CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Work at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels. "California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grownups are plainly on the bottle.

Trust Your Complexion To Cuticura Soap

If signs of pimples, redness or roughness appear touch them with Cuticura Ointment before bathing with Soap. Nothing purer, sweeter or more speedily effective to clear the complexion and keep it clear.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and youthful with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. - Adv.

D. D. D. JEFFERIS FOR CONGRESS

SOCIETY

"FLUIE" goes the closing order and the theaters which have been cold and dark so long will soon be as cheery and gay as ever. What is the first thing that the long suffering citizens will do to celebrate the great event? Will the phones ring busily in the box offices and reservations made for large theater parties? Or will prominent matrons who love to entertain immediately begin to plan dinners and dancing parties? There is no doubt that the social world will once more resume its normally cheerful aspect.

The men at the fort will probably storm the canteen when the doors are opened and the blue veiled workers once more dispense hot food and cheer, for the uniformed fighters who have been kept within the confines of the post have missed the cozy little "eatery" sadly. Many of the dancing clubs who have postponed the opening affair for the winter season will seize the first opportunity to give a hop. The Qui Vive club is planning to give the first of their dances at the Blackstone very soon and the Molan Lee club will give an enjoyable affair Saturday evening at the Kel-Pin Head academy.

Colonel and Mrs. Jacob Wuest entertained at a very delightful dinner party at their quarters at the post Monday, when the honor guest was Colonel Mygatt, who has been visiting Colonel and Mrs. Wuest for several days, and Colonel and Mrs. Howard.

Captain and Mrs. Tucker entertained at dinner at the Fontenelle Tuesday evening, when the guests included Colonel and Mrs. Wuest, Major and Mrs. R. C. Crawford and Mrs. Young.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Siefert will entertain a large number of the army at a Halloween party at their quarters at Fort Crook Thursday evening. Major and Mrs. R. C. Crawford will entertain at dinner Saturday evening.

An interesting engagement announcement comes today of two talented musicians, for Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Gordon announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Muriel, to Sgt. Dwight A. Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chase of Helena, Mont., formerly of Omaha. The wedding will take place after the war.

Miss Gordon is one of Omaha's most attractive singers, for she not only has a rich contralto voice but beautiful hair and delicate coloring. She studied in New York City for several months and has appeared on various programs for the Tuesday Musical club, and is now soloist at the United Presbyterian church.

Sergeant Chase, of the 647th aero squadron, is stationed at Camp Morrison, Va. The young soldier is a member of the company band. He is spending a 10-day furlough in Omaha, visiting his fiancée.

A really artistic luncheon was given at the University club today, for Miss Helen Eastman, Omaha's talented young artist, was the hostess and the honoree, Miss Bernice Branson of Lincoln, who is also skilled with the palette and brush. Following the luncheon at the club the two young women and their guests hurried to the United War Drive building on the court house lawn, where the artists began work on the posters. These posters, which are to depict the various branches of war work in which women are engaged, are to be veritable works of art, and an interested crowd of on-lookers will watch the two girls as they decorate the sides of the building with the work of their brushes.

For Miss Heath. Miss Helen Pearce also chose the fall flowers for her luncheon table at the University club today, for the brilliant chrysanthemums make a most artistic centerpiece. Miss Mildred Heath of Kansas City was the honor guest and the other guests included her hostess, Miss Mary Fuller, Miss Elsie Storz, Miss Beulah Clarke and Miss Alice Coak.

Dinner for War Workers. A banquet for local workers in the united war drive is planned to be held at the Chamber of Commerce in advance of the opening of the drive, Thursday evening, November 7.

Hallowe'en Affair. Misses Helen and Dorothy Grant will entertain Thursday evening at a Hallowe'en party when the guests will include a number of the younger girls and army officers from Fort Omaha.

Novelist in Town. Meredith Nicholson of Indianapolis, famous novelist and publicist, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kountze. Mrs. Nicholson is a sister of Mr. Kountze.

Lieutenant and Mrs. E. S. Cassler, who have been in Denver for some time, have returned to the Blackstone. Mrs. Cassler expects to occupy one of the cottages near Fort Omaha within a few days.

Capt. Wallace A. Fellers, headquarters company, 136th infantry, 34th division, has arrived safely overseas. Mrs. Fellers and two small sons will make their home with her parents until after the war.

Mrs. Annie C. Magnus of Los Angeles will visit with friends in Omaha enroute to New York City, where she will meet her son, Mr. Charles Magnus.

Miss Bernice Branson, who arrived today from Lincoln, will be the guest of Miss Lida Wilson for several days.

