

C. GAMMENZIND ANSWERS WIFE'S PLEA FOR DIVORCE

Says Mrs. Cammenzind Had Another Husband Living When He Was Married to Her.

Charles Cammenzind has added another chapter to the domestic situation of his home by filing an answer to his wife's petition for divorce.

He alleges that at the time of his marriage to Ella Cammenzind, July 23, 1917, she was the legal wife of Frederick Louis Meyers; that she represented that she had been married only once and that her first husband, named Olwin, had died.

Mr. Cammenzind relates that when he proposed marriage to his present wife he explained that on account of religious scruples he could not marry a divorcee.

Says Marriage Illegal. The husband contends in his answer that his marriage to Mrs. Cammenzind was illegal and he intends to contest her divorce action on that basis.

The answer alleges that Mrs. Cammenzind recently went to Omaha from Sioux City, ostensibly to visit relatives and to locate a young brother whose absence worried her mother, and he charges that his wife journeyed to Omaha with his daughter, Mary, for the purpose of starting an action for divorce and to obtain alimony.

He alleges that Mrs. Cammenzind has been exercising a wrong influence over his daughter by a former marriage.

Mr. Cammenzind has been a ranchman in Sioux county for 30 years. A feature of the divorce proceedings was a habeas corpus case brought last week against the wife for the custody of the daughter; also a damage action brought by Mrs. Cammenzind following her successful contest of the habeas corpus case.

Long Lines Waiting To Buy Seats for Concert Friday. As was predicted the seat sale which opened yesterday for Galli-Curci concert next Friday night eclipsed any previous demand.

For one hour or more before the box office which opened at 9 o'clock, was ready for business, a long line of buyers were waiting their turn and a steady stream has been lining up to the window all day long.

Homer Samuels, accompanist, and Manuel Berenguer, flutist, will be Mme. Galli-Curci's assistants. Mr. Samuels is a talented pianist, whose work is without the semblance of a flaw.

Mr. Berenguer is recognized as an accomplished artist. Mme. Galli-Curci's programs are not at all reminiscent of the old-fashioned "Grand Opera entertainment," for she is not only a remarkable mistress of florid music, but is also a singularly intelligent and convincing interpreter of leader and modern songs in many languages.

It is impossible to say whether it is the voice itself, the art with which it is used or the singular and infectious charm of the singer's personality that appeals most strongly.

COL. ROOSEVELT NEGROES' FRIEND, SAYS MINISTER

Rev. Samuel Barrett Pays High Tribute to Ex-President; Nation Needs More Men With His Courage

Rev. Samuel Barrett, pastor of St. Paul's Baptist church, speaks of Ex-President Roosevelt as the negro's greatest friend in an article written following Mr. Roosevelt's death.

The article is as follows: "In the death of ex-President Roosevelt the American nation in general, and the negro race in particular, lose its strongest individual force for unadulterated Americanism and one of the greatest champions for right and justice the negro has had since the days of Garrison, Phillips and Sumner."

Really Great Man. "And it makes him really great; for any man in a great position who will conscientiously and not for the plaudits of men, champion the cause of the oppressed, yes, and persecuted, in the face of an entrenched anti-feeling; yes, who will stand; as it were, alone and not follow the rabble, lifts himself at once out of the ordinary and immediately becomes great."

Entertained Booker Washington. "When he entertained Booker T. Washington, a man who gave his life for his race, and in trying to bring about more friendly and tolerant feeling between the races, the whole country went into hysterics because they said he was putting his seal of approval on that American bugbear, social equality."

"This nation, and the negro element in it, need more men of his sterling moral courage. Lynched as we are, men, women and children, discriminated against in public places, and public institutions, given the most common and ordinary kinds of work to do, irrespective of our fitness, disfranchised throughout the south, if ever a people that has been unquestionably loyal to a country needs champions, it is the negro. It is such characters as Roosevelt that make the leaders of the negro feel encouraged as they, in their unaided efforts, attempt to help their people in their various social, economic, moral, religious and industrial problems."
