Asks Bee to Help.

A few days ago a welfare worker Cmaha said to a representative of The Bee, "Can't your paper do something to furnish shoes for the poor children of Omaha who are unable to attend school because of the high cost of shoes? The parents are usually able to supply everything else, yet shoes are most important of all."

Could The Bee do anything? Of course we could but we wanted to he sure first the need was there, so ve made a careful investigation. Everywhere from social workers came the same reply: "Shoes are expensive, absolutely necessary and hard to get."

School authorities told us lack of shoes caused the most truancy and hey would gladly assist in handling shoe fund if secured.