Mrs. P. J. Cleary, who has received word that Mr. Cleary, who is with the 341st supply company, has arrived safely overseas.

Mr. Edwin M. Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Kahn, has entered the radio school in Lincoln.

Miss Mona Towle is now at the Blackstone, where she will stay for several weeks.

Forsakes Business World to Drive Ambulance

Mary Schumate

Miss Mary Schumate, recommended by Mrs. C. T. Kountze for Red Cross motor service abroad, is one of the first Omaha girls tentatively accepted for this work. Miss Schumate applied for canteen service last spring but was not then accepted on account of the ruling barring sisters of men in the service. Her brother Arthur is adjutant for the 123rd machine gun battalion.

Miss Schumate successfully passed the motor mechanics examination Saturday and has taken the required first aid courses.

Few girls give up as promising a career in the business world to do war work as did Miss Schumate, who came here two years ago from Quincy, Ill., to be buyer for the corset department at Burgess-Nash.

Needlework Guild Makes Appeal for Garments. "Over Here, Over Here" Join the Guild, join the Guild, over here! Now the list is growing, and the women sewing.

Wanted—3,000 women to join Omaha branch, Needlework Guild of America. All that is necessary is that each one donate two or more useful garments—underwear, stockings, bed linen, towels, blankets, comforters and night garments.

Wednesday, November 6, is the date set for the annual meeting and collection of garments. All donations are sent to the First Christian church, Twenty-sixth and Harvey streets, where they will be arranged on tables representing each organization. The donor of garments may designate which institution shall receive her gift.

For Overseas Service. Four Omaha girls were today recommended to the War department by Central division for Red Cross service abroad. Miss Sarah Ray Cole, 118 South Thirty-seventh street, was named for hospital hut.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Snyder have received word that their sons, Owen and Merrill, of the Sanborn division, have arrived safely overseas.

Mr. H. C. Sumney has given up her home and is now at the Fontenelle, where she will spend the winter.

Red Cross Resumes Work. Red Cross activities will be resumed Monday morning, Gould Dietz, chairman of Omaha chapter, announces. The influenza quarantine, which caused cessation of Red Cross auxiliaries' work, will be lifted Friday night.

To give women a large share of responsibility for the administration of the war labor program, the Department of Labor at Washington has authorized the appointment of two women members to each state advisory committee of the United States employment service.

Madame Huard to Lecture for Drama League

One of the most interesting personalities who will lecture in Omaha this winter is Madame Huard, who will speak before the Drama League, February 21. This beautiful woman, who is the daughter of Francis Wilson, is the author of the two books, "My Home on the Field of Honor" and "My Home on the Field of Mercy." She is, indeed, cognizant with the horrors of war, for her beautiful home near Chateau Thierry was almost demolished by the Germans after the battle of the Marne. In her first book Madame Huard tells of the damage wrought, priceless mirrors and pictures broken, and all the furniture in the chateau almost completely destroyed.

In the second volume Madame Huard tells of caring for the wounded in her home, which was transformed into a hospital after the evacuation of the Huns. This patriotic woman is now in America, bringing the war and all its cruelty home to her hearers, for the thrilling experiences which she relates make one of the most gripping war lectures ever presented.

Soldier Appeals for Red Cross on Eve of Death

Mrs. Avery Lancaster, 621 North Fifty-first street, Red Cross worker in the Masonic building, has word of the death of a nephew, G. A. Nairn, a Minneapolis boy, in the St. Mihiel sector. The night before he was wounded he wrote the following tribute to the Red Cross in a letter to his mother:

"Mother, I want to tell you that all the long and probably weary hours you have spent at the Red Cross have been in a wonderful way. Their treatment of me alone tonight has more than repaid your efforts.

"You can rest assured that though your efforts may not be seen at home in a tangible way, I can see them here, more and more every day, and God only knows what we would do without the Red Cross. They seem to be everywhere, to offer a helping hand, and to do everything possible for the comfort of the soldier. So does the Y. M. C. A. for that matter. And, mother, if any of your friends are not doing Red Cross work, have them get busy at once. They can serve their country no better."

Speaker for United War Drive. Miss Rita Freeman of Chicago, former Omaha girl, will be one of the speakers for the woman's committee of the united war drive, George Creel of Washington, D. C., at the war conference held recently in Chicago. She spoke very highly of Miss Freeman's ability, saying that he wished every man, woman and child in the United States could hear her. She is a social worker and story teller and has helped the dental fund in Omaha. Miss Freeman will leave Monday for a two weeks' speaking tour through the state.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURE

By DADDY "Sky Soldiers"

(Peggy, made tiny and invisible by leaves from the Gollykit Shrub, goes to Europe with General Swallow and takes part in an air battle.) CHAPTER IV. Peggy Makes a Capture.

