

NEW OFFICERS TAKE CHAIRS IN OMAHA LODGES

Welcome Grove and Druid Camp Hold Joint Installation; Supreme Advisor Conducts Ceremony.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of Welcome Grove, Woodmen Circle, was held at Druid hall, Twenty-fourth and Ames avenue, Monday night. The occasion was the annual installation of officers, at which many past officers were present from adjoining cities.

The installation ceremonies were conducted by Harry E. La Rocco, supreme advisor, from St. Paul, Minn., assisted by Julia Sanders of John T. Yates grove of this city. The work was impressive and beautifully executed and the installing officers were presented with cut glass vases filled with red roses.

The officers of Druid camp were present and jointly installed with its sister grove. Many soldiers, members of Druid camp, who had returned from the army, were present and given seats of honor and presented with bouquets.

The following officers were installed: Mrs. Kate Remington, guardian; Mrs. Ann Callahan, past guardian; Anna Mole, advisor; Ruth Wandell, chaplain; Hattie Heath, clerk; Edith Parks, banner; Helen Hall, attendant; Miss Dannah Donnell, assistant attendant; Mrs. Ella Goodhart, inner sentinel; Lizzie Wakefield, outer sentinel; Dr. Winterstein, physician.

I. O. O. F. to Install Officers. On Thursday, January 16, Hesperian encampment No. 2, I. O. O. F., will have installation of officers. Several members of the grand encampment are expected to be present, including the grand patriarch. Several candidates will also be conducted through the wilderness.

Knights and Ladies of Security. Omaha council No. 2,295, of Knights and Ladies of Security, will give a dance Monday evening, January 14, at their new location, Swedish auditorium, third floor. This is the first entertainment in their new hall, having moved there the first of the year.

A postponed dance will be given by the A. I. N. and the U. S. N. E. at Lyric hall Monday evening. Tickets for the December 9 dance will be accepted Monday evening. Banner court, No. 540, of the Court of Honor, will give its first semi-monthly dance at the Swedish auditorium Monday night. This is one of the regular affairs that will be given by the society during the rest of the winter, and the social committee will do everything in their power to make it pleasant for every one that attends.

More Women Needed to Make Garments for Soldiers in Siberia

Omaha women have "fallen down" on a recent quota of 2,000 undershirts for Yankee soldiers in Siberia, according to Mrs. H. W. Pollack, secretary of the Red Cross hospital garments department.

"This quota should have been completed before Christmas and is not yet finished. If these boys don't get these warm undershirts this winter, they won't want them at all," said Mrs. Pollack.

There are a number of Omaha boys in the Siberian expedition. The vests are of gray felt, paper backed to keep out the wind, and lined with gray outing flannel. "An average of 50 women have been working here each day since the armistice was signed. We need at least 200," said Mrs. Pollack. "It is a false impression that there is no more Red Cross work to be done."

A large consignment of children's undershirts for refugee children is the next piece of work to be undertaken.

Two Admit Selling Liquor to Soldiers in Uniform

W. E. Smith pleaded guilty in federal court before Judge Muncer to selling liquor to a United States soldier in uniform and was sentenced to 30 days in Douglas county jail. Smith said that his father is a retired merchant at Shenandoah, Ia.

Grover Baker, negro, appeared in court in the uniform of a United States soldier. He pleaded guilty to selling liquor to a soldier and was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Joe Marosa, charged with selling soldiers a mixture of whisky, wine and grape fruit, pleaded not guilty. Fred Gotz, Joe Bruno and Neil Thompson were given a preliminary hearing this morning before United States Commissioner Neely. They are charged with transporting 325 pints of liquor from Minnesota into Nebraska. They denied the charge and the case was continued until Monday.

Forty-Eight Years in Service of Union Pacific Railroad

After having been in the service of the Union Pacific for more than 48 years, C. S. Stebbins, assistant general auditor, H. J. Stirling, has retired on pension and will spend several months in southern California. Mr. Stebbins' retirement became effective Friday, and at the close of the day he was presented with a gold watch and chain, a gift from the officials and employees of the general auditor's office. The presentation was by General Auditor Stirling.

