

OCTOBER MONTH WHEN ALL CLOCKS SET BACK HOUR

Heavens Will Seem to Slip Cog and Everything Will Appear to Happen an Hour Sooner.

By WILLIAM F. RIGGE. On the 27th, the last Sunday of the month, at 2 a. m., according to the daylight saving law, all our clocks are to be set back an hour and are again to indicate the usual time that they showed before the law went into effect. This turning back of an hour is best done in practice the evening before, just as we are about to retire for the night. That night will then by an hour longer than usual and will thus restore to us the hour we lost in March.

Turning the clock an hour back is, however, not as simple an operation as setting it an hour forward, as we did on the last Sunday of March. Every clock may at any time be set forward any fraction of an hour as well as any number of hours by simply turning the minute hand forward, but it is not every timepiece that may be set back without injury to itself. A watch or a clock that indicates time only without a striking contrivance and without an alarm, may generally be set backward as well as forward. But if the timepiece strikes the hours, or half hours, or quarters, or has an alarm or similar mechanism like a program clock, we can never without serious injury turn the minute hand backward past the time that this attachment is to operate. The only thing to do with such a clock is to stop it altogether for a day by comparing it with a watch or other clock that is kept going during the interval. There is no harm done in stopping the clock longer than an hour, because, as said before, we can at any time turn any timepiece forward by the difference. We may also if we like set the clock backward twice or often by fractions of an hour. But in no case should we turn it backward past its striking time or the time it is to set off its alarm or other attachment. The penalty for the violating of this rule will be a serious injury to our clock.

Just as on the last Sunday of March, the heavens will seem to slip a cog, and everything will at once appear to happen an hour sooner. Thus on Saturday, October 26, the sun will rise at 7:48 and set at 6:29, while on Sunday, the 27th, it will rise at 6:49 and set at 5:27. This will seem on Sunday evening as if the day had suddenly been shortened by an hour. On Sunday morning, however, it will bring us an unusual brightness. The moon also will feel the jog, because, while it is accustomed always to rise, south, and set later on the following day, it will rise only two minutes later on the 28th than on the 27th, and actually south and set even earlier, on the 27th than on the 26th. The true length of the day is of course not affected. This is 11 hours 46 minutes on the 1st, 11 hours 38 minutes on the 15th, and 10 hours 29 minutes on the 31st, a loss of 1 hour 17 minutes during the month.

There are no planets visible yet in the evening sky. Jupiter is the first to appear, rising at 11:29 p. m. on the 15th. Saturn comes next, rising at 2:50 a. m., and then Venus at 6:48 a. m. Mars is too near the sun to be seen.

The moon is in conjunction with Saturn on the 1st and 28th, with Venus on the 3d, and with Jupiter on the 25th.

GOVERNOR AND STAFF ATTEND OMAHA WEDDING

Thomas C. Rye and Staff, Congressman Byrns and Other Tennessee Notables Visit Here.

"Tennessee is interested in after-the-war problems and is now taking steps toward adaptation to the industrial, economic and social changes which are inevitable," said Governor Thomas C. Rye, who heads a party of prominent Tennesseans who are here to attend the wedding of Col. Aaron Bergeda, Nashville, a member of the governor's staff to Miss Toyette Blotcky, of Omaha.

"We are reclaiming lands in the swampy districts of west Tennessee stopping the erosion of soils in the sandy land district of middle Tennessee by the planting of black locusts and sowing of Bermuda grasses, rebuilding work out lands in all parts of the state by the planting of humus and nitrogen producing plants such as the soy bean and cow pea, eliminating the tick in the southwestern district and building up of fine herds of cattle, arranging for the abolishment of the contract labor system in the penitentiaries so we can use the penal man power on roads and in truck gardens and on farms, improving transportation by damming and locking the Cumberland river, developing water power, building new agricultural colleges and polytechnic schools to educate the mountain people, in fact persons in all parts of the state, along technical and scientific lines.

