

South Side MANY FAMILIES ASK CHARITIES FOR ASSISTANCE

South Side Branch Caring for Seventy-Five; Influenza Cause in Many Cases.

Seventy-five families are being cared for on the South Side by the Associated Charities, according to Mrs. Anna Born of the South Side branch. Mrs. Born says that in nearly every case either the father, the mother or both have been ill with influenza. In a number of cases the father has died, leaving a large family for the mother to provide for.

Mrs. Born also calls attention to the large number of people who have come to Omaha, lured by the high wages paid. Many of these people are from the country and have been forced by crop failures or other adverse conditions to come to the city for jobs. With little or no financial reserve, they are forced to appeal to the charities in case of sickness.

Former South Omaha Soldier Sends Mother Mexican Souvenirs

When Mrs. B. J. Arnold of 4410 South Twenty-fourth street, opened a letter from her son, Pri. C. E. Arnold, and saw two crisp bills float lightly to the floor she exclaimed, with delight, "Why the boy's been promoted."

On closer investigation, however, she found that the bills, one a five and one a 20, were made in Mexico. The letter explained that they were worthless in the United States.

Young Arnold, who is a former South Side boy, is stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex. Several weeks ago, he writes, his company was equipped for overseas duty. He was much elated at the thought of seeing duty in France, and even prepared a letter to his people, which he gave to a less fortunate chum to mail after he had sailed. Just as they were getting on a train for the port of embarkation, however, orders were received to remain at Fort Bliss, and his hopes were shattered.

Denver Cattleman Greeted Friends in Stock Exchange

H. H. Robinson of Denver, well-known at the Union Stock yards as one of the pioneer cowmen of Nebraska and Montana, spent a busy morning yesterday at the Stock exchange greeting friends and recalling reminiscences.

Mr. Robinson was the manager of the Bay State Land and Cattle company, which, at one time, ranged around 70,000 head of cattle on the prairies of western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming.

"It is a pleasure for me to think," said Mr. Robinson, "that I shipped the first corn-fed hogs that grazed the floor of the old Hammond Packing company."

Limited Service Men Look for Release in Near Future

Limited service men on the South Side are waiting anxiously to be mustered out of the service. J. J. Breen of Local Board No. 2, received notice yesterday that no mail would be received at the draft board office in the South Side city hall after January 15. Men working in the office consider this a good omen, and expect to be mustered out of the service in a short time.

South Side Brevities

C. J. Southard, attorney, formerly of South Omaha, is now associated in the law practice in Omaha with C. Sheppard and under the firm name of Sheppard & Southard, 471-481 Brandeis Bldg., Omaha.

County Attorney Showell notified captain Masten of the South Side police yesterday that he could be reached, in case of a violent death, by telephone at Douglas 2088 of Harney street. He also listed the telephone number of his chief clerk, Paul P. Steuwerder, as South 3797. The publication of these numbers was requested.

A letter was received yesterday by the South Side police from Mrs. Hulday Eck, of 913 N. street, Lincoln, requesting that they search for her son, Eugene Eck. Mrs. Eck says that the last time she heard from her son was in September. At that time he was employed at a packing house on the South Side. He was in the last draft.

Woman Declares She Has Not Bought Costly Dresses

Married life for Emma May Kastrius "has not proven an absolute success, not full of joy, peace, happiness and contentment," she alleges in a divorce petition filed Thursday against Steven Kastrius. This is because Stevens has a tendency not to work, she alleges.

Plaintiff has worked hard since her marriage and "has not spent her money in fashionable dress or costly attire" but has applied all the proceeds of her earnings to their home, she says. Plaintiff asserts her husband is capable of earning between $80 and $100 a month.

Anna D. Pendrock charges cruelty in her divorce suit against Michael Pendrock filed in district court Thursday. He threatened her and addressed her in such vile and profane language of such character she does not wish to set it forth in her petition, she states.

Mrs. Pendrock asks the court for custody of their four children, John, 12; Louis, 10; William, 8; and Veronica, 6, and to award her South Side property owned by her husband and a sufficient sum for the care of the children.
