SOCIETY

Winter Dancing Club Will Be Gay With Blue and Olive Drab

Quite famous is the Winter Dancing club for its membership now includes many returned warriors. The club is to resume their little dancing parties and a reunion affair will be given Wednesday, January 22, at Harte hall.

The men who have recently been released from service will wear their uniforms and with the blue of the army and the olive drab of the navy as a setting for the pretty frocks of the girls, the dance will be given an attractive military touch.

One of the largest affairs of the week will be the dancing party given this evening at the home of Mrs. E. W. Nash by Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Crofoot. The decorations will be simple, but very effective, tall vases of roses being used in the living rooms and dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tracy Burns will entertain at dinner at their home this evening, the guests attending the dancing party at the home of Mrs. E. W. Nash, after the dinner. The party will include: Messrs. and Mesdames: C. J. Stewart, 24, Ward Burgess, W. J. Rogers, Willard Horford.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kountze will also entertain informally at their home, preceding the dance. Luncheon parties were given at the athletic club today by Mrs. C. H. Taylor, who had six guests, and Mrs. Kathleen Storz who entertained a foursome. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Seiler will have a party of eight guests this evening at dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Nash will entertain a party of 14 guests, preceding the ball.

When Gold and Rose Are Loveliest

Rose and gold are a lovely contrast, especially when combined with pink. A beautiful evening dress developed in these three colors is illustrated in this model. The bodice is made of wide pink satin ribbon folded several times around the figure and ending in a huge bow at the side front. Over this bodice falls a cape of gold fish net. The skirt of rose brocade is draped over a petticoat of pale pink net, over which falls gold fish net. Gold slippers and rose stockings complete a very stunning evening gown.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mikova will entertain at a box party this evening at the concert given by their daughter, Miss Marie Mikova and Mr. Warren Proctor at the Brandeis. Their guests will include Messrs. and Mesdames: F. J. Kutak, V. Buresh, Miss Agnes Knoslicek, Sergt. Robert Kutak.

Victory club of Our Lady of Lourdes parish will give a dancing party Friday evening at Metropolitan hall.

Isaac F. Marcossou, Who Wrote "Criminal Rich," to Lecture

It has been said that no living American writer is so well equipped to speak of the vast problems of peace and reconstruction as Isaac F. Marcossou whose lecture on "The War—And After" at the Fontenelle hotel Friday afternoon, January 24, is arousing so much interest. Mr. Marcossou's knowledge of business conditions gained at first hand during his almost ceaseless war time traveling is of supreme value and importance to the United States as she faces the task of readjustment. Just as he met all the allied generals and premiers, so has he had much contact with all the great European leaders of capital and commerce. He numbers among his close friends men like Sir Albert Stanley, president of the British board of trade; Bonar Law, British chancellor of the exchequer; Dr. Christopher Addison, the British minister of reconstruction; M. Clementel, the French minister of commerce, and all the rest of that notable group which will shape the future economic destiny of Europe.

Mr. Marcossou's acquaintance with the big business in the United States is no less complete. His writings about Wall street won him the confidence of men like Harrison, Archbold and Ryan. It was Mr. Marcossou who coined that famous phrase "the criminal rich." He is one of the few writing men who has appreciated the high and necessary place that business has in the romance of the world's work.

A surprise party was given in honor of Miss Edna Coddington, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Nordstrom, Tuesday evening. The guests included: Misses—Edna Coddington, Naomi Fleming, Edna Nordstrom, Ada Davis, Ellen Nordstrom, Rose Malacy, June Nelson, Edith Baylan, Mildred Nelson, Faye Snook, Vesta Melvin, Sophie Dixon, Irene Sullivan, Alma Wallen, May Berch, Mildred Dalby, Madeline Desterhouse. Messrs—David Nordstrom, Walter Anderson, Al Dixon, John Bailey, Carl James Molgard, Alden Sandstrom, Roy Wallen, Edward Nordstrom, George Ellsworth, Fred Dalby, William Holmes, Al Tighe, Mike Maher, William Smith, Robert Katsler.

