

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Conducted by Ella Fleishman

SOCIETY

MME. OLGA SAMAROFF arrived in Omaha Wednesday morning, expecting to appear in concert in the evening under the auspices of the Tuesday Musical club.

At the election of officers held Tuesday for the George A. Custer Relief corps, the following were elected: President, Mrs. Mary Johnson; senior vice president, Mrs. Ellen Hershey; junior vice president, Mrs. Carolyn Lockner; chaplain, Mrs. Sarah Gardner; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Gwynne; conductor, Mrs. Jennie Everson; and guard, Mrs. John Harroster.

One of the loveliest of the Yuletide parties will be the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Pixley and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morsman, jr., in honor of their daughters, Miss Virginia Pixley and Miss Mary Morsman.

Miss Claire Daugherty has recently been elected president of her class at Miss Spence's school in New York. She will arrive home December 22 to spend the holidays.

A boys' English class at the Social Settlement has been reorganized after several weeks' vacation. The November report shows a good attendance and new pupils are being added from time to time.

Boys of the Phi Lambda Epsilon club of the Central high school are planning a dance to be given at Turpin's on December 23.

Election of officers for the Scottish Rite Women's club, which was to have been held Friday, has been postponed until January 10.

Friendship club has postponed its regular Thursday evening dancing party.

Week End Dancing club has postponed the dancing party scheduled for Saturday evening.

The card party and dance which was to have been given by the Joan of Arc club, Wednesday evening at Metropolitan hall was postponed.

Temple Israel Sisterhood Dancing club has postponed the dancing party announced for December 18 at the Blackstone, until January 15, when the affair will be given in the same place.

The dancing party which was to have been given Friday evening by the Liberty club has been postponed.

Cinemas dancing club has postponed its party until December 27.

The dinner party which was planned by the bachelor officers for Wednesday evening has been postponed until Tuesday.

Mrs. E. W. Crockett was hostess for the meeting of the committee in charge of the Victory Christmas Wednesday.

The officers' wives are planning a most enjoyable Christmas day for the men, with a special dinner and program.

Christmas Bazaar. Plymouth Congregational church will hold a Christmas bazaar Friday and Saturday in the rotunda of the court house.

Miss Dorothy Judson, who is attending Miss Somers' school in Washington, expects to return December 22 to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Judson.

What We Missed

This is the menu for the table d'hote dinner which would have been served to approximately 1,500 guests Saturday, December 14, at the Athletic club, had not the formal opening been abandoned:

Foulard Appears as a Vest

By GERTRUDE BERESFORD.

Like the well-loved perennials of the garden, tulips, hyacinths and jonquills, which come back each year to find a joyous welcome, our old friend foulard will again be a favorite when fur coats are laid aside.

last six months, has been transferred to Harvard, Cambridge, Mass., where he will continue his studies.

John C. Haarmann, who has been in training at the Air Service Training school in St. Paul, has received his honorable discharge and returned Tuesday.

Lt. Eldred Hart has received his honorable discharge and will arrive in Omaha Saturday evening.

WINTER FASHIONS. The winter fashions are very satisfactory. Although there are no startling changes to be found, the slim silhouette becomes so much simpler that it makes a change in itself.

Striking Points of French Models. When I read of the Paris clothes, no matter how carefully I do it, am yet surprised at the "newness" of the actual models when I really see them.

We have known that the lines were straight. They actually measure a yard and a half, or less, round the hem; they are absolutely straight and skimpy in effect, with their charm depending upon materials, fur trimming, fine stitchery, embroidery, or beading.—Good Housekeeping.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Megeath will leave for California after Christmas.

Miss Helen Garvin, who is in Chicago taking the preparatory course for Y. W. C. A. workers, will spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Garvin.

Mrs. William Chambers is confined to her home with an attack of influenza.

EAT SKINNER'S THE BEST MACARONI. Includes an illustration of a woman's face and a box of macaroni.

Red Cross Notes

The following letter was received by Mr. V. B. Smith, ticket seller at the Union station, from one of the French soldiers who passed through Omaha enroute for Siberia:

"Mr. V. B. Smith, Union Depot—Gentlemen and Ladies: Make advantage of this little rest we are taking in San Francisco to thank you for the good welcome we received while in Omaha.

"This reception will stay engraved in our memory for a long time. I beg of you to thank in my name all those brave ladies of the Red Cross that did all they could to be agreeable to us.

"As I said before it is a day never to be forgotten. I leave you now in thanking you with all my heart and cordially shaking your hands.

"VICTOR GIACINARD, "Goupe Automobile Arivitz, 1311 Detachment de Siberie. (Paris)."

One hurried glance at coat lapels or blouses the week of December 16-23 will tell a lot about the ideals of Omaha men and women.

If the 1919 membership button of the Red Cross is being worn, the glance will register a flattering impression. This button is to be given to every adult who pays the $1 membership dues, but the dollar is the least significant thing about the transaction.

What the American Red Cross wants this Christmas is to have the world see that the American people are behind the Red Cross spirit. Universal membership will prove this.

To record such a membership the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call is to be held the week before Christmas. No quota has been assigned to Omaha because it is planned to enroll everybody.

The membership button has a blue rim with a red cross in the center of a white background and the figure 1919 under the red cross. For homes, stores, factories and offices there is a Red Cross service flag to be displayed in windows.

The White House in Washington will have a 100 per cent Red Cross service flag, and President Wilson, who also is president of the Red Cross, asks every home in the country to follow suit. He has said, "I summon you to the comradeship," and Omaha homes will accept the invitation.

