Red Cross Notes

The work of the canteen has greatly increased throughout central division, according to Gardnet Morris of Chicago. In a recent letter to Mrs. Luther Kountze, commanding of the canteen service in Omaha, he stated that five times as many sick and wounded men were cared for in December as in October. In November the increase was 50 per cent. This of course, applies to central division, of which Mr. Morris is director.

In order that the public may know something of this work in Omaha the following report is given out by Mrs. Kountze:

During the month of December, 9,117 men were welcomed and taken care of at the Union station. The rest room, December 11, and from that date to January 1, 8,000 of the above 9,117 were looked after there. From the opening date of the 31st of December, 435 gallons of coffee were served, 5,800 sandwiches, 7,500 doughnuts, 59 boxes of apples, approximately 7,375. Two hundred and fifty pounds of candy were distributed during the holidays. Sick and wounded men who have come through have been supplied with surgical dressings, medicines and thermometers. Twenty received necessary attention from trained nurses, four were sent to hospital, 143 of them were entertained at the theaters. In addition to the regular light lunch, 143 meals were provided and served.

Most of these men first received attention at the Red Cross information desk, where during December, 118 bags were checked, 1,178 postal cards stamped and mailed, 59 men sent to the U. S. C. A., 61 to the Army and Navy club, and 556 to the new Athletic club, between trains.

Home Service section civilian relief, Red Cross, is anxious to locate Mrs. Esther Malcolm, who formerly lived at 428 North 20th street. Telephone Tyler 2721.

Mrs. R. B. Zachary, chairman of the cutting department, is greatly in need of assistance and sends out an S. O. S. for volunteers. Women are urged to respond to this appeal.

Gasping Women Bear Up Bravely Under Rattling of Skeletons' Bones By Leona

By PEGGY NATTINGER.

FRIEND HUSBAND, watch your step! A seeress is on our midst who knows your every habit, your smallest idiosyncrasy and she will rattle the bones of your family skeleton! Leona Le Mar, the girl with the thousand eyes, who delved into dark pasts at the Orphan last week, knows you even better than you know yourself, every little thing from whether you take cream in your coffee to your favorite haunt where you spend your "lodge nights." But, wait! Not only does this lady with the psychic power read you like an open book, but she will tell you wite!

Question marks, question marks, thought waves and the rustling of the spirits' wings charged the atmosphere at the Orphan Friday afternoon when hundreds of women unburdened their minds and hearts to the prophetess, who sat upon the stage, her hands pressed against her bandaged eyes. The questions were written upon a slip of paper and handed to Miss Le Mar's father, who was in the audience. Without the slightest hesitation she repeated the question and answered it.

Women strained forward in their seats, as she began to speak, for the problem that had caused bitter tears and many wakeful nights was now to be solved. As her reassuring answer came, they settled back, nodding their heads and sighing with relief.

"Do not worry about your son," the attractive girl with clairvoyant power would say, "he will be discharged within the next six weeks," and the motherly looking woman in the third row would smile happily.

"Your husband is not unfaithful," to the question of a retiring little person in the balcony, "but he is too domineering, but your foot down once in a while, you will be much happier."

Questions, questions, on every subject close to feminine hearts. A dog, "Rover," (which Miss Le Mar named without hesitation) was lost, would he be found? He would be returned to his mistress within a few days, the owner was informed. Tragedy and comedy, tears and smiles were all to be seen and heard from the multitude of questions which were answered. Love affairs, law suits, business deals, trips and sickness and health were all discussed. When the strength of Miss Le Mar was close to the breaking point the performance was concluded, but many anxious women were not satisfied. Hurrying to the stage entrance they caught her before she could escape at the door of her dressing room.

"Oh, won't you talk with me, I have been here four times," several of them said. But owing to fatigue Miss Le Mar was forced to refuse their requests and sent them away urging them to come again.

"It is really pitiful," she said, while resting in her dressing room, "my heart is torn for them, for they are so grave and many, many are in despair."

A frail young girl, it seems hardly possible that Miss Le Mar could stand the terrific strain which she is under constantly, but she gives her services cheerfully and is deeply in love with her work. This girl of foresight dates back five generations in Miss Le Mar's family. The mother of this feminine prophet, who now lives in Rochester, N. Y., has this wonderful power, and has helped many people in solving their problems. She does this gratis, accepting no compensation, for she feels that this talent has been given her to help her fellow men.

