Inclined to Dislike Manner in Which Chairman of Republican Committee is Handling Campaign.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lincoln, Sept. 29.-(Special.)-Democrats are plainly not satisfied with the way Ed Beach, chairman of the republican state committee, is running the campaign and the local democratic paper expresses itself in no uncertain terms.

Democrats say Beach has not called the republican committee in session since the campaign began. They do not know that there has been no necessity for the committee getting together because the campaign is running along so smoothly and satisfactorily. The executive committee and the candidates have had one or two meetings at headquarters and the whole committee may be called in some time between now and election day to celebrate the inevitable victory for the Spanish Influenza ticket. Members are all busy get-Auburn, Neb., Sept. 29 .- (Spe- ting ready for the Liberty loan cial.)-Lee Horn of the national drive in order to help the democratic administration win the war.

And Another Reason. Another reason for not calling the committee together is that so long as the democratic state candidates are traveling about trying to justify their records, the republicans need no stronger argument that there should be a republican victory all along the line. Another democratic wail that goes up is that S. R. McKelvie, republican candidate for governor, is spending a lot of money traveling around the state making speeches. As it happens, Governor Neville, the democratic nominee, has been covering the same territory Starts to Canvass State and doing it in the same automo-Lincoln, Sept. 29 .- (Special.) - The bile way. Thousands of cards for lesser amounts than those publicly made were not counted and will be reported as the pledges are made good during the week. The first subscriptions came from the estate of General G. M. Dodge, when R. B. Wallace, who took an intensely active part in the whole meeting, announced that he was authorized by the executors and heirs to take $30,0000 worth of the bonds. This was quicly followed by a $25,-000 subsscription by E. A. Wickham, and the cheering had scarcely seased when the Droge Brothers, elevator men, announced a duplicate subscription, making $80,000 in the first few moments.
