DREAMLAND ADVENTURE

By DADDY Witch of the Night

CHAPTER V. Among the Man-Eaters.

Peggy is made a captive of the Witch of the Night, after having been made try through a trick. She defies the Witch, who orders her thrown among the Man-Eaters.

'ZUM-ZUM-ZUM-ZUM-ZUM-ZUM' buzzed the Man-Eaters hungrily. 'We're hungry. We smell food. We like tender young girl. We'll drink her veins dry. Yum-yum-yum!'

What could these blood-thirsty creatures be? Peggy was losing her fear of the witch, because she felt she was a crafty old fraud, but the strange hum from within the cage was an entirely different matter.

'I like music with my meals,' squawked the Witch. 'I'll have you devoured while I eat my supper. Your shrieks will be sweet strains to my ears.'

Peggy straightened up. She'd not utter a single cry no matter how terrible the Man-Eaters might be. She would defy the Witch until the last. Then she remembered how annoyed the Witch had been when she used the word "looney." So on the spur of the moment she made up a silly little verse.

'There was a looney loon, Who used to stir's spoon, By the light of the moon, With an old flirty coon, and she said, "We'll wed soon if you'll!"'

Peggy got no farther. Her verse had a most unexpected effect. It seemed to drive the Witch mad. She whirled around and around on her seat, while from her throat came again the wild, weird cry.

The Night Herons flew up in a panic of fear, each bearing in his bill a fish which he dropped before the Witch as if to appease her. The Ravens left their work at the cage and covered before the Witch's rage.

Peggy was amazed for a moment and then the Witch's mad fury struck her as being very funny. "Ha, ha, ha!" she laughed.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the Night Herons and Ravens, their fear abruptly changing to mirth. The Witch went wilder than ever at this.

"Roll thunders!" she shrieked. And the thunder followed so quickly the Birds stopped laughing at once. "Throw this wretch of a Princess to the Man-Eaters!" the Witch commanded. The Night Herons and Ravens held back, shaking their heads.

"Obey," shrieked the Witch furiously. "Obey, or I'll bring winds that will blow down all the trees. I'll bring waters that will cover the earth."

The Birds still held back, though they trembled. "Blow winds," shrieked the Witch. A mighty blast swept through the trees. "Obey!" cried the Witch. Night Heron stalked up to Peggy, and seized her by the pajamas. The Ravens opened a gap in the cage and

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

To her astonishment the water seemed to hold her up.

thrust her within. Instantly the hum mounted to a high pitch. Great winged creatures flew around her head.

Then Peggy saw what the Man-Eaters were. They were monster mosquitoes, each to her tiny eyes seeming as large as a bird. Their sharp bills, as sharp as swords, threatened to pierce her through and through. Half a dozen of them could eat her up and here were scores and scores of them.

Peggy ran to the side of the cage to try to break out. She found the cage was a tough, unbreakable spider web. Huge spiders were already patching up the gap made by the Ravens. Outside, the Witch was beginning to gobble up her fish dinner, evidently expecting Peggy's screams to furnish the music for her meal.

Buzzing loudly, the Man-Eaters started for Peggy. She fought with all her might, warding off their menacing bills. But she knew it would be a matter of only a moment when she would be overwhelmed.

Then came unexpected help. The cage extended partly over the scummy water. Out of this scummy water came popping a bunch of Frogs. They leaped at the Man-Eaters, snapping them up. Bullfrog whistles rang.

"Run, run," Peggy ran to the edge of the scummy water and out over it. To her astonishment the water seemed to hold her up. She found a small hole in the cage, through which she crept. Then she fled on, over the scummy water, wondering why she didn't sink, until, looking down, she saw that she
