"Fighting Fourth" Motto Will Cause Trouble For Germans.

HARRY GOULD.

"Ten Huns for every day spent in camp and double for time in quarantine," has been selected as a motto by the 127th field artillery, formerly the "Fighting Fourth" Nebraska, according to a letter received by William H. Gould, sr., of the Pasadena apartments, from his son, Harry Gould, a member of that regiment now in France. The Nebraska has selected a big task, but their fighting qualities are well known at home and their friends feel confident that they will succeed.

BAN ON POLITIX REMOVED AFTER BIG LOAN DRIVE

Influenza Will Probably Prove Handicap to Politicians, but Fireworks May Be Expected.

The open season for injecting partisanship into the political campaign will now be resumed, as republicans adjourned party politics during the Liberty bond drive. The influenza situation will prevent meetings for a while, but the county committee is working away with the details and will make the best of the situation.

Ed. D. Beach, state chairman, while here on Saturday reported that statewide indications favor republican victory.

"I received a letter from Custer county from a man who wrote that Neville and Morehead were pulling the old stuff about joy in Berlin," Mr. Beach stated. "I think that this Second congressional district should be ashamed of its present misrepresentation, but Jeffers will be elected and then the district will have occasion to feel proud of its representative."

"As to the soldier vote, an effort has been made to obtain lists of the Nebraska boys in the training camps, but the governor has refused to give the lists, saying that it is against the orders of the War department, and of course we don't want to do anything which might be against winning the war. We have heard that some soldiers in cantonments have received democratic literature, probably by accident. I received word from a soldier who wrote that he had been requested by the democratic state chairman for a list of the Nebraska boys in his camp, and to be fair he sent me a copy of the list, but the addresses were not included."

No Ballots for Omaha Men.
County Chairman Baker has received a letter from an Omaha man, who wrote that his son, at Camp Dodge, advised him that soldiers except those from Douglas county have received their ballots.

State Chairman Beach stated that State Secretary Pool went to a southern camp before the last primary and returned with a lot of soldier ballots which had been voted. Pool told Beach that he saved the state $40 by making that trip personally.

"There is not much difference between a republican and a patriotic speech," was the comment of a republican Saturday afternoon at the headquarters room, 1619 Farnam street.

Albert W. Jeffers, congressional candidate in this district, and Senator G. W. Norris were visitors at republican headquarters Saturday.

SALVAGE FUND TO MAKE RECORD DURING OCTOBER

Receipts for Month So Far Are More Than Two Thousand Dollars, Which is the High Mark.

Mrs. H. H. Green, manager of the salvage department of the Red Cross, announces that the month of October will be the banner month of the department since its organization. Up to the present she says, the largest receipts of the department has been $1,095, while the receipts of the present month up to Saturday night will be more than $2,000, with nearly two weeks more to go.

Mrs. Green says the greatest need of the department is more stuff to sell. "If only the people realized what an amount of money can be realized out of these articles which are cast aside in the household, it would help out wonderfully," she said. "If you ask me what to bring I shall answer: 'Almost anything about the household that is not in use, provided it has a value.'"

Clothing, books, varnishes, paints, trunks, suitcases, jewelry and furniture of all kinds are among things which have been brought and have found a ready market.

Take a look through your store room, bring what you can spare, and look through the salvage store. One person found an old walnut parlor set there of antique style which struck his fancy. He bought it and is going to have it refinished for his home. He says it will have a

Men Who Have Trades Will Be Inducted in Navy, Starting Monday

For the first time since the new draft, the navy recruiting station, now a navy sub-mobilization station, will open at 9 o'clock Monday morning for the induction of those whose trades make them specially desirable for naval service.

The age limits for this work has been set at 21 to 40 years, inclusive. Men holding deferred classifications at their local board, who registered prior to September 12, and who are qualified are eligible for induction. No Class I-A men who registered prior to September 12 can be accepted. All men registered in the last draft within the required age limits are eligible.

All men upon induction regardless of trade and qualifications will be rated apprentice seamen and sent to a training station for thorough training where competitive examinations will be held for advancement to the special ratings at higher pay.

Men from the following trades can be inducted. Boilermakers, blacksmiths, carpenters, cabinet workers and finishers, cooper-smiths, acetylene welders, machinists and men of high speed motor experience, instrument workers, capable of repairing delicate instruments. Men are needed also for the hospital corps.

Women Sell Nearly Two Million Dollars Worth of U. S. Bonds

The bond total is still climbing at Women's headquarters, Saturday noon having reached the amount of $1,936,260.

Many lieutenants, anxious to swell the total for Nebraska, are still working their districts, so that the majors of the wards have been unable to close their books.

"So long as there is a bond to come in we will remain open," said Mrs. W. A. C. Johnson, secretary. "I will be at my desk until Wednesday at least."

Even after the camouflaged outposts had closed, the captains continued to make sales, boosting their aggregate total to $121,000.

A subscription of $9,000 from Crane & Co. and another of $2,500 from the Rialto theater brought the hotel outpost total to $50,000. Crane & Co. subscribed an additional $9,000 through the store outposts, bringing their total to $71,500. "The women have worked like Trojans," said Mrs. Frank Judson. "The results have far exceeded my expectations."

J. C. Byrne, state chairman, made the statement that the reports from both the Women's headquarters and Liberty bank were "accurate and in perfect condition," a remark most pleasing to the women bankers.