Mrs. H. Everden entertained the Comus club at her home, Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. C. E. Langstrom, Mrs. J. F. Dimick, Mrs. and Ben Marti. Mrs. Peter Dykstra will be hostess for the next meeting of the club.

Artist Makes Frames. To many Americans paintings by American artists mean Whistler and Sergent. As a matter of fact America's advance in painting is just as remarkable as in science and the present collection shown by the Fine Arts society at the Fontenelle hotel is an example. Gathered in this collection are wonderful canvases by such well known American painters as Benjamin West, Daniel Garber and many others. The charm of this exhibit does not end with the pictures but visitors will find much to interest them in many of the frames. In Boston lives a man, Herman D. Murphy, who is a great artist in his own line—that of making frames. Mr. Murphy first studied his painting until a design for a frame evolves in his mind.

Mrs. James R. Cain will give vocal numbers between acts at the production of Ibsen's "Doll's House," which will be presented by the public speaking department of the Omaha Woman's club, Friday evening, at the Scottish Rite cathedral. The proceeds of the affair will be given to the fund for Armenian relief. The curtain will rise promptly at 8 p.m.

Mrs. James Rebal and Mrs. Clyde Sunblad will entertain the members of the Train School Mothers' club at the home of Mrs. Rebal, Friday afternoon. Liberty Chapter, O. E. S. has postponed their meeting from January 17 to 24.

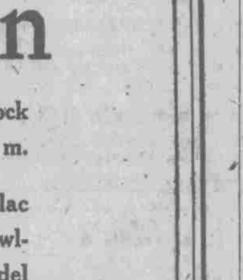

Mrs. C. B. Brown entertained at luncheon at the hotel today, when covers were laid for seven guests. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Davis will have a dinner party of eight, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Foye will entertain at dinner followed by a theater party, Monday evening.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Rush. Dear Miss Fairfax: We are twin girls and are 18 years old. We have light hair and dark eyes. We are from a wealthy family and always have nice clothes. We are good girls, but don't think we are any better than other people, but it seems as if none of the young men care for us. Our parents do not object to our keeping company with the young men. We have given up all personal or intimate letters to young people to our home. They always seem to enjoy themselves but they never fall in love with us. Will you please tell us how we can win a couple of nice young men? What would be an interesting subject to talk about the first night you are with a young man? We are sort of beautiful and would like to know how to act in the company of young men. Should they be allowed to show their affection in any way? Please advise, because we do not get to enjoy life as the other young girls. DORA AND DORIS.

Do not "rush" the boys. Let them do some of the seeking. When the right men arrive you will have no difficulty in winning them. Keep on topics of general interest, nothing too personal or intimate. Act natural in the company of young men—just the same as you would in the company of girls. By no means allow them to show their affection because they could have no real affection in the beginning. Perhaps you take your enjoyment, or lack of it, too seriously. Be natural, enjoy what comes your way and do not worry over what does not come. Change Your Position. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am coming to you with my troubles, and would like to know if there are others placed as I am that would give me a little advice. I am a housekeeper for five men on a farm. Now many have told me to do other work, that they thought I would like better, but I just love to do housework, and then I can have my child with me where if I did other work it would leave her in the care of others, and I want her myself. Now, I am as proud of a nice batch of light fluff bread as some people are of a new hat, and all other work I find just as much pleasure in doing around a home. As my own boss about the house and have plenty to work with. But these are my troubles. It seems like most of the men who have been here working in the last two years have no table manners at all, eat with knives, arms on table, and make such a noise in eating that one has no desire to stay at the table. Go up to their rooms with boots on. Now, the house is not modern, but surely they must try to take a bath once in a while so the odor about their honorably discharged from his service should I now take down his service star? A. H. Try Fuller's earth for a felt hat. The First Baptist church is on Twenty-ninth avenue and Harney streets. My space is too limited to delve into discussion of creeds but it is customary, among the strict Baptists to say grace before meals. It is proper to take down the service stars when your brothers return.

