Omaha is uniquely situated. Its contral location now that we are conserving all resources and outting out waste in transportation, is a big asset. It must grow with the growth of the rich agricultural section around it. Each year its growth increases by reason both of its increased trade territory and more intensive calitivation in its formerly eq-cupied territory. Its volume of business is reflected in its bank clearings. Last week these were $60,855,000-Elferenth in the United States-Only ten cities above Omsha. Omsha having greater bank clear-ings than many cities twice its size.
