NEBRASKA SPUD. WHEN GRADED. BEST ON MARKET

Report Praising Quality of State's Potatoes Received by Food Administrator; Answers Criticisms.

"Nebraska-grown potatoes, when properly graded, are not inferior in quality to potatoes grown in surrounding states nor do they possess any inherent weakness which is likely to make them inferior."

This summarizes in brief a report made to Gurdon W. Wattles, federal food administrator for Nebraska, by E. Mead Wilcox, plant pathologist of the Nebraska experiment station, Lincoln.

Mr. Wilcox's report answers for all times the claims of some dealers that Nebraska potatoes are not as good as other potatoes and which was given by them as a reason for refusing to handle potatoes grown in the state.

Mr. Wattles asked for the report following a conference with potato dealers last week, in which they gave as a reason for discriminating against Nebraska potatoes the claim that they were not as good. Mr. Wilcox, in his report, sets out these facts:

New Grading Plan.

"With the new system of grading in operation there remains no good reason for discrimination against Nebraska grown potatoes. The potato growing industry now promises to become a great and established industry in Nebraska, because of the grading rules of the food administration of Nebraska, and it will be both patriotic and profitable for Nebraska people to demand Nebraska grown potatoes. To do otherwise is to deliberately close the eyes to facts and to be guided by superstition growing out of or previously unsatisfactory conditions."

"There has been a prejudice against Nebraska potatoes," Mr. Wilcox says, "but it was the growth of improper handling of potatoes. Dry rot appeared first in Nebraska about 1907, when an investigation was undertaken by this department. Bulletins and information was widely disseminated throughout the state, but despite these warnings, careless handling and improper storage methods have been continued by many. This led to the federal food administrator for Nebraska in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture, recommending and enforcing grading regulations, which are now in effect."

Wilson Answers Appeal To Endorse Mr. Morehead

The democrats who are engineering the campaign for Mr. Morehead for senator have appealed for presidential endorsement, which has been forthcoming notwithstanding the supposed adjournment of politicians, as the following interrelated paragraphs just given out indicated: "Omaha, Oct. 28, 1918—President Wilson, Washington.—The people of Nebraska are intensely interested in the winning the war and giving you proper support. They would appreciate a statement from you on the senatorial situation in Nebraska and your opinion of John H. Morehead. EDWARD P. SMITH."

"White House, Washington, D. C., Oct. 28—Hon. Edward P. Smith, Omaha.—I cannot refrain from expressing my deep interest in the election of Mr. Morehead to the United States senate. I not only know something of his qualities, but I have more particularly in mind the difficult tasks immediately ahead of the congress and I am convinced that it would be of the utmost value, not only to Nebraska, but to the country, to have a man of his quality and principles in the senate. We need men with just his steadfast loyalty to the cause which stands in need of unflinching support. "WOODROW WILSON."

Thomas J. Foley, Who Was Famous in West, Died Here on Monday

Thomas J. Foley, well known here in the "good old days," died at St. Catherine's hospital Monday night, after a long illness.

Foley was proprietor of the famous Douglas saloon for 31 years. At the time of the Continental block fire in 1916 his place was entirely destroyed. Foley then gave up the liquor business and purchased a large tract of land near Sidney, Neb., and last spring put 500 acres of it into wheat. It is said that his health was broken from overwork in attending to his farming interests which resulted in his death.

Foley's place at 1412 Douglas for many years was the headquarters in Omaha for western cattle men, where the solitude of the range was forgotten in the cup that cheers. "Foley's" was also the headquarters of the late William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), with whom Mr. Foley spent a part of each year at his favorite sport of big game hunting in the wilds of Wyoming.

At the time of the fire which destroyed Foley's place of business he felt that his greatest loss was the destruction of some valuable oil paintings which had been presented him by Mr. Cody; also many curios and mounted wild animals which had made his place one of the sight-seeing places of the town.

Mr. Foley leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters, also a brother, M. J. Foley formerly of the firm of Foley & Ryan.

HEALTH BOARD GIVES WARNING OF INFLUENZA DANGER

Ask People to Be Careful and Take Proper Treatment Promptly. Many Pneumonia Cases Follow Influenza. What to Do.

Clean out the excess acid from your stomach—it creates poisons that drag you down, rob you of physical power and vitality, make you sickly, weak and unfit.

It's just excess acid—superacidity—that's ailing you. Learn what it must mean to have in your stomach excess acidity so powerfully destructive as to be able to create almost any ailment. For years dentists have been telling you that it's acid that eats off the hard enamel of the teeth and decays them. Think, then, of how much easier it must be for an excess amount of acid to play havoc with the delicate organization of the stomach. Just imagine how one must feel—how weak, unfit, tired, run down and sickly—when acid-stomach gains control! Also, what small chance one has of the recovery of robust health, happiness or success, if this acid is permitted to remain, creating greater and ever greater inroads on your health and strength day after day.

You must remove the excess acid if you want perfect health and strength.

Health that knows no aches or pains anywhere, that gives life a new zest and makes it really worth while. What unspeakable joy it is to have health like that! How you live every minute of the day! How soundly you sleep at night and how refreshed you feel in the morning! How keenly you relish your meals—with what enthusiasm and bounding energy you plunge into the day's work whether it calls for muscular activity or mental keenness—or both!

That is the kind of health we all want and should have. It is your heritage. So don't let an acid-stomach deprive you of your health. Don't let it hold you back. Take the superacidity—acid-stomach—out of your system and back comes health, strength, vitality. Why? Because, by getting rid of the excess acid, you will be able to get the full strength out of the food you eat.

Some people think an acid-stomach merely causes indigestion, dyspepsia, bloating, heartburn, etc. That is a grave mistake. You simply have no idea of the long train of physical ills and awful human suffering that are directly traceable to acid-stomach. Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Cirrhosis of the Liver, Biliousness, Anemia, Auto-intoxication, Intestinal Congestion, Severe Headache, Insomnia, Nervousness, Mental Depression, Melancholia, Dizziness, Heart Trouble—yes, even Catarrh, Ulcer and Cancer of the Stomach—all of these disorders can find their original source in that one condition—acid-stomach—superacidity.
