

OMAHA, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 24, 1918. 11-A

BATTLE ROYAL AT FT. OMAHA-FT. RILEY GAME

Seven Balloon Men Carried from Gridiron on Stretchers Provided by Kindly Medical Hosts.

Kansas City, Nov. 23.—(Special Telegram)—Using all the tactics of rugged warfare, tactics they might well have used against the Huns to excellent advantage had they been fortunate enough to have taken part in the rousing finish on the western front of the gridiron.

The day was cold and the chilled atmosphere together with the fear of the "flu" probably held the crowd to a lower figure than the promoters had counted on.

Huns Should Be Thankful. The athletes of old man Hindenburg and old man Ludendorff have a lot to be thankful for.

For instance the Huns might have had to face the frenzied rushes of the boys from Omaha and the boys from Fort Riley.

Omaha was forced down the field at the start of the game, two pretty forward passes engineered by the Indian left half, Lasley, figuring largely in the advance.

The balloon school recovered from their trance and put the medics on the defensive.

Weight Gives Omaha Advantage. When the Omaha men resorted to straight foot ball their weight gave them an advantage.

Riley balanced the score ledger in the third period.

Northwestern Unable to Stand Line Attacks of Iowa and Are Defeated, 23 to 7.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 23.—Developing its full power after the first period, Iowa downed Northwestern here today, 23 to 7.

Plunging line attacks by Fullback Lohman, after perfectly executed forward passes to Captain Reed had brought the ball within striking distance of the goal.

Three times Lohman crossed Northwestern's line with the ball—once in the second period and twice in the final session.

Northwestern's forward passing attempts, heralded as bewildering, were baffled after the first period.

Omaha was forced down the field at the start of the game, two pretty forward passes engineered by the Indian left half, Lasley.

Weight Gives Omaha Advantage. When the Omaha men resorted to straight foot ball their weight gave them an advantage.

Riley balanced the score ledger in the third period.

Great Lakes Station Beats Annapolis Team 1 Point in Hard Game

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 23.—By the close margin of one point Great Lakes Naval Training station scored a victory over the Annapolis midshipmen in a desperately played game today, 7 to 6.

The sky was partly overcast with a fairly brisk wind from the north that blew across the field.

The teams played each other to a standoff in the first period, although the middies had a shade the better of it in general ground gaining.

Towards the close of the final period, Great Lakes turned what seemed to be certain defeat into victory.

The local team showed little improvement over its previous appearances. Shifts in its lineup, due to injuries of regulars, reduced its team play to a minimum.