Prepare for Peace. "We are also arranging a system by which we can give our soldier lads when they come home from the world war, productive farms on which to live and also adapt our great war industries, which have sprung up in all of the large cities to the uses of peace, so they can be an asset to us and that without disturbance to the employment of labor and capital. "I am waging a personal warfare on the Tennessee 'houn dawg,' and his name is legion, in an effort to develop the sheep and wool industry of the state, which has wonderful possibilities, and I hope to live to see our commonwealth the greatest sheep and wool state in the union."

"Tennessee has awakened from a condition of lethargy to one of great progressiveness. The state has lost much of its negro farm tenant population to the northern industrial centers and to offset this we are doing great work to encourage intensive and scientific farming. "We are also modernizing our penal system and our eleemosynary institutions so they are conforming to the highest developments of present day science."

Another interesting member of the party is Hon. Joseph W. Byrns, who represents the Sixth, or "Old Hermitage" district of Tennessee in congress. He is vice-chairman of the appropriations committee in congress, and said: "We are not denying any of the military and naval heads who are conducting this war of the money they need. We have taken the position from the first that America is going to win this war at whatever sacrifice and we are with the men in the field heart and soul.

The members of the party are enthusiastic in their admiration of Omaha and its evident signs of growth and prosperity. The party consists of Governor Rye, Congressman Byrns, Verner Tolmie, former president of the board of education; Percy Wells, Herbert Eskind, Col. Edgar Graham, Col. R. L. Farley, Col. Sig Hill, Col. E. J. Brecklin, Herman Glick, Abe Goodman, Joseph Warner, James Cayce, State Senator Albert E. Hill, Arthur B. Ransom, W. W. Wilkerson, president of the board of education, and D. M. Bergeda.

Sergeant Short Sends Hun Helmet Back to Friend

Sergeant Walter Short, first member of the police department to don the khaki, has sent to his friend, Detective Frank Lee, second member in the service, a Hun helmet as a memento of the Marne drive. There are two heavy indentations, on the side and top. The heavy headgear has evidently been worn a long time for the internal padding and sweatband are worn and stained. It is now on exhibition at Jack Whittaker's place on West Broadway.

Sergeant Short writes in a letter, telling of the exciting times in France and urges Lee to hurry and get into the big game. Detective Lee is impatiently awaiting the orders to move. He has repeatedly asked to be transferred from Company A, and to correct the only minus 100 point in his physical examination has voluntarily undergone a surgical operation to straighten his eyes and remove a pronounced case of cross-eyes. It was the only point where he was marked 99. He has also had his classification changed by which he is advanced to Class A-1, waiving all exemptions.

Skip-Stop Plans Arranged to Start After Ak-Sar-Ben

Street railway officials have worked out the tentative plans for the skip-stop plan on the Farnam, Harney and Dodge street car lines. Blue prints showing where it is proposed to stop cars to take on and let off passengers have been prepared and copies have been delivered to Mayor Smith, Commissioner Ringer and Fuel Administrator Kennedy, immediately after the closing of the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities, the skip-stop system will be inaugurated on the three lines referred to. Plans for applying skip-stops to other lines will follow.

To indicate where cars will stop, company officials have had prepared a large number of board signs. These will be attached to cross wire poles at intersections and points to be agreed upon by road officers and city officials. The signs read, "Car Stop." The letters are black and two inches in depth. They are stenciled on a yellow ground.

Men now in nonessential employment are urged to make application for essential war employment with the assurance that positions paying equal and in some cases more money than they receive in their present occupation, will be provided for them. Alleged Forger Returned to Face Charges in Omaha

He is said to be suffering from tuberculosis and heart disease and is under a doctor's care in the matron's department at the central station.

While in Omaha and later in Lincoln, Bennett is alleged to have posed as a returned war correspondent and told vivid tales of his experiences in the trenches where he said he was gassed. He is also alleged to have posed as a correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post. Police say he left behind him a trail of high finance which cost his acquaintances a considerable sum of money.