Owing to illness and putting up of cars for the winter, the Red Cross motor corps needs drivers and cars, as more demands than ever before are now being made upon it.

In the salvage department of the Red Cross there is a very wonderful piano for sale, according to Mrs. Frank Adams, chairman.

WINTER MILLINERY. Millady's hats are a problem, indeed, and Helen Koues in an article in Good Housekeeping for December seeks to throw some light on the subject. She says:

DREAMLAND ADVENTURE

"THE BLUE IMPS" By DADDY.

Peggy is rescued from the Blue Imps by the Giant of the Woods and the Rosy Peps, and goes with them to the aid of the mother of the Dalton soldier boy.

CHAPTER V. In the Trenches. "POUR away that ink. It's filled with eggs of the Blue Imps," directed Sir Ready Smiler, as Mrs. Dalton prepared to write another letter to her soldier sons.

"These eggs will hatch out cheerfulness, fun, courage, hope, confidence and all things good," explained Sir Ready Smiler.

"What shall I say?" asked Mrs. Dalton. "Tell your boys how good the crops have been; tell them about the frisky calf and the greedy young pigs for which you are going to get a good price; tell them about how splendidly this country is backing them up by buying Liberty bonds and subscribing to the Red Cross."

"To be sure there are. I can fill my letter so full of them there'll not be room for the little troubles that have been in my mind."

"Kisses are a whole lot better than tear drops," declared the Giant. "If you'll be real good and promise not to speak or try to make yourself known, we'll take you with us when we deliver the letter, said Sir Ready Smiler.

"Oh, I promise," cried Mrs. Dalton, her eyes glowing. "Put on the wings of Fancy," ordered Sir Ready Smiler. The Rosy Peps quickly fastened pink wings, much like their own, to the shoulders of Mrs. Dalton, Peggy and the Giant.

"And now for the trenches," cried Sir Ready Smiler. With that the whole party flew out of the door and high up into the misty air.

"My boys," whispered Mrs. Dalton. Sure enough, there were Ben and Bill, alert and strong, keeping watch toward the German trenches. With them was a third soldier whom they called Bob. The three, while vigilant and ready for action, were joking cheerfully among themselves.

"I wish we could get a crack at the Fritzies tonight, I feel as though I could lick a dozen of them," said Bob. "So do we," declared Ben, and Bill and Peggy saw their mother's face light up with pride.

"Here's the mail," spoke a soldier, coming along with a sackful of letters. He handed one letter to Bob and then looked through his sack. "I thought I had one for you, Ben and Bill, but I can't find it," he said.

Peggy knew why he couldn't find it. She had seen Sir Ready Smiler take a big blue envelope out of his sack just before he reached the soldiers. The blue envelope was bulging out so large Sir Ready Smiler could scarcely handle it. The Blue Imps within were already hatching out.

"Well, we are glad Bob got one, anyway," said Ben and Bill, bravely. As Bob opened his letter, Blue Imps fairly sprang out of it. As he read they sprang from every line, until they were swarming all over him. In an instant they had tied him with letters, as they had tied Peggy, and he sagged down with groan, all the sturdy alertness and vigor gone out of him.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am a mother of seven children, but I have a daughter of 17, my youngest child, who causes me much trouble.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am a mother of seven children, but I have a daughter of 17, my youngest child, who causes me much trouble. All of our family for several generations have been plain, hard-working people.

She is full of mischief and wants to go out all of the time. I do not allow her to go more than once a week, but when she is home all of the time she does not seem to act just as crazy as possible and just as noisy.

I have to drive her to her lessons and make her study, but she is careless in her work and doesn't make much progress. She is a senior in high school, but she will have to go another year, as she lacks five points.

She is very popular with everyone, for she is one of those girls who has a word for everybody. She is not exactly mean, but she does things which make me so absolutely out of patience that I lose my temper and make threats and do everything I can think of.

Bill shook his head sadly at Ben. "I'm glad our mother doesn't write letters like that," he whispered. Mrs. Dalton gasped and looked at Sir Ready Smiler, who showed her the blue letter he was replacing with the cheerful one.

Electricity is Declared Not Practicable for Heating

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 12.—Electricity for heating purposes, even in northwestern states where there is plenty of water power, is not feasible from either a practical or economic standpoint, experts of leading power companies testified before the Idaho public utilities commission at a hearing started Wednesday morning to determine whether electrical energy could be used for this purpose or not.

I have known just such girls as you describe here. Your letter leads me to believe that you have a jewel and do not understand her. Permit her to draw; she may have great talent. If she is tactful enough to get others to do the labors assigned her, why grieve? She may be a born executive.

Although women have had the local parliamentary vote in Australia for a number of years, ranging from 23 years in South Australia to 10 years in Victoria, and the national suffrage for 16 years, they have not accomplished as much in regard to certain measures of reform as women in other lands have accomplished without the vote.

Citizens of Umatilla, Ore., evidently are well satisfied with petticoat rule, for after two years' experience they have re-elected women to all the principal offices.

Five Are Named to Make Appraisal of the Gas Plant

The city council approved the appointment of John L. McCague, C. E. Harrison, C. D. Armstrong, P. J. Tebbens and E. M. Slater to appraise the real estate of the Omaha Gas company in the condemnation proceedings now going on. All but Mr. Slater were on the committee of five which made the gas appraisal for the city in 1912.
