LIMIT ON HOGS
FIXED AT 1,200
CARS PER WEEK

Number Based on Killing Capacity of Packing Plants; Schroer Says Amount Is Too Small.

A limitation of 1,200 cars of hogs per week to be shipped to the Omaha stock yards was fixed at a meeting of the stabilization committee and L. H. Snider of the railroad administration yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was held at the request of Mr. Snider, who wished to meet and discuss with members of the stabilization committee means of regulating the hog distribution. The limitation was based on the killing capacity of the packing houses.

According to E. H. Schroer, chairman of the stabilization committee, the amount fixed is too small.

"I believe the limitation should be based on the buying capacity, at least to a certain degree, instead of on the killing capacity," said Mr. Schroer. "The stabilization committee will attempt to get the limit raised to 1,500 cars a week."

The committee is composed of E. A. Rose, commission man; M. R. Murphy of the Cudahy Packing company and Mr. Schroer.

Members of Traders' Exchange Elect New Officers for 1919

There was a large attendance at the regular annual meeting of the Omaha Traders' Exchange, held yesterday on the South Side. Official reports testified to the prosperous condition of the organization, and its general activity during 1918.

An election of officers resulted in a selection of James B. Root as president and Guy Ellis as vice president. Frank G. Kellogg, Dave Rosenstock, and T. J. Sullivan were elected to three-year terms as directors.

After 12 years of service as president of the exchange, Col. James H. Bulla declined a re-election. Active committees will be appointed by the directors in a few days. It is predicted that G. H. Hutzinger will be reappointed as secretary-treasurer.

Iowa Board Takes No Action on Removal of Test Law

A. F. Stryker, secretary of the Live Stock exchange, returned from Des Moines, where he met with the joint session of the Iowa and Nebraska state sanitary boards to discuss the advisability of removing the quarantine restrictions imposed on cattle shipped from Nebraska to Iowa. Under the present laws it is necessary to have all cattle subjected to the tubercular test on arrival in Iowa. Stock raisers say the cost of the test is prohibitive to shipping cattle to feed. No definite decision has been reached by the Iowa board.

MEETS BROTHER IN HOSPITAL AT MYERS, FRANCE

Ewart Weyerman Writes of Fighting Before Armistice; Meets Brother After Four Years' Separation.

Both shot in the same leg and meeting in a convalescent hospital in France after a separation of four years, are some of the coincidences which befell the two brothers, Ewart and Walter Weyerman, with the A. E. F. in France.

Both brothers had seen much service in France, Ewart having been wounded in the drive on Sedan. A younger brother, Paul Weyerman, is with the army of occupation in Germany.

In Drive on Sedan.
The experiences of the two brothers are related in a letter written by Ewart to his brother, Ernest, 1016 South Twenty-seventh street.

"As the censorship has been lifted I have something to write about," he begins.

"My outfit was in reserve during the fighting in the Argonne forest. I was in a French hospital most of the time, but I joined my company in time to go into action in the drive on Sedan. We established a railroad in the ruined town of St. Menchoudon at the edge of the Argonne and then we worked the roads into shape all the way to Sedan. It was some job, as the roads were all mined and constantly under fire. Also all the bridges had to be rebuilt.

Freeze Fast in Mud.
"From November 1 it rained continually and everywhere the mud was from six inches to three feet deep. You can imagine how hard that made it for us. It was cold too, and when we would wake up about 4 a. m., we would have to break out of the mud that had frozen around us while we slept.

"I did not mind being hit because I figured I'd get a warm bed and something to eat at the hospital. When I woke up after being operated on I was told that the armistice had been signed. I was somewhat disappointed at this, but when I heard that the wounded were to go home first I thought it was all right."

"What do you think of me running into Walt yesterday? He was wounded in the same place as me, but he is in good shape now while my wound is just beginning to heal. We are in the same hospital."

"I met some fellows out of Paul's outfit and they said that they did not have many casualties so I guess Paul is in Germany with the third army."

The letter was written on December 2 from the U. S. Convalescent hospital in Myers, France.

Sales of Registers Show Omaha Is Well to the Fore

One of the best indications of the prosperity of any community is the sale of high grade specialties, especially those sold to the business houses. That Omaha is right out in front, is shown by telegrams just received by H. B. Whitehouse, sales manager for the National Cash Register company, and T. W. McClure, salesman for Omaha, from the general sales manager at the factory, that they have both qualified for the 100 per cent club, which is the select of their year's sales.

Based on their year's sales, last year only 103 qualified, and it is thought there will be less this year in the entire organization.

For the last three months of 1917 the record shows that 46 automobile thieves were apprehended, against 92 thieves apprehended during the same three months of 1918.

Fire Threatens Lives of Girls in Detention Home; Saved by Office

Policeman Behrens saved several girls, who were behind padlocked doors in the city detention hospital, Twenty-second street, from probable serious injury late Friday night when he put out a fire in a room on the third floor.

The screams of Josephine Thompson, colored, who was in the room, attracted the attention of Behrens, who had to break down the door. Policeman Black, who was supposed to have been on duty with Behrens, is said to have had the keys to the many padlocks on the doors.

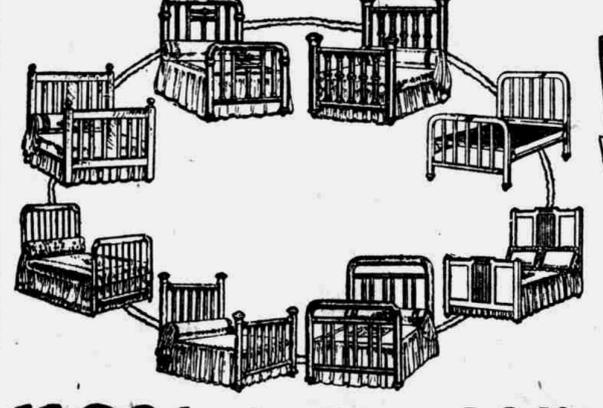

The fire, originating from a broken electric light bulb, did little damage before the policeman extinguished it.
