it would be merely a new alliance confined to the nations associated against a common enemy. It is not likely that it could be formed after the settlement. It is necessary to guarantee the peace; and the peace cannot be guaranteed as an after thought. The reason, to speak in plain terms again, why this must be guaranteed is that there will be parties to the peace whose promises have proved untrustworthy, and means must be found in connection with the peace settlement itself to remove that source of insecurity. It would be folly to leave the guarantee to the subsequent voluntary action of the governments we have seen destroy Russia and deceive Roumania."

Must Be No Discrimination.
"But these general terms do not disclose the whole matter. Some details are needed to make them sound less like a thesis and more like a practical program. These, then, are some of the particulars, and I state them with the greater confidence, because I can state them authoritatively as representing this government's interpretation of its own duty with regard to peace:

"First—The impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just, and those to whom we do not wish to be just. It must be a justice that plays no favorites and knows no standard but the equal rights of the several peoples concerned."

"Second—No special or separate interest of any single nation or any group of nations can be made the basis of any part of the settlement which is not consistent with the common interests of all."

"Third—There can be no leagues or alliances or special covenants and understandings with the general and common family of the league of nations.

"Fourth—And more specifically, there can be no special, selfish economic combinations within the league and no employment of any form of economic boycott or exclusion except as the power of economic penalty by exclusion from the markets of the world may be vested in the league of nations itself as a means of discipline and control."

"Fifth—All international agreements and treaties of every kind must be made known in their entirety to the rest of the world."

In conclusion the president said: "Unity of purpose and of counsel are as imperatively necessary in this war as unity of command in the battlefield; and with perfect unity of purpose and counsel will come assurance of complete victory. It can be had in no other way. 'Peace drives' can be effectively neutralized and silenced only by showing that every victory of the nations associated against Germany brings the nations nearer the sort of peace which will bring security and reassurance to all peoples and make the recurrence of another such struggle of pitiless force and bloodshed forever impossible, and that nothing else can. Germany is constantly intimating the 'terms' she will accept; and always finds that the world does not want terms. It wishes the final triumph of justice and fair dealing."

Rush Aid to Old Bay State.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—Word that scores of physicians and nurses were being rushed to Massachusetts from various sections of the country in answer to the state's call for aid in fighting the epidemic of influenza and the weather bureau's promise of continued sunshine, admittedly the best preventive of the disease, greatly encouraged local and state officers today.

The Fourth Liberty Loan

The Loan of Victory—The men overseas must not be slowed down by the people at home. It is American men, arms, food and money that have speeded the war. The more money spent now, the less needed later. The more the money the faster the war; the faster the war the earlier the peace; the earlier the peace the fewer lives lost in unnecessary years of conflict.

Our troops have the habit of winning. Have you the habit of helping them to keep on winning?
