My Hat Diary

Well, bless my soul, if it isn't 3 o'clock and I told Betty I would meet her at Franklin's. I know I'll get the reputation of being an old slow poke, but I shan't worry over that. I don't want to go out of the house looking like a scarecrow and house looking like a scarecrow and if I don't take my time while dressing I will look like one. Dear me, I wish I had a hat like Betty's. It's awfully "cutie" and really looks quite well on me. It is very large and droops at the sides. The crown is double, the top being made of black velvet and put on full, and the bottom is of checked wool cloth stretched on tight. The brim is all of black velvet and frames the face strikingly.
