HUNS ROUTED IN FLANDERS; KAISER'S FALL IN PAGEANT

AK-SAR-BEN SHOWS ANSWER OF ALLIES TO RUTHLESS HUN

Allegorical Parade Reveals in Blaze of Light What Forces of Liberty Have Prepared for War-Lord of Terrorism Who Would Place Military Shackles Upon World of Democracy.

If the kaiser and the crown quince (may their tribe decrease and vanish) could have stood on the streets of Omaha last night and viewed the parade of 16 magnificent electrically-illuminated floats, they would have seen some of their sins of the last four years depicted and their final sure end in the hot regions foretold.

Never within the memory of the oldest subject of the gracious King Ak-Sar-Ben has there been an electrical parade that evoked such continuous and tumultuous enthusiasm as this one.

Of course, its "timeliness" was largely responsible for this. But there seemed also to have been a special inspiration in the hearts of the designers and an extraordinary skill in the hands of those who built the floats. They were gorgeous.

Allegory, mythology, history and present actuality were drawn upon to make this splendid, gleaming electrical panorama, which moved majestically along the streets between the jammed human walls of cheering tens of thousands.

No Doubt of Meaning. "The Allies' Answer" was the title of the parade. The above-mentioned pair of imperial madmen, of course, could not have been here. They believe in "safety first" and the vast crowd on Omaha's streets last night would have been a mighty unsafe place for Bloody Bill and his jinx offspring.

But if they had been here they would not have needed an understanding of the English language to understand what the parade was about. It gave a broad, comprehensive idea of the far-flung battleline of freedom, now in deadly struggle with the sinister powers of autocracy. It showed the spirit of mighty democracy, united in the one cause, whether working in trench, agricultural field or munitions factory.

Floats honored heroic France, martyred Belgium, bulldog Britain and determined Italy. Mars, the god of war, was seen, forging a chain of allied nations around the central empire. America's inexhaustible stores of food, metals and supplies of all kinds were represented.

Cheer Fate of U.boat. The Czech-Slovaks were honored in a float and the Red Cross were represented by its most popular symbol. The submarine struggling in the tearing talons of the American eagle, was one of the floats that called forth extraordinary enthusiasm. So did also a float bearing pictures of the presidents who ruled this republic during all our victorious wars for freedom.

And the final float, showing the Huns in an endless stream, denied admission at the "pearly gates" and going on their dejected way to the other place, filled the measure of the crowd's satisfaction to the brim.

"But the king! Where is the king?" everybody asked. Where was that benighted monarch with the white beard who has ruled the realm of Quivera, now, these 23 years? Well, people, the king has abdicated. (Continued on Page Two, Column One.)

In our attacks around Vendhuile yesterday, we were able to fight through and relieve this party, numbering some hundreds, who, having taken up their position Sunday night, were surrounded by the Germans early Monday. Notwithstanding that they were opposed by such superior numbers and only possessed the ammunition and rations which they themselves were carrying, the Americans made a magnificent resistance and the ground was strewn with German dead.

ENEMY FORCED TO RELINQUISH HOLD ON BELGIAN COAST

Germans Reported Moving Their Heavy Guns as Allied Wedge Cuts Deeper in Lines and Warships Join in Attack; Entente Forces Demolish Defenses on Six Fronts.

Paris, Oct. 2.—The Matin announces that the Germans are evacuating Lille and that the commander there has requisitioned all means of transportation, even wheelbarrows and baskets to take away the booty. The newspaper adds that the evacuation of the townspeople to Belgium towns near the German border is being pursued hastily.

Many towns and villages were carried today by the French troops on the various fronts, according to the war office announcement tonight. Especial progress was made north of the Vesle.

By Associated Press. Again the Germans are in retreat on an important sector of the western battle front in France. The scene of the new retrograde movement is a wide front north and south of La Bassee canal.

The continuation by the entente allied forces of their brilliant achievements in restoring Belgium, Flanders and the expulsion of the enemy from further territory in France from the region of Cambrai to Verdun evidently has brought the Germans to the realization that the great bend in the line from Menin to the east of Arras is likely to prove another such trap as was the St. Mihiel salient unless they are fast enough of foot to move eastward, giving up Lille, Lens and Douai and straighten their line from the vicinity of Cambrai to Belgium.

GERMAN GRASP ON BELGIUM AND FRANCE BROKEN

Retreat of Invading Forces May Be Turned Into Veritable Rout, Opinion at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The German grip on northern France and Belgium has been definitely broken. Even the most cautious military observers in Washington agreed tonight that the Hindenburg line was disintegrating and army officers centered their whole attention on the efforts of the German leaders to extricate their armies without a crushing disaster.

Outflanked in Belgium and in the Champagne, the great German zone of defensive works known as the Hindenburg line already was becoming untenable when Field Marshal Haig's men smashed through it today just north of St. Quentin.

Pass Beyond St. Quentin. The French are now in full possession of St. Quentin and have passed on eastward. The entire Hindenburg system between St. Quentin and Le Cateau has been completely smashed by Field Marshal Haig's forces, with whom the Americans are brigaded, and further ground has been won in the outskirts of Cambrai and north of that city. At one point north of St. Quentin the British were forced to give up a village under a heavy counter-attack by fresh German troops.

A band of Americans, who had outdistanced their fellows in arms, were surrounded on one sector by the Germans, but were released after two days, during which they killed many of the enemy who sought to capture them.

Northwest of Rheims the St. Thierry massif has been captured and north of the cathedral city the environs of Betheny have been reached by the French. The Germans along this front are in retreat to their old 1917 line and the French have reached the Aisne canal at several points.

The French in Champagne and the Americans on their right have made further gains against the Germans in the clearing out of the Argonne forest and pressing northward on both sides of this bastion. In Palestine the British have occupied Damascus and taken more than 7,000 Turks prisoner. Huns Prepare to Evacuate Belgium
