Poor Time for Kings and Kaisers, Says Louisville Editor

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15.—"To hell with the Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs," the slogan proclaimed by Henry Watterson in the columns of the Louisville Courier Journal and which somewhat startled the country, September 3, 1914, has been answered sooner than its author expected.

"The Courier Journal's prophecy," said Mr. Watterson, now editing emeritus in a statement shortly after Emperor Wilhelm abdicated, "that in thirty-five years there would not be a crowned head in Europe," will also come true. It has been for a long time evident that autocracy was on the down grade. This is a poor era for kings, kaisers, and other figuresheads. The world is moving toward self-government. Each man thinks himself to wear the purple. Let us put upon the kaiser's tomb Ben Johnson's inscription over the grave of a pig:

"Whist he lived he lived in clover, when he died he died all over."

The United States was not a belligerent when Mr. Watterson's slogan was coined. It was widely quoted and was the subject of heated controversy between pro-German and pro-ally.

While a storm brewed about him Mr. Watterson continued to consign the ruling houses of Germany and Austria-Hungary to perdition through the editorial columns of his paper. He laid stress on the fact that the United States could not keep out of the war and preached preparedness against the day when his prophecy was verified.

Jew, Protestant and Gentle Are Invited to Meet Thanksgiving

Mayor Smith has called for a great union Thanksgiving service to be held on Thanksgiving morning in the City Auditorium. Jew, Protestant and Gentile are invited to unite in a grand outpouring of thanks for the blessings vouchsafed to the city, state and nation.

"It may be that we will even have thanks to return for the dawn of peace," said the mayor. "At any rate so many good things have come to us that it is fitting that we should give thanks to C. d."

"In the past individual churches have held their Thanksgiving services. In many cases several churches in a neighborhood have united."

"But I believe we ought to go farther than that and all people of whatever religious affiliation or of no affiliation at all should join in returning thanks to the Almighty for what He has done for us and to invoke His further aid to our forces at the front."

Mayor Smith has written letters to Archbishop Harty and to ministers and rabbis in the Protestant and Jewish churches to get their ideas on the union Thanksgiving meeting and suggestions on what shall be the nature of the celebration.

Extra Fares Off.
Washington, Nov. 14.—Extra fare now charged on a few fast trains between New York and Chicago, New York and Washington and elsewhere may be eliminated by the railroad administration. Director General McAduoo is considering removing these special charges, it was said today, although action may not be taken for a week or more.

Rechristen Streets.
Paris, Nov. 15.—(British Wireless Service).—The municipal council of Nevers, capital of the department of Nièvre, and an important center of the American lines of communication, has rechristened three of its streets in honor of President Wilson, Premier George Clemenceau and Marquis De La Fayette.
