

OMAHA MARINE SEES COUSIN IN BASE HOSPITAL

Praises Valor of Marines in Stopping Onrush of the Huns Toward Paris at Belleau Wood.

A chance meeting between two cousins in a French hospital is one of the unusual streaks of war fortune recorded by Corp. A. M. Levey of the marines, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Levey, 2447 Kansas avenue.

Smiling from shell shock after the battle of Belleau wood, the young Omaha lad was sent to the base hospital, where he was attended by his cousin, Lt. A. G. Fleischman of the medical corps, formerly of Des Moines, Ia. Neither had seen the other since the time they enlisted.

Interesting descriptions of the journey to the front, the evacuation by French refugees and the splendid work of the marines are included in the young soldier's letters.

Gives Credit to Marines.
"If ever a body of men deserve credit and reward for the part they took in this war, the marines are that body. The boys on the line fought under conditions as bad as any outfit has or ever will have to contend with and with a spirit and courage that is the equal of any of the allied troops."

"Coming from two months' front line duty in the wet and muddy trenches near Verdun, with no previous experience in the new open fighting, after a ride covering 168 kilometers in 18 hours and nothing whatever to eat or drink, they took the place of the retreating French and colonial troops, stopped and broke up no less than four heavy attacks and on June 6, took the 'weather gauge' and drove back Germany's best a distance of two kilometers on a three-kilometer front."

usually there and know the situation. I think it is safe to say Paris was saved, possibly France, and the way was paved for the present great victories we are enjoying. From that time on, Germany's progress has been in an easterly direction, the way her invaders will go, till the war is won.

"I have written recommendations for distinguished conduct for some 300 men and each one sounds like a novel or a movie. The only dark side of the whole business is the thought of the officers and men who have gone down, but it's war. When any one starts to tell you about the marines that is your cue to sound off and praise them to the sky. Only the boys who were there know what a hell they went through."

"A sight that was worth a million dollars, was a sergeant and six men coming down the road with 19 squareheads in tow. They had gotten around the back of our men and opened fire, but as soon as they saw the business end of a bayonet coming their way with a marine on the other end of it, they threw up their hands and hollered 'Kamerad!' They won't fight at close quarters."

Wears Clothes 16 Days.
"It was some relief after not having my clothes off for 16 days to undress and sleep in a bed. What I would like now is some hot water and just soak, soak, soak."

"I've seen a few things over here not very good to look at, but I believe the sight that impressed me most was the poor people evacuating their homes before the German drive. It was on the last day of May, we were moving into position to put a stop to Fritze's rush via trucks. For the last 50 miles one side of the road was a continuous procession of troop trains and the other of refugees going in opposite directions, all their belongings piled high on a two-wheeled cart drawn by oxen, and as a rule, on top of the pile would be an old worn-out grandmother surrounded by several little kids from 1 to 6 years old. The old man led the team and the dog and cow brought up the rear. That's my idea of the horrors of war. These people were leaving all they had in the world and going—they didn't know where. One of the finest examples of charity I ever saw was one of our officers riding on the same truck I was. He took a 50-franc note, wrapped it inside a stick of gum and dropped it in an old lady's lap, as we passed close to the cart."

"Some one asked what he was doing and he said, 'Just passing out some gum.'"
"These deportations, mutilations, and outrages can hardly be attributed to the entire German army, but this surely can, and I think the sight of those poor people helped the marines put up the grand fight they did."

Stock Resigns as Leader of Chicago Symphony Orchestra

Chicago, Oct. 2. Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago symphony orchestra since the death of Theodore Thomas in 1905, has resigned for the period necessary to the process of the United States law whereby he may be made a citizen, it was announced today.

This action followed a federal investigation into charges of disloyalty against several members of the orchestra.

Eric De Lamarier, composer, conductor, organist and former journalist will conduct the orchestra in Mr. Stock's absence.

New Print Paper Price Raised by Arbitrators

New York, Oct. 2.—Judges of the United States circuit court acting as arbitrators in the controversy between the news print paper manufacturers and the federal trade commission over the price of news print paper today handed down a decision awarding a price of $3.50 per 100 pounds for rolled news in carload lots 1, 0, 6 mill.

Bulgarian Collapse Brings Pandemonium Upon Budapest Bourse

Amsterdam, Oct. 2.—Saturday's Vienna newspapers which have reached here describe the tremendous sensation caused in the Austrian capital by the Bulgarian collapse.

The impression was that Bulgaria's secession had administered a grave blow to the dual monarchy. There was a panic on the bourse.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion and complexion beautifier at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Advertisement.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

We appeal to all of Our People

To make the sale and purchase of Liberty Bonds their chief duty and business for the next two weeks.

We appeal to Managers and Heads of Business Institutions

To make it easy for their associates and employes who are on the selling committees to be absent from business until this serious work is completed.

We appeal to the Principals of Business Houses

To help their employes to buy and pay for bonds in moderate sized weekly or monthly installments.

We appeal to Our Merchants, Manufacturers and Heads of Our Financial Institutions

To furnish our selling committees with lists of employes and to give them permission to go through their establishments so as to make a thorough canvass of every individual in their employ.

We appeal to the Housewives of Omaha and the State

To keep their homes open to solicitors. We ask them also to assist in the sale of bonds to servants and others who may be prepared to buy them.

IN CONCLUSION

We appeal to absolutely Every Individual in the Community

To treat with courtesy, and to help in every way, the great army of patriotic men and women engaged in this LARGE FINANCIAL UNDERTAKING.

Let us be prepared to offer every dollar we possess just as our four million boys with their Chaplains and Red Cross Nurses are offering their last drop of blood and their precious lives to perpetuate the freedom of America.

No person in public should rise to sing these beautiful words—"My Country 'Tis of Thee" if they do not love their country enough to help in this important work.

State Liberty Loan Committee

THOS. C. BYRNE, Chairman

E. F. FOLDA, Secretary

The Boy From Next Door

YOU used to see him swing gayly down the street, radiant with the vigor of his sturdy young manhood. One day he came home in khaki; then his father told you, with mingled pride and foreboding, that he had "gone across" with his regiment.

Yesterday his name was on the casualty list—"slightly wounded"—and your face grew grave as you thought of the sorrow and suspense of his father and mother.

From every city street, every village, every community, the boy next door has gone to war.

Think of these thousands of splendid young Americans, reared in comfort, peace, and security, now suddenly plunged into that roaring inferno of battle with the hardened hordes of a desperately determined foe.

What are you doing to help them?

What are you doing to arm and protect them, and bring them home in safety? Have you bought Liberty Bonds? Have you bought all you possibly can?

Has it occurred to you that one more Bond, bought with a little additional effort, may save the life of the boy from the next door?

Buy Another Bond!