Mr. Stebbins entered the service of the Union Pacific October 20, 1870, as secretary to the chief engineer and superintendent. From April to December, 1880, he was assistant general passenger agent and from December, 1880, to August 1887, general ticket agent, an office long since abolished. Since 1887 he was connected with the office of the general auditor, since 1911 being assistant.

About the first work that Mr. Stebbins was called upon to do after entering the employ of the Union Pacific was to work out a time scheme. Prior to that there was no standard time. Some of the trains were run on Chicago, some on St. Joseph and some on Union Pacific time. Chicago time was 30 minutes faster than that of the Union Pacific and 15 minutes faster than that of St. Joseph. Mr. Stebbins called attention to the fact that the Union Pacific clock had not been set for 3 years and as a result had gained 11 minutes. The time was set back one minute a day until the correction was made.

ARGONNE BATTLE WAS HELL, SAYS OMAHA FIGHTER

Relates Experiences "Over There" and Tells of How He Was Struck by Machine Gun Bullets.

"I saw the dead body of a Belgian woman chained to a machine gun," said Edward T. Murphy, war veteran who was wounded twice in the drive in the Argonne forest, and who is now on a six-day furlough at Newport News December 21. He was then sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio, where his injuries were treated.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy have another son in France. He is First Lt. Dennis M. Murphy, who is at present stationed at Marseilles, France, in charge of about 400 German prisoners.

DENNIS T. MURPHY.

the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis T. Murphy, 1621 Pinkney street. "I saw no other such acts committed, but that one was enough," continued Murphy. "We gave no quarter nor did we receive any in any of the engagements."

Murphy went overseas with the One Hundred and First infantry, Twenty-sixth division, company D, after having been transferred from the old Fifth Nebraska at Camp Cody. He had joined the Fifth at Lincoln on August 13, 1917. The Twenty-sixth division, to which Mr. Murphy had been transferred, was composed, principally, of men of the eastern states.

Private Murphy saw about six months of active service in France. He took part in the second battle of the Marne, in the fighting at Chateau Thierry, in the St. Mihiel engagement and in the Argonne forest. According to Mr. Murphy the severest fighting took place in the Argonne forest.

Argonne Drive Was Hell. "The St. Mihiel engagement was just a walk-away for the Americans, but the Argonne forest drive was hell," he said. "It was in the fighting about the Argonne forest that Private Murphy was wounded. One machine gun bullet ploughed its way through his cheek, while another struck him in the neck, partially paralyzing him. Stretcher-bearers picked him up immediately and took him to a dressing station. From here he was taken to an excavation hospital near General Pershing's headquarters. Finally he was transferred to the American base hospital, No. 3, at Monpont, France.

Private Murphy told of a raiding party of which he had been a member. The order had come to take an enemy trench, which had been giving the Americans much trouble. About 3 o'clock that morning the raiding party stole cautiously across No Man's land. They reached their objective safely, but on charging the trench they found only one lone German in possession of it. He was sending up flares as fast as he could in an effort to trick the Americans into thinking the trench still inhabited.

Cited for Bravery. Mr. Murphy also stated that his regiment had been cited for bravery in action in the Chateau Thierry engagement. According to Mr. Mur-

Fifty women, residents of Dundee, acted as sponsors of the affair. Among the prominent guests were Mayor Smyth, Major W. J. O'Brien, Major Lindquist, Major Boetcher and Captain Goodale.

Boys Pay for Window They Broke in Church and Are Again Free

Four large boy-attendants of Lothrop school were lined up Saturday before Judge Troup in juvenile court, on charges of malicious destruction of windows.

"The only reason that that boy could not break any windows was because he is a bum shot," explained Officer Miller to the court, pointing to one of the miscreants.

"Did you boys break any of the windows in your own homes?" asked the judge. The boys shook their heads negatively.

"Why didn't you?" continued the judicial inquisition. The boys looked at each other and then at the ceiling and then at the floor, but the answer did not come.

"Earl kicked in with the facts and he showed me the devastated district," added Mr. Miller. One of the broken windows was 32x54 and was in a church. Each will pay one-fourth of the expense of repairing the damage and will escape this time with a reprimand.
