Thanksgiving Gifts for Needy Received at Schools Wednesday

Thanksgiving gifts will be refor the poor of Omaha, as is the annual custom. Each child who is able to do so is asked to bring jellies, preserves, vegetables, or other good things to eat, to be distributed by the social service organizations among the needy.

In one district the report came o Miss Belle Ryan, assistant superintendent of education, that the children had nothing to bring but potatoes and onions, but there were plenty of them. "Bring them along, said Miss Ryan, "there is nothing better than potato soup with onions

Large Increase in Shipments Live Stock During October

Hale Holden, regional director for the railroads of the central western region, says that during Octo-ber of this year the roads over which he has jurisdiction handled 7.2 per cent more carloads of live stock than during the corresponding month in 1917; coal, 15.5; grain

During October, 1918, South Omaha handled 12,074 carloads of live stock inbound and 5,737 cars

Mr. Holden says that congestion at terminals has disappeared and all business is moving freely. The outlook for winter business is better than at any time since the fall of 1915, the country is better stocked with goods and merchandise and the mines are producing more coal than ever before in their history.
