

CITY OBSERVES COLUMBUS DAY BY BIG PARADE

Citizens of Italian Descent Lead in Celebration of Holiday; Liberty Loan Emphasized.

Columbus Day, commemorating the 420th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, was auspiciously celebrated Saturday afternoon by the residents of Omaha and vicinity of Italian descent. The celebration started with a street parade which formed at Sixteenth and Nicholas streets, and after passing through several downtown streets, disbanded in front of the court house, where a monstrous crowd gathered around the Liberty tower and were entertained with patriotic music by the several bands engaged for the occasion, and by a number of excellent speeches. The speakers all paid high tributes to the part Italy is playing in the world's war, and laid particular stress upon the importance of the buying of Liberty bonds to the limit.

The parade was in charge of Antonio Kizotto, assisted by Gaetano Marino, Alino Garro, Samuele Anconi and Salvatore Cippola. Several beautifully designed floats, one representing Liberty, another Italia Irredentista, and of particular note was a float symbolic of Columbus the Mariner. Each float was followed by the various Italian societies in marching order. The societies represented were the Giovannini Ameglio society, Italian Benevolent society and the Dal Ceniso Alla Atna society. The main parade was followed by a long procession of private automobiles.

Louis Piatti, Omaha attorney, acted as chairman of the meeting at the Liberty tower. Short addresses were made by Captain Gudden of Fort Omaha and Has. O'Hara of Omaha. Mr. Piatti also introduced Carlo Corini and Adolpho Fanoni, two young Italian soldiers who have been sent to America by the Italian government as instructors at Fort Omaha. Corini and Fanoni and Samuel Cippola each delivered a short address in the Italian language, impressing upon the Italians in the United States the importance of supporting the war activities of America to their utmost.

OMAHA BIG 'UNS LOSE AND COVER ON GRAIN DEALS

October was a trading commodity prices were up as high as $1.50 a bushel. October went up to around $1.57 and November to $1.50. Now, of course, September and October options are out of the way and the slump that has pulled November down to $1.10 a bushel, a decline of some 40 cents a bushel. The decline in September and October was as spectacular as that of the November corn. It was on these options that the boys were caught. "Early in August and when September was still a trading commodity, both Roberts and Uppike were bulls on the corn market. They saw a short crop and high prices. They loaded up with September corn for future delivery and continued as bulls until the slump was well under way. Then to recoup they returned from the bull crowd and commenced to sell the September corn in large lots. They had to take big losses on September and nobody but themselves knew what they have gotten back through their later operations. All last summer Kinsler was a bear on corn, insisting the crop was to be a record breaker with lower prices certain. He began to sell short when the August and September corn option was at top notch and kept on with October until the break. Then, instead of having to take on a lot of high priced stuff, he was leading it to the shorts and pocketing profits anywhere from 20 cents to 40 cents a bushel. How much did he make? Go ask him."

Company Sings as It Goes "Over the Top" in France

Mrs. Francis Pzanowski, 2127 South Twenty-sixth street, has received word from the War department at Washington that her son, John J. Pzanowski, received wounds while fighting at the front from which he is not expected to live. One hand was blown off, a leg shattered and a severe head wound was inflicted by flying shrapnel. Mrs. Pzanowski received a letter from her son a short time before she got the notification of his injuries. He wrote that his unit had been in the thick of the fighting and that he had been in the trenches, up to his knees in mud and water for three days. He said when his company "went over the top" the lads went singing as though to a picnic instead of into the bloody hell of battle.

BEE STARTS NEW FREE SHOE FUND FOR THE KIDDIES

hardest to get. If we could get these for the children, the father could supply the rest."

According to Mr. Carver lack of shoes causes more "truancy" than all other things put together. Last year 50 children were found unable to attend school because of lack of foot covering. The year before there were 80. Many little boys and girls attend school, say their teachers, with feet covered that is not worthy of the name, so their feet are exposed to the chill snows and nipping cold of winter. Poor little, undernourished and ill-clad children, suffering from stings of frosted toes and chilblains, are slow in their studies and the quickest victims of childish epidemics. Usually their families are too proud to ask for help and get along as best they may.

Who Wants To Help?

Who wants to help The Bee supply footwear for some of these little ones? The children of Omaha must be properly educated if we want them to grow up into desirable and self-sustaining citizens. Last summer a generous public contributed to The Bee's fund for Free Milk and Ice for hot weather babies, administered through the Visiting Nurses' association, by which many young lives were saved. This winter the older children must be saved from suffering and kept in school. Contributions to The Bee's Shoe Fund will do it.

The shoe fund will be administered without charge by a committee appointed by Superintendent J. H. Beveridge and consisting of Miss Pearl McCumber, principal of Lincoln school; Miss Frances Gross, principal of South Central school, and Miss May Anderson, teacher in Lothrop school. They will decide upon the worthy cases.

Shoes come high this year and the cheaper ones, which the poor are forced to buy, are of poorer quality than before. Just a little wetting makes the soles curl up and pull away from the uppers, letting in the cold blast of snow. Help the little ones the hope of America's future, and make it possible for some of them to stay in school this winter, where they may become good, healthy, intelligent young Americans.

Our desire is to make this a popular fund of many small contributions, of the same plan as the milk for ice fund. The sum of $5 will outfit one child with footwear. Send this amount or less. Contributions will be acknowledged from time to time in The Bee. "Inasmuch as we have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

Spanish Influenza Causes Hurry Call for Lemons

Los Angeles, Cal., shipments of lemons are being rushed eastward to meet the demand occasioned by the Spanish influenza epidemic. The sudden demand for the old-fashioned remedy—hot, sugary lemonade—has caused hurry calls for the fruit, especially in New England, to meet this call. The growers are attempting to divert all shipments to points where lemons are most needed.

PESSIMIST AND OPTIMIST

What people SEE depends largely upon what they are LOOKING FOR.

"Everything costs double what it used to—we still have to get along on two pounds of sugar a month—business is rotten, and now they ask us to buy Liberty Bonds," croaks the pessimist.

"EVERY BOY WHO WANTS WORK IS WORKING AT THE BEST WAGES THEY EVER RECEIVED AND BUYING MORE THAN EVER BEFORE: WE CAN STILL GET TWO POUNDS OF SUGAR A MONTH: THERE NEVER WAS IN ALL HISTORY SO GREAT A VOLUME OF BUSINESS AS IS NOW AMERICA'S GOOD FORTUNE AND IT IS BOUND TO HELP EVERYBODY; AND LAST BUT NOT LEAST OUR GOVERNMENT IS TEACHING US TO SAVE AND ALLOWING US TO PLACE OUR MONEY IN THE SAFEST SECURITIES ON EARTH WHILE GIVING US CREDIT FOR BEING PATRIOTS."

SO SPEAKS THE OPTIMIST.

True, business and the professions have been called upon to do their bit; valued employees have been called to the colors, conditions have changed, our obligations personal, national and international call for retrenchment and sacrifice—but the worst that can befall us is that we may have to give up some of our luxuries and dissipations, but we will all live longer, have more and stand a better chance in the "next world" by doing our part in the making this world fit to live in.

Do not purposely look through the wrong end of the telescope and grumble at the distorted view of life.

I have turned many a pessimist into an optimist by conclusively demonstrating to him that Modern Business Methods applied to Dentistry not only insures superior workmanship and service but actually SAVES each patient a large percentage of the fee generally charged by other high class Dentists.

If you are even now trying to decide whether you should have your teeth properly attended to—or use the money to buy Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps—come to me and I will show you how you can do both with the same money.