While General Swallow was blinding the German aviator so that he shot down one of his own comrades and was himself forced to land. Teddy Rose, the American, was having a terrific fight with the five Hun machines that were left. Teddy was brave enough and never thought of turning tail, but he didn't have a chance against so many foes. It was plain to Peggy, circling about in her toy airplane, that he was simply trying to sell his life as dearly as possible and bring down as many machines as he could before being overwhelmed himself.

The battle didn't seem a bit fair to Peggy, indeed, she was so indignant that she forgot to be scared, and in a moment she found herself darting into the fray as impetuously as General Swallow had done.

One particularly daring German seemed to be leading the attack. Instinctively Peggy named him "the Hawk." The other German machines kept Teddy busy, while the Hawk tried to get into a position where he could shoot him down. Teddy did some wonderful sky acrobatics, sliding away on one wing, diving, somersaulting, tailspinning, and scooting upward, but the Germans clung close to him, and the Hawk was slowly but surely wearing him out.

Peggy made straight for the Hawk. Her swift airplane darted up behind him. She couldn't attack as General Swallow had done, because her propeller would be smashed at the first blow and then she would be helpless. Shutting off her airplane, she dropped into the cockpit of the German machine. As she was invisible, of course the Hawk couldn't see her. He was intent upon the chase, using every trick he knew to get where he could send the finishing shot into Teddy.

A great pistol stuck out of a holster that hung from the Hawk's belt. "If I only had that I could end this fight," thought Peggy. But she was too tiny. Then there popped into her mind what General Swallow had said about the Gollykit shrub, if she repeated the verse it would make her either short or tall. Now she wanted to be her usual size. "Gollykit small, Gollykit fast, "Oh, when it comes fall, why summer is past."

Quickly she repeated the nonsensical verse, at the same time wishing she would grow tall. The effect was sudden. Her body shot up out of the cockpit so fast she was caught in the wind and almost swept away. Getting her balance she crouched down, seized the pistol, and jerked it out.

The Hawk was so intent upon firing on Teddy that he didn't notice her. Teddy was then right in the line and the Hawk grinned evilly as he tightened his finger on the trigger of his machine gun.

"Bang!" went the pistol. The bullet sped straight to his mark. That mark was the Hawk's finger that was pressing the machine gun trigger. Off came the finger as if snipped by the scissors.

The Hawk let out a howl. Peggy shifted the gun until it was poked into the back of his neck. "Down! Down! Down!" she screamed. Possibly the Hawk couldn't hear above the buzz of the airplane, but anyway he seemed to understand what she meant. Daring as he was, the sudden loss of his finger, the abrupt coming of some mysterious being upon his machine high in the air, the threat of a bullet in the neck from his own pistol, all combined to startle him into a panic. Obeying a sharp shove she gave him, he shot out of the battle and down toward the earth.

Near the ground he tried to bring his machine up level, but a threatening poke of the pistol into his neck caused him to duck in a hurry, and in a moment he was scurrying across the ground right into the midst of a company of waiting, grinning American soldiers.

When Peggy saw that he was really landing she whispered again the strange verse: "Gollykit small, Gollykit fast, Oh, when it comes fall, why summer is past."

Instantly she became small again, and stepping into her own airplane, sailed away to help Teddy fight the remaining Hun planes.

(In the next chapter Peggy hugs "The Vulture.")

A bronze tablet has been unveiled at Rockville Center, Long Island, in memory of Miss Winona Caroline Martin, librarian of the public library there, who shortly after her arrival in France last March was killed in a German air raid on Paris. She is believed to have been the first American woman to give her life in this war on French soil.

No Mystery in Meat. Some things are so simple that they have to be explained again and again. When things are obvious, people keep looking for mysteries behind them. So it is with the packing business. The mere size of Swift & Company confuses many. Because their imaginations are not geared up to scale, they believe there must be magic in it somewhere—some weird power. Swift & Company is just like any other manufacturing business, run by human beings like yourself, it takes in raw material on the one hand and turns out a finished product on the other. Swift & Company keeps down the "spread", or the expense absorbed between raw and finished material, to as low a figure as possible. (If it didn't it would be put out of business by others who do.) How much Swift & Company pays for the raw material, and how much it gets for the finished product, depends upon conditions which Swift & Company does not control. It depends entirely upon how much people want the finished product, and how much raw material there is available to make it from. The profits of Swift & Company amount to less than one cent per pound on all meats and by-products, —less than one-fourth of a cent on beef.