Too Anxious. Dear Miss Fairfax: We are two girls 16 years old and are considered very good looking and have many admirers. At parties the boys treat us very nicely and we have very good times but they never ask to take us home. Why is this? How can we remedy this? Hoping to see the answer in The Bee soon. PALE I don't know I am sure. You may be too anxious. Send in Your Name. persons would not be so offensive to those in the house with them. I never was a crank, but I surely will be if I must put up with this much longer, or must I just make up my mind "beggars must not be choosers." Hope some one will give me a little help. CRANK. I can imagine how such behavior on the part of the men for whom you keep house would irritate you to tears. Can you not change your position and keep house for persons of more refinement? Such an atmosphere is not the proper one in which to bring up your child. You should have given me your full name and address as I might have been able to help you. Under the circumstances I can only suggest that you write to Miss O'Brien, Government Employment Bureau, Court House, Omaha, Neb.

A Worthless Father. Dear Miss Fairfax: As I am a daily reader of your columns I decided to come to you for advice. I am a mother of four little girls of whom I am very proud, of which only one is of school age. My husband has left me three times within the last three years. He never wanted children and often made the remark that nobody but a fool would have three or four. At present I get about very good care of them. On account of extra trouble (recent strike) my funds were much smaller than usual and I have been very short. We have all had the influenza and the children have worn clothes I did laundry work to help along before we were sick, but find it very unsatisfactory as I have not much room. I have a college education and I thought perhaps you could help me find something that I could do at home that would help me meet my expenses. My baby is not a year old so I cannot do much away from home. I will do plain sewing, embroidery, addressing of envelopes, anything that is honorable, for the sake of my little ones, as they are all the comfort I have. Would you advise me to get a divorce, as I feel confident that my husband will never do the right thing by his family. He has been gone over a month at a time without calling up to see if the children were well, and he never gave them a thing for Christmas. I often get the blues sitting here alone thinking of my troubles. Other women with matrimonial troubles surely have my sympathy. Thanking you in advance. HOPEFUL. Such a man as you describe is utterly worthless and the sooner you are freed from a person of that caliber, the better you will succeed. The father should provide for his children and if he does not do so willingly, then the law should interfere and force him to do so.

Divorced Man. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 22 years of age and am in love with a young man, 27. He has been married and divorced. He seems real gentlemanly and says he loves me, and I want to ask your advice. Should I go with him? Thanking you for an immediate reply, I am L. I. P. Why not marry him, unless it is against your religious principles. Because the man is divorced is no reason for refusing to marry him unless he was the cause of the trouble.

Creeds and Service Stars. Dear Miss Fairfax: As you have helped so many I will write to ask you if you can help me any. What is the easiest way of cleaning a white felt hat? Is the First Baptist church in Omaha on Twenty-ninth and Harney streets? If not where is it? and can you tell me anything about the religion, would like to know if it's their custom to say a grace before eating or not? I had two brothers in the service; as one now has an

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestinal canal is an important part of every individual, important every inch of its thirty feet. The upper portion of it is intended for the digestion of food and absorption of its useful portions. But the lower part is concerned with the elimination of waste material.

It is, in other words, the great sewer of the body. The more food eaten, the greater the waste. If a sewer becomes clogged up, its contents stagnate and become more and more dangerous.

Constipation means more than failure to evacuate the bowels regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action. Increased amounts of irritating and poisonous substances are formed. Absorption of these into the blood follows. Self-poisoning results.

Danger, disorder, disease, or even death follow. Pills, purgative mineral waters, castor oil, salts, etc., do not cure constipation or prevent its consequences. They make it worse because they do not only irritate the bowels, but they "wear out" in effect and so must be taken in increasing doses, making constipation a habit.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation overcomes constipation by helping Nature re-establish easy, daily, thorough bowel evacuation as "regular as clockwork." Nujol prevents stagnation and self-poisoning. Nujol forms no habit, except a natural, healthy habit. After Nujol has trained the bowels to act, it can be dispensed with.