Her pretty daughter, Leona, is carrying on this work traveling from city to city and creating a sensation wherever she goes. She has been performing these feats since the age of 11 and her accomplishments grow as she matures. In many cities she stays far over her allotted time, so eager are her audiences to have her aid.

During the months of stress and worry when our men were fighting on foreign soil, Miss Le Mar was besieged with questions concerning the end of the war.

"I predicted that there would be no blood-shed after Christmas, 1918," said Miss Le Mar. "I said nothing about the signing of the armistice, and of course, that was signed six weeks before, but I feel that my statement was very nearly correct."

While in Oakland, Cal., Miss Le Mar was challenged by the Oakland Tribune, as they would not advertise her work until she had proved that she was not a fake. She accepted the challenge and met a committee of the leading doctors and lawyers of the city, who willingly acknowledged her genius after her demonstration.

When the cares and worries of the great public are not on her mind, Miss Le Mar is just a normal American girl, interested in outdoor sports and the good times dear to every girl's heart.

"I wish you could see my dogs," she said, her tired eyes brightening. "I have four beautiful spaniels and

Some of them went and some of them smiled, but two writers saw the humorous side of questions and answers which meant tragedy for those most anxious to have the mysteries of life solved by Leona. "Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone," was clearly demonstrated at this meeting for "women only."

BEWARE of Miss LeMar—if you have a deep and dreadful secret for she will expose your perfidy without batting an eye. She is blindfolded and will tell the unpleasant past with ruthlessness and abandon.

The older folks are anxious to know about their boys who are over there, or coming home.

Now and then a siren asks why she is unable to vamp some selected victim, to which Miss LeMar replies with vehemence that she had better keep away from said intended victim and that vamping is unladylike and only done in the higher circles of society.

A young woman asked about a man she knew—wanted to know what was troubling him and why he was no longer attentive to her. Miss LeMar quickly replied, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself. He is a married man and you will never get him." To this remark there were "Ohs" and "Ahs" and laughter and snickers and the young woman seemed rather embarrassed and slipped out through the crowd.

Good gracious! Leona. How do you do it?

Of course all the questions were not of husbands, wives, vamps, sweethearts and soldiers.

There must have been those who had no weightier matters on their minds than whether they would tour the world before they died or wait until after and travel in air. Surely some wanted to know if they would win the next bridge prize and there were numbers who wondered just how much Mrs. Wilson "hated" notoriety.

Leona can tell it all. She told one young woman not to get the divorce but to put her heel on her husband's neck and grind it in now and then and there would be more harmony and her husband would love her more. He evidently

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing, occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, a severe headache, rheumatic twinges, a torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says: "I sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

SAYS COLD WEATHER BRINGS RETURN OF INFLUENZA

Public Must Be Careful To Avoid A Second Epidemic. Easier To Prevent Than Cure. What To Do.

"Encouraging reports of the fewer cases of influenza in this vicinity should not allow us to relax our vigilance or to become careless in the belief that the danger is all over," says a well known authority. "With the coming of cold weather there is apt to be a return of this frightful epidemic and its seriousness will depend on the extent of the precautions taken by the public to prevent infection."

When the air is full of influenza germs, you may be constantly breathing them into your nose and throat. But these danger germs may be avoided and you may make yourself practically immune to infection if you destroy the germ before it actually begins work in your blood.

During the recent serious epidemic, which hit Omaha so hard, most successful results were obtained by many through the simple breathing into the nose, throat and lungs of the medicated air of Oil of Hyomei. Probably no better, safer or more sensible prevention against influenza, Grippe, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Catarrh of the nose and throat could be employed than to go now to the nearest drug store and get a complete Hyomei outfit consisting of a bottle of the pure Oil of Hyomei and a little "pocket hard rubber" inhaler device into which a few drops of the oil are poured.

Carry this inhaler with you during the day and each half hour or so put it in your mouth and draw deep breaths of its pure healing germicidal air into the passages of your nose, throat and lungs to destroy any germs that may have found lodgment there. This simple precaution may save you a serious illness and the loss of several weeks' work. It is pleasant to use and not at all expensive as the inhaler will last a lifetime and further supplies of the Oil of Hyomei can be had at any drug store for a few cents.

Hundreds of people in this vicinity used Hyomei in this way during the recent crisis and avoided danger. They should not neglect it now for the danger is by no means over. Sherman & McConnell Drug Co.—Adv.
