MICHIGAN BEAR CAT IS HOS LER TO MO. OR BOAT

Ad Wolgast Leaves Sanita rium for Woods in Endeavor to Regain His Health.

Somewhere in Wisconsin, Sept. 28.—Unable to obtain a penny of the fortune he won in the ring, Ad Wolgast, former lightweight cham-pion, is acting as hostler to a decrepit motor boat, somewhere in the northern Wisconsin timber country, where he is trying to regain his health.

The Michigan bear-cat, who leaped into prominence almost over night, disappeared several months ago and was not heard from until he communicated recently with friends in Milwaukee to announce that he had a job.

Wolgast shares with Bat Nelson the distinction of being among the few remaining "fighting cham-pions." Unlike Nelson, who owns half the town of Hegeswich, Ill., and controls the other half. Wolgast is virtually penniless, his fortune—ap-proximately $150,000—being in custody of his mother and his wife who are in Cadillac, Mich.

In his letter advising friends of his espousal of industry, Wolgast said he planned to go even farther into the woods for the winter and become a lumberjack. He hinted that he hoped through the strenuous life of a timber cutter to regain his health and return to the ring. This however, is considered unlikely. Starts as "Pork and Beaner."

Meehan has a way of getting in close and playing a tattoo on his opponent's midriffs, swinging with both hands. These blows have been dubbed "bass drum" punches by local ring followers and, for some reason, they have succeeded in bewildering most of the men against whom the San Franciscan has fought. It was with these punches that he succeeded in outpointing Dempsey in three out of the four rounds of the exhibition match held for the benefit of the Army and Navy Athletic fund. It was evident Dempsey was puzzled and at a loss to know how to counter them.
